HARDING DEMANDS WAR SURVEY, STRIKE BAN, RELIEF FOR RAILWAYS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Following are striking excerpts from President Harding's message to Congress today:

Treaties of armed alliance can have no likelihood of American sanction, but we believe in respecting the rights of nations, in the value of conference and consultation, in the effectiveness of leaders of nations looking each other in the face before restoring to * * * arms.

The proposed survey of a plan to draft all the resources of the republic, human and material, for national defense. * * * I commend. * * * Every experience in the adjustment and liquidation of war claims and the settlement of war obligations persuades me we ought to be prepared for such universal call to armed defense.

There are conditions relating to its (prohibition) enforcement which savor of a nation-wide scandal. It is the most demoralizing factor in our public life.

The day is unlikely to come when the eighteenth amendment will be repealed. * * * If the statutory provisions for its enforcement are contrary to public opinion * * * the rigorous and literal enforcement will concentrate public attention on any requisite modification.

I know of no problem exceeding in importance this one of transportation. * * * Government operation does not afford the cure. * * * The merger of lines * * * and the consolidation of facilities are suggested ways of economy and efficiency.

The railroad labor board is not so constituted as best to serve the public interest. With six partisan members on a board of nine * * * it is inevitable that the partisan viewpoint is maintained * * * in decisions.

I wish I could bring to you the precise recommendation for the prevention of strikes. * * * It is an impotent civilization and an inadequate government which lacks the genius and the courage to guard against such a menace to public welfare as we experienced last summer.

The coal and railway strikes * * * had no excuse for being and less justification for their delayed settlement.

Twice Congress has attempted the correction of the evils incident to child employment. I recommend the submission of an amendment.

The farm loan bureau * * * will have its powers enlarged to provide ample farm production credits, as well as enlarged land credits.

Flames Destroy 30 Business Blocks; Temporarily Halted By Dynamite Blasts, Regain Fury, Menace Docks

Citizens Powerless Against Blaze Fanned By North Wind; Hospital Patients in Danger, Taken to Safety

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The American Red Cross today telegraphed George Filmore, its Pacific coast division manager with headquarters at San Francisco, to make an investigation of the fire at Astoria, Ore., with the view of giving relief, if found necessary.

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 8.—More than thirty blocks of the business district of Astoria, including part of the older residence district, most of the leading business houses and banks were razed by the fire.

Two deaths were reported and there were rumors of many persons being injured.

Word was sent to Portland, 100 miles from here that Astoria was in need of money, as all the banks had been burned and cash locked in the vaults. All bakeries were burned and bread was needed.

Beds will be obtained from a hotel at Seaside, twenty miles from Astoria, and the hotel would be used by the homeless.

Two persons are known to be dead, W. H. Fellman, a furniture dealer, and Norris Staples, president of the Bank of Commerce, who died of heart failure while helping to remove automobiles from a garage.

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec 8.—(United Press.)—At 9 o'clock this morning the fire which had wiped out the business district of Astoria, had been temporarily checked by the use of dynamite. Loss is estimated at nearly $20,000,000.

At 11 a. m. the fire fighters were barely holding their own against the blaze, which had regained its former fury and was then consuming the blocks between Sixteenth and Seventeenth on Commercial street.

The Catholic hospital was in the line of the advancing flames. All patients have been removed and taken to the high school.

COMMUNICATION IS CUT WITH CITY.

[illegible] tion with outside towns is from a temporary telephone office in the city hall building, which may have to be abandoned.

The fire, which was of unknown origin, broke out in Thiel Brothers' restaurant on Commercial street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

By 4 a. m. the flames had leaped Commercial street and Bond street, bounding the block where it started, and had wiped out the Mason-Ehrman wholesale house, Allen & Lewis Bee Hive Department Store, Palace Restaurant, Astoria Hardware company, Bank of Commerce, American Railway Express Company, and many other business houses.

Both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph offices were destroyed, thus slowing down communication.

FLAMES RAZE BUSINESS BLOCKS.

After spreading from the original block the fire destroyed the Star and Liberty theaters, Owl Drug store and the office building lately occupied by the Astoria Budget.

The fire consumed the business district and rendered homeless the dwellers in hotels and rooming houses in its path. The manager and clerks of the Weinhard-Astoria hotel and the Northern hotel warned their guests in time to seek LAUSANNE, Dec. 8.—The Turks today accepted the freedom of the Dardanelles with minor reservations and the meeting was adjourned until this afternoon to permit Lord Curzon to consult the allies before replying.

The Turkish answer did not seriously clash with the allied plan.

It was anticipated the Turks would keep open certain points in the Dardanelles agreement until a settlement became possible on other issues.

The conference is expected to adjourn December 23 for Christmas.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Premiers of the allies came to London today for a conference about Germany with the fate of at least three governments dependent upon the outcome.

The conference is referred to as the most decisive since Versailles. Instead of a great conglomeration of delegates, with their unwieldy staffs, four men will gather around a table at 10 Downing street.

The parley program, it is semi-officially said, will be a discussion of:

1—A moratorium for Germany on condition France holds the Rhine.

2—Adjustments of debts, in view of the American attitude, which is expected to be stated by the United States observer.

3—An international loan, which is considered impossible at present.

4—Reform of Germany's budget and finances

Fire Escapes Crowded When Firemen Arrive: Woman Risks Life to Warn Occupants of Rooms of Danger

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—The lives of more than a score of persons were endangered, many were overcome by smoke, and several were injured in a fire which broke out early today in the Gartland hotel, Geary and Larkin streets, causing damage estimated at between $50,000 and $100,000. In a series of thrilling rescues a number of the hotel's guests were carried to safety.

Among the persons injured in the fire were:

R. Rudy, chief operator; cuts and bruises.

Barris Smolless, bruised and sprained arm.

The fire is believed to have started either in the ladies' rest room or in the grill in the first floor. Within a few moments after the conflagration was discovered the entire structure was in flames. The fire department had great difficulty in getting the blaze under control and four alarms were turned in, bringing apparatus from all parts of the city.

Truckman Nichols narrowly escaped bleeding to death. He had the arteries in his arm cut by falling glass and was carried from the flaming hotel by one of his companions who bound up the gash.

Miss V. Le Laurin, who lived on the sixth floor, was one of the heroines of the blaze. She knocked at every door on her floor, and was finally rescued by a fireman when she was overcome.

Search in Lower California For Clara Phillips Abandoned by Deputies.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—Clara Phillips today lost her legal right to continue her fight for a new trial when the district attorney's office made a motion before Judge Houser that no official recognition be given of her appeal to the jury's verdict.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—(By the United Press).—Sheriff Traeger today was directing an exhaustive search of Los Angeles in the belief that Clara Phillips, escaped hammer slayer, was in hiding not far from the scene of her dash for freedom.

Traeger and Under-sheriff Biscailuz last night returned from the border, abandoning temporarily the intensive investigation in Lower California. Deputy Sheriff Frank De War remained at the border to direct continued vigilance for traces of the fugitive.

Three men who talked with Armour Phillips the night of the escape were found and taken to the sheriff's office today. Officers expected to get information from them regarding the alibi on which Phillips obtained his release and to warrant his being taken into custody.

A raid was conducted by Captain Walter Hotz on an apartment house where two men were questioned by the officers. According to a report, two men had driven a car up to the lot behind the apartment and a woman, answering the description of Mrs. Phillips, had been seen clinging to the running board. Two men were found in the apartment but no trace of any girl was found.

Deputy District Attorney Charles W. Fricke, who prosecuted Mrs. Phillips, said today that, unless she appears in court within 30 days after her appeal is filed, it will be null and void.

Despatches from Juarez, Mexico, Byers, Colo., Houston, Tex., and Phoenix, Ariz., report mysterious airships and "phantom women" answering Mrs. Phillips' description as seen there. No identification has been made.

FOUR IRISH REBELS ARE EXECUTED

'Rory' O'Connor, Liam Mellowes and Two Others Put to Death in Reprisal For Shooting of Dail Members

Startling Swiftness With Which Free State Government Acts on Assassination Causes Dublin Sensation

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellowes, together with two other Irish rebels, Joseph McKenny and Richard Barrett, were executed in Mountjoy prison this morning, it was officially announced.

The prisoners were tried by a military courtmartial during the night, found guilty and sentenced to death. The death sentence was carried out at 9:20 o'clock this morning. Three priests were present. The prisoners, blindfolded, were marched to the place of execution.

An official army report says the four men were executed as a reprisal for the assassination of Sean Hales, the deputy shot yesterday, and as a warning to those associated with them "in the conspiracy of assassination against the representatives of the Irish people."

SWIFT REPRISALS CAUSE SENSATION.

The startling swiftness with which the free state government acted in consequence of the assassination of Deputy Hales caused a great sensation among Dubliners, used as they are to sensational happenings. Through today's execution the Irregulars lost two of their principal leaders and two other important although less known men. All four surrendered after the destruction of the Four Courts, in the seizure of which O'Connor and Mellowes took a leading part.

Roderick (Rory) O'Connor and Liam Mellowes were leaders of the band of Irish insurgents that had the Four Courts building in Dubline in its stand against the Free State troops last June. Each was taken prisoner when the building was captured after a three-day siege.

BED-RIDDEN SOLDIER OF FREE STATE SLAIN

DUBLIN, Dec. 8. (By International News Service).—The reprisal executions of "Rory" O'Connor, Liam Mellowes, Joseph McKenny and Richard Barrett led to counter violence by the republicans today. Republican irregulars broke into Mercers hospital, shooting to death a bed-ridden Free State soldier as he lay helpless. The assailants escaped after menacing the nurses with revolvers and throwing the whole hospital into panic.

Guards around all Irish government buildings have been increased and all officials are accompanied by bodyguards when they go into the street.

Free State officials are most active rounding up republican suspects. Many additional arrests have been made. It was reported that a spy had been captured in the ranks of the Free State army at Cork. He is suspected of having given the irregulars information which led to the fatal ambush in Cork county when Michael Collins was shot to death.

Deputy Speaker Patrick O'Malley of the Dail Eireann, who was wounded yesterday when Deputy Hales was assassinated, was still in a serious condition today.

HEALY DENOUNCED AS ENEMY OF ERIN.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Irish Republicans, says a despatch to the Evening Standard from Dublin, have issued a manifesto describing Timothy Healy, the governor-general, as a life-long enemy of the nation. The manifesto adds:

"The fight will go on as long as there is a man in Ireland. It is war to the death."

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—There was a heated scene in the Dail Eireann this afternoon when Deputy Johnson, a Laborite, attempted to protest against the execution of O'Connor and other irregulars. He intimated that the Laborites may try to overcome the Cosgrove ministry.

President's Comment in Message On Four-Power Pact Gives Ex-Premier Hope.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8. (By the Associated Press).—Georges Clemenceau, repeating his plea for France in an address here today, interpreted a paragraph of President Harding's annual message to Congress as an "overture" looking toward the sort of European rapprochement for which he hopes.

The President's words dealt with the four-power treaty, and were as follows:

"The four-power pact, which abolishes every probability of war in the Pacific, has brought new confidence in a maintained peace, and I can well believe it might be made a model for like assurances wherever in the world any common interests are concerned."

After reading this extract from the President's message, M. Clemenceau said:

"I hope the diplomats will make something of it."

ABOLITION OF RAILROAD LABOR BOARD ADVOCATED; DRY ENFORCEMENT FLAYED

President Urges Railway Mergers; Volstead Law Change Hinted; Aid Outlined for Farm Interests

AMENDMENT ON CHILD LABOR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—In a vigorous message, hitting straight from the shoulder on a number of great domestic issues, President Harding went before a joint session of Congress this afternoon with the most far-reaching program the administration has yet offered for dealing with the railroad situation, agricultural relief and prohibition enforcement.

The great part of the President's long message dealt with this trio of national troubles, and chief among his recommendations were the following:

Railroads—He suggested the advisability of abolishing the railway labor board, as at present constituted, and the transfer of its functions to the Interstate Commerce Commission, through the addition of four news members who would constitute "a labor division." He dismissed the idea of government operation as already having failed and as impractical.

He suggested and endorsed the theory that railroad strikes should be prohibited by law.

He endorsed the living wage for railway workers.

The government, he emphasized, has gone so far in regulating rates and operation that it is now up to the government to point the way to reduced freight costs and at the same time assure the railroads a fair return on their invested capital.

Merger of lines into systems, use of common terminals, pooling of freight cars and all consolidation facilities, he thought, offered some measure of relief.

Dry Enforcement "Nation-Wide Scandal"

Prohibition Enforcement: He characterized the present enforcement as a "nation-wide scandal," and "the most demoralizing factor of our national life."

He announced his intention of summoning to Washington at an early date a conference of the governors of all the states for a discussion of the whole enforcement [illegible] of closer cooperation between state and federal officers must come stricter observance of the law.

He warned those who evade the prohibition law they are undermining the moral fibre of the republic.

He expressed the belief that the eighteenth amendment is in the constitution to stay.

Changes in Volstead Law Held Possible

He endorsed the statutory enforcement law (the Volstead law) but recognized the possibility of modification. Strict enforcement will reveal, he said, whether a deliberate public opinion wants modification.

Agricultural Relief: He urgently recommended the need of greater credit facilities for the farmer, extended through the nation's great financial system.

He declared the farmers should have lower freight rates for moving their crops to market and that also new channels to markets must be opened up through improved waterways and highways.

Child Labor Amendment to Constitution Urged

President Harding recommended two new constitutional amendments:

1—A child labor amendment.

2—An amendment prohibiting the issuance of tax free securities by the states and municipalities, which has resulted in the tying up of $18,000,000,000 on which the government is getting no taxes.

The president dealt only perfunctorily with foreign relations. He declared the nation was threatened with no wars and he defended vigorously the part America has played in the international conferences abroad, saying America has been influential in those councils.

America is willing, he said, to help others other countries with their chaotic currency and commercial conditions, but not at the expense of dragging America down to their level.

Register and Educate Aliens in America

Contrary to expectations held in some quarters the President made no recommendation for letting down the immigration bars to allow an influx of "common labor."

"Before enlarging the immigration quotas," the President said, "it would be better to register and educate those aliens already in the United States."

In this connection the President declared the nation has not yet escaped the "red" menace that became prevalent during and after the war.

"Abusing the hospitality of our shores," he said, "are the advocates of revolution, finding their deluded followers among those who take on the habiliments of an American without knowing the American soul. There is a recrudescence of hyphenated Americanism."

While the President dealt with a variety of subjects in this, his annual report on the state of the nation, it was to the pressing problems of agricultural relief, transportation betterment and stricter enforcement of the prohibition law that he dealt with most extensively.

No Readjustment Except All Participate

The President's message follows, in part:

So many problems are calling [illegible] of them, in the face of the known limitation of a short session of Congress, would seem to lack sincerity of purpose. It is four years since the World War ended, but the inevitable readjustment of the social and economic order is not more than barely begun. There is no acceptance of pre-war conditions anywhere in the world. In a very general way humanity harbors individual wishes to go on with war-time compensations for production with pre-war requirements in expenditure. In short, everyone, speaking broadly, craves readjustment for everybody except himself, while there can be no just and permanent readjustment except when all participate.

The civilization which measured its strength of genius and the power of science and the resources of industries, in addition to testing the limits of man power and the endurance and heroism of men and women—that same civilization is brought to its severest test in restoring a tranquil order and committing humanity to the stable ways of peace.

Never Again Will Be Precisely Old Order

In the sober and deliberate appraisal of pre-war civilization makes it seem a worthwhile in-

ROW ON PRINTING LIKELY TO DELAY SPECIAL ELECTION

Dispute Over Proclamation's Cost to Be Settled By Arbitration.

BERKELEY, Dec. 8.—That the special election called for January 20 to vote on a proposed city manager form of government, a referendum on the Berkeley waterfront lease and other issues, will not be held loomed today as a probability. The city council in session this morning refused to ratify an agreement made between Mayor Louis Bartlett and the official Berkeley paper whereby a disputed rate for city printing would be paid for the publication of the election proclamation.

Councilman Charles Heywood led the opposition of the remaining members of the council to singling out one specific piece of legislation in the controversy between the mayor and the official paper. The other council members declared that one price should be agreed upon for all legal printing.

A long discussion before the council ended with instruction to the city clerk that the election proclamation be not printed until the mayor and the publisher of the official newspaper agree on a price for official printing pending the findings of an arbitration board which is to be named to settle the dispute.

Mayor Bartlett declared that he would not pay any sum higher than the amount charged for the same work last year. This, the official paper has refused to accept. As Monday is the last day on which the election proclamation can be published for the election on January 20, the probability of an indefinite postponement of the contest today faced the council.

Patrolman Entler aroused the sleepers in the rooming house above the Bee Hive department store and other rooming houses in the threatened area.

In the block north of Bond street, in addition to two big warehouses, the N. M. Nelson Furniture company and the Dixie Baking company's plant, which were destroyed, the Sanborn dock and other docks in this block were also threatened.

Insurance companies have just paid a $1,000,000 loss covering the recent destruction of the Hammond Lumber company plant in Astoria, but insurance surveyors recently reduced rates "because Astoria never had a fire."

The Astoria Savings Bank and the Astoria National Bank were destroyed and the Budget and Astorian, newspaper plants, were gutted.

The flames were fanned during the early hours of the fire by a strong north wind, which switched later to the south. A heavy rain fell during the morning hours.

The rapid spread of the flames is considered due to the numerous frame buildings in the path of the conflagration.

Dynamite was used in half a dozen places to raze buildings in an effort to check the flames. The long distance telephone offices were temporarily established in the city hall as an emergency, although the telephone exchange escaped the fire.

Berkeley Woman Falls into Ditch; Ditto Rescuer

BERKELEY, Dec. 8.—Mrs. E. E. Yaeger, society matron living at the Palazzo Apartments, 2406 Telegraph avenue, was rescued at 6 o'clock last night from a sewer ditch at Telegraph and Ashby avenues, into which she had fallen.

Mrs. Yaeger's cries for help, after she declares that she had sunk into mud up to her knees, were heard by a man passer-by. The rescuer held down a helping hand to Mrs. Yaeger. Then, says Mrs. Yaeger, in her report to the college city police, the rescuer lost his balance and fell into the ditch also.

Renewed cries for help then came from the ditch. Two men from a nearby store heard the calls of distress and succeeded in rescuing the couple without further difficulties. So upset was she, says Mrs. Yaeger, that she forgot to obtain the name of the man who first went to her rescue. The ditch, it is declared, is more than six feet deep.

In reporting her accident to the police Mrs. Yaeger declares she wants damages for these ruined articles of wearing apparel:

One $500 Hudson seal coat, one $100 dress, silk underclothing, a pair of shoes and stockings and a silk umbrella.

She charged also that there were not enough warning lights on the ditch.

Michael Murphy, contractor of 1321 Milvia street, who had charge of the excavation work which is being done as part of the improvement of Telegraph avenue, declares that he had placed sufficient lights on the ditch.

"I always keep plenty of lights on excavations I dig," says he. "I can't help it if people fall into a ditch."

Murphy's statements are borne out by Officer Ralph Pidgeon. A further investigation was made by Officer Frank Waterbury. Mrs. Yaeger declares that she will bring suit against Murphy for her damaged clothing. She is confined to her home today suffering from shock as a result of the accident.

FLAGS PRESENTED TO TWO JUDGES

Superior Judge L. S. Church, a graduate of the Cole Grammar School, was honored today by the graduating class of the school who presented to his court a large American flag. The presentation was for two purposes, first in honor of the jurist and secondly in honor of his court in which naturalization proceedings are held.

Fifty members of the school appeared in the court room under the leadership of Miss Alice Stewart, teacher of the civics class. Following the presentation the pupils went to Department 3 where they witnessed the presentation of a silk flag to Judge George E. Samuels.

This flag was given by Mrs. Georgia Hidgman, representing the Susan-Lincoln-Mill Post of the Woman's Relief Corps who is also the chairman of the American committee of that order.

The formal presentation of the flag to Superior Judge Church was made by Jared Davis, president of the graduating class.

New Mexican Forests Will Be Exploited

(By International News Service.)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 8—Capitalists in this city have organized the White Pine Lumber company, with a capitalization of $6,000,000, for the purpose of developing immense tracts of white pine lumber in New Mexico, covering some 600,000 acres. The sum of $1,000,000 has been paid into the concern in cash for the construction of fifty miles of standard gauge railroad and the erection of great mills for the manufacture of lumber, which work is under way. Guy A. Porter, capitalist and extensive business property owner, of Charleston, is the chief figure in the concern. Among those associated with him are former Governor W. A. McCorkle, Fred Porter, former Mayor George E. Breece, M. M. Williamson, Isaac Lowenstein and Angus MacDonald.

TEACHERS TO HAVE JOLLY HOLIDAYS

"Say, Louise, have you made any arrangements for the Christmas holidays yet?"

"No, I don't intend to make any very elaborate plans. My home is back East, you know, so I won't be able to go home until next summer."

"I was thinking of that. Why don't you come home with me? Mother and Dad would be glad to have you. It's a small town, but there are lots of lovely people there and the holidays are brimful of interesting things to do."

"You're a darling to ask me, and I will accept right now."

"I am sure you will love our town. After teaching youngsters arithmetic all these months we both deserve a lot of fun. There will be two or three dances and a lot of other things."

"I see where I am going to need a new party dress before I visit your town. I don't want your friends to be ashamed of me."

"Don't worry about that. There is no danger. [illegible]"

"I insist on getting a new dress. I know what I'll do, though. I'll go to Cherry's at 515 13th street and buy a party dress on credit. I got my suit there and it was so satisfactory, and Cherry's allow one to make such convenient arrangements for payments." Cherry's store for men is at 528 13th street.—Advertisement.

'GETTING BETTER' CURE IS FOUND

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 8.—"Who says I am sick? I am not, I am not, I am not!"

This is the slogan of a new self-cure exponent who has just come to London.

He is Professor Kemp, of Amsterdam, and his theory is that demonstration rather than expounding ideas are of the greatest benefit to the physically affected.

M. Coue's slogan—"Every day and in every way I am getting better and better"—he regards as only fit for children. Instead he [illegible] tive suggestion" and deals with what he calls "muscle reading."

He lays no claim to cure organic troubles. But he believes he can help to eliminate pain.

He welcomes patients suffering from such troubles as deafness, paralysis, sciatica, blindness or stuttering. He likes his audience to consist half of normal, healthy people. On them he endeavors to demonstrate the art of suggestion in simple instances of putting them to sleep, falling down under the strain of carrying a single sheet of paper in their hands, and being unable to rise from their seats.

Soldiers and people used to discipline make his best subjects.

SOLIDARITY FOR EASTBAY URGED

BERKELEY, Dec. 8.—Residents of the bay cities were urged to forget selfish interests an dwork for a greater California, which he declared was destined to be the industrial capital of the west by John S. Drum, president of the Mercantile Trust Company of California, in speaking last night at a meeting held at the Hotel Whitecotton under the auspices of the Berkeley Rotary Club.

As soon as California developed basic necessities for manufacturing, this state and the other eleven states west of the Rockies, Drum declared, would be self-sustaining in industrial development as well as in agriculture. Drum urged all bay cities to work for a solidarity of development and to merge their interests in plans for a greater state.

Board of Education Backs Election on School Bonds

A resolution, formally declaring it the purpose of the Board of Education to hold an election for bonds for new schools, was adopted by the board unanimously last night after some discussion.

The resolution, it was agreed, commits the board to nothing and does not even name the amount of the bond issue, but it does place the matter of the bonds upon a formal footing and makes regular any future moves in connection with the bond issue.

Director Daisy Short, speaking of the bond issue, asked many questions, saying that she, as a member of the board was not enlightened as to what was going on.

"As a member of the Board of Education," she said, "I will state without qualification that I wish to see ampler means provided for our school children. I absolutely favor a bond election. But, as a member of the Board of Education, I cannot be for this bond issue until I have more information than now concerning the method of its administration. A bond issue must be large, some eight or ten or twelve million; and until we at least have some idea of how these bonds are going to be administered, I cannot be for them."

BOYLE FOR ADOPTION.

President Harry Boyle called for the immediate adoption of the resolution. Commissioner Harry Edwards called for consideration. Director Daisy Short, discussing the matter further, said that the bond issue is to be based on a survey by the superintendent of schools.

"We do not question the survey," she said, "but as for the millions of dollars to be spent in the future I do say that we are entitled to know whether that money is going to be spent wholesale or are we going to have guidance?"

Mrs. Short alleged that "committees with powers which seem to be above the board's" are being seen in the pre-campaign work.

Commissioner Edwards advised that the resolution be laid over, but Boyle stopped it and brought it to a vote.

"If any one thinks this bond issue should not go through," said Boyle, "let him say so now, or forever after hold his peace."

TEXT OF RESOLUTION.

The resolution for the bond issue is as follows:

Whereas, The survey as submitted by the superintendent shows that housing facilities must be provided for 18,000 additional students by August, 1927, in addition to the housing facilities that have been provided for by the present bond issue, and that there is at the present time 357 classes now housed in temporary buildings; and,

Whereas, The superintendent of schools, in accordance with instructions contained in the resolution adopted by the board of education June 19, 1922, submitted to the board of education on October 23, 1922, a survey showing the needs of the public schools of this city for additional housing facilities and for alterations and remodeling of the physical plant to place it upon a basis of adequacy and efficiency; and,

Whereas, San Francisco has recently voted a twelve million dollar bond issue for schools in order to get rid of their shacks; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this board of education officially declare its intention by adopting this resolution as being in favor of holding a school bond election for voting for such an amount of bonds as will be decided upon by the board of education upon the completion of the surveys now being made for the purchase of the necessary sites and erection of the necessary buildings to care for the rapidly increasing school population in Oakland. Such an election's date, and the amount of the bonds, to be decided at a later date.

Boyle today secured a desk and opened campaign offices in the rooms usually occupied by the superintendent's council, on the eleventh floor of the City Hall.

FESSEL'S BODY STILL IN MINE, SAYS COMMITTEE

Governor's Investigators Do Not Accept Theory That He Caused Fire.

William Fessel's body is still in the depths of the Argonaut mine at Jackson, and will be found only when the mine is unwatered and thoroughly explored.

This is the belief of the gubernatorial committee appointed to investigate the mine disaster of August 27, 1922, when 47 miners lost their lives in a fire of undetermined origin.

The committee set forth in its recent report to Governor William D. Stephens that while it was unable to fix the cause of the fire it is convinced that Fessel did not start the fire and that Fessel did not escape and go to Arizona, as reported, thus agreeing with The TRIBUNE'S exclusive article of several weeks ago.

"This theory is improbable," the committee decided. "The reports of Fessel's appearance in Arizona have been thoroughly investigated and are unfounded. His body is still in the mine and will probably be found when the shaft is opened.

MESSAGE ON ROCK.

"Regarding the message written on the rock in the crosscut where the entombed men had bulkheaded themselves in, which seems to have been signed by Fessel, it is, of course, possible that this message was written by someone else and that they were attempting to write something about Fessel when overcome by gas and therefore unable to complete it.

"This would of necessity be so, providing Fessel was not with the men who bulkheaded themselves in. But even this inference would not by any means positively fix on Fessel the setting fire to the shaft, as he might have gone to some other part of the mine in an endeavor to find a better place, freer from gas and smoke, or to obtain material that was needed for the bulkhead."

MINERS NOT WARNED.

The committee's report declared that Shift Boss Clarence Bradshaw, who with two miners broke the news that a fire was raging in the depths of the mine, did not use good judgment in failing to notify the men at work on the levels below of the fire.

It was set forth that an effort should have been made to warn the men also that Bradshaw should have stopped, or used the telephone to direct the stopping of the Muldoon fan in order to reverse the air current in the mine.

GIRLS OF OLD JUST AS BOLD, SAYS "Y" HEAD

(By International News Service.)

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—It is the observation of Mrs. J. Scott Parrish, of Richmond, Va., and president of the city's Y. W. C. A., that the girl of a score of years ago got just as much pleasure out of exceeding the social speed limit as does the girl of today, and that at heart she was just as blase and took as many chances as the modern girl with bobbed hair and never-tiring vivacity.

"Inwardly the girl of twenty years ago loved all the things our modern girl does. She took just as many chances, but she was less open about it and consequently 'got by,' as we would say today," declared Mrs. Parrish in an interview here, where she was attending the Southern Conference of the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Parrish, who is a mother, said she could not agree with the popular version regarding the present generation.

"But our bobbed hair, never-tiring vivacious girl of today will be the mother of tomorrow and she will make a good one. I cannot believe otherwise.

"I have all confidence in our happy-go-lucky, frank and above-board girl of today," continued Mrs. Parrish. "She has so many virtues that typify the real American girl."

Boy Kidnaped in Manila Recovered

HONOLULU, Dec. 8.—Yee Chin, eleven-year-old Chinese boy, supposed to be the kidnapped son of a wealthy Manila mining magnate, was located recently by the local police. Yee was found imprisoned in a Hawaiian shack, in the town of Waipaho, an aged Hawaiian woman acting as his jailer.

Yee told the authorities that he was kidnapped three years ago while waiting for his father in a florist shop in Manila, by Rafael Abason, a Filipino.

Abason has been taken into custody by the local police and will be held pending investigation. He claims to be the father of the boy.

EX-PEERESS DIES AS SCRUB WOMAN

By F. A. WRAY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

RAMSGATE, England, Dec. 8.—Once the hostess in an Embassy, accustomed to receive the homage of brilliant throngs in a foreign capital, in her last years reduced to earn her bread as a scrubwoman—these are the phases in the life of a mystery woman who has just died in this town.

"Mrs. Annie Smith," the name by which she chose to be known, came here about three years ago and lived alone in the tiny cottage where her body was found, half dressed, lying on the floor of her bedroom.

She was clearly a woman of refinement and high education. The incongruity of her attainments with her humble occupation aroused intense curiosity, but she repulsed all inquiries regarding her past life.

Once or twice, however, in speaking recently to neighbors, she let it slip that her husband had been a Member of Parliament and at one time an Ambassador.

To the end, however, she refused to disclose her real identity, and intensive police inquiries have failed to reveal it.

HEALTH OF CITY RUINED BY NOISE

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (United Press).—Elimination of noisy thoroughfares is recommended by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health, as a step towards reducing metropolitan sick lists.

The din of traffic, with its conglomeration of noises — sirens, horns, whistles and clanging of surface and elevated lines—is ruining the health of city people, according to Dr. Bundesen.

"A surprisingly large number of nervous wrecks are created annually in Chicago and other big cities by the incessant din and clamor to which the population are subjected," he declared.

"Rest and quiet are essential to the maintenance of the health and efficiency of the great crowds of workers who spend most of their time in downtown offices in the midst of the traffic din."

Bundesen pointed to the beneficial effects derived by the thousands of city people who spend their vacations in the country.

"They always return with nerves recovered from the shocks of city din and noise and in much better physical condition generally," he said.

"The economic benefits of noiseless traffic were also added to the health commissioner's observations.

"Employers should know that it is almost impossible to attain any high degree of efficiency or concentration in any kind of mental work in the midst of constant uproar and confusion," he continued.

"The efficiency of employees who work in noisy localities is reduced from 10 to 25 per cent."

HAWAII PASSES THROUGH MOST CRITICAL TIME

Governor Reports Conservative Policies Carry Territory Over Period.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 — During the last fiscal year ended June 3 the Territory of Hawaii successfully weathered one of the most critical industrial and financial periods of its history, Governor W. R. Farrington declared today in his annual report

Conservative policies that have always controlled the business of the territory were declared by the governor to have been the barrier that checked an era of widespread disaster

General business conditions now have improved as the result of a more normal world price for raw sugar the product from which Hawaii derives its prosperity He added however, that agricultural conditions are still serious and command unceasing attention Shortage of field labor has caused considerable abandonment of cultivated land, and legislation that will provide laborers, at the same time bringing the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance was recommended as a prime necessity.

Raw sugar and pineapples continued through the year to hold first place in the food crops of Hawaii The yield of sugar for the calendar year 1922 was estimated at 743,844 tons and that of pineapples at 5,000,000 cases

Hawaii is an integral unit of the United States, although not enjoying statehood, the report said and as such pays into the federal treasury more in taxes than many states

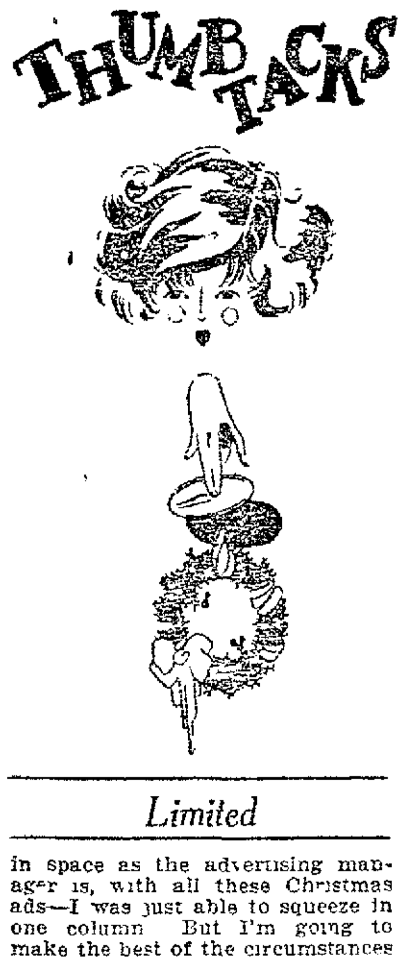
A Store of Christmas Spirit and Christmas Service

Capwells

We will gladly cash your Christmas Savings Checks



Limited

in space as the advertising manager is, with all these Christmas ads—I was just able to squeeze in one column But I'm going to make the best of the circumstances—yes, indeed. I have already pushed in my thumbtacks—and they are in to stay, too—because I want you to hear all about the pretty things that are in the store for Christmas. If you only knew how clever the newest novelties are and how inexpensive and attractive the usual things—hosiery, neckwear and apparel are in their latest interpretations—you would not have the least difficulty with your gift shopping The following items are just to acquaint you with some of the lovely things now on display.

Romance

is woven into this black crepe de chine Mantilla Shawl—saturated with vivid embroidered poppies—and bordered with long hand knotted fringe This gay "draped" one, for fascination, could challenge even the charming Senorita from sunny Spain You will find many pretty patterns priced from $12.50 to $38.50—and then, too, the more elaborate shawls range in price to $97.00 one can never tell whether a woman is flirting or whether she is merely powdering her nose from behind the beautiful barricade of a coq or ostrich feather fan—but one is not secretive hidden behind the Spanish black lace type Some have the jeweled handles others the shells—but there is a large selection and—tell me now, who wouldn't like one for a gift? Priced $6.50 to $65.

Who

shall deign to don what a princess has set her [illegible] yet Princess Mary, bride of Viscount Lascelles, gave the fad of head bands for "dancers in the dark"—and so to dance with Dame Fashion one must swathe her locks with one of these charming silver or gold wreathes They are all imported and come in opalescent scale effects, also sphinx and rhinestone and cunning little rose clusters These make charming gifts [illegible]

It's There!

Yes—somewhere in every feminine heart is the love of pretty frilly Boudoir Caps or Bands If Curly Locks wishes, she may tie back her bobbed locks with one of these dainty bands of pastel shades frivolously be-ribboned and laced—or if milady chooses, she may don the Frenchy Cap of net, laced and bow-knotted in two-toned ribbons Gift prices are $1.25 to $2.50.

Sh-h-h!

Don't say we told you—the Highland Scots for centuries have worn them, but it is a very smart thing, too for milady—athletically inclined to wear plaid sports hose The swagger imported wool models are quite appropriate this winter, when worn with street oxfords Other silk and wool combinations come in the plain and heather mixtures. Priced from $1.50 to $5.95 pair.

Crowds of Gifts or Givers

Which do you prefer?

As crowds of shoppers increase there is a corresponding diminishment of the crowds of gifts.

Another good reason is that UNCLE SAM WANTS YOU TO SHOP EARLY. To please him you will have your eastern packages mailed by December 11th and your local packages December 18th.

ANOTHER PLOT DEATH OF QUIST THROUGH POISON

Solution Given By Contestant Involves Tootles With Conspirators.

"Quist was killed more for revenge than for money. A conspiracy was formed by the housekeeper, the cook, Tootles and the old woman who was ejected from the house. When Speed climbed over the wall a week previous he dropped his pocketbook. The conspirators, taking advantage of this secured an hydrous hydrocyanic acid, which was obtained by the housekeeper, given to the cook to put into the malted milk and then to Queen to administer to her innocent victim. The conspirators to cover their guilt, placed the glass in the sink so identification marks were washed off."

Maud V Franklin of 1059 West Eighteenth street offers the above answer to the query "Who Killed Quist?"

Prizes for the best answers are First prize, $25; second, $15, third $10, and 50 pairs of tickets to the T and D theater. Answers of not more than 100 words should be mailed before December 10 to Quist, Oakland TRIBUNE.

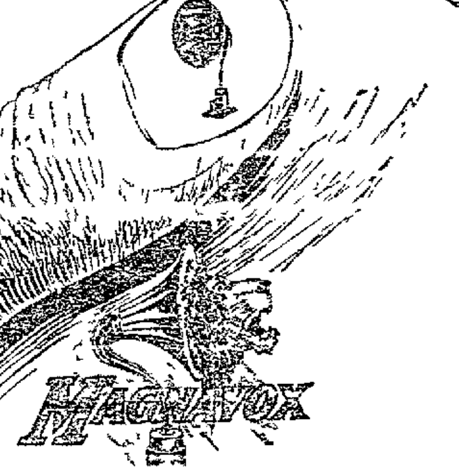
Thumb Nail Sketches of Oakland



Let us realize what we owe to Oakland-marked products. Here is one more. The Magnavox.

Manufacturers of the East and the North and the South know that the world's standard form of loud speaking reproducer is made in Oakland. They know too that "there's a reason."

This knowledge means more payrolls for Oakland and payrolls are the backbone of a city's well being.

The Magnavox has created prosperity for our citizens and fame for our city. The Magnavox payroll shows the names of 750 residents of Oakland. The Magnavox tells the world about Oakland.

Radio—the world's newest big industry, made its best strides because of the Magnavox. Our city will quicken its pace, too, because the Magnavox carries our message—

SWEDEN GIVEN CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY CARDS

Gift of Catalog Looked On As Special Distinction By Scandinavians.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 8.—One million library cards, being a catalogue of books in the Library of Congress at Washington, will arrive in Stockholm before the end of the year as an American gift to Sweden, according to an announcement made by the librarian of the Technical College in Stockholm. This gift is looked upon as a special distinction, inasmuch as there are only three other countries outside of the United States and Canada where this card catalogue has been placed.

The gift carries with it the one condition that the cards must be properly filed, and preserved for public use by scholars, investigators, and readers in general. Since the cards require more than a thousand filing drawers, each a foot and a half long, this is no small item of work and expense. To defray it 20,000 crowns have been provided by the Academy of Engineering Science at Stockholm. The cards will be distributed, according to the subject matter of the books listed, to five different libraries in Stockholm, namely, the Royal Library, the Library of the Riksdag and the libraries of the Technical College, the Academy of Science, and the Caroline Institute.

It is estimated that further additions to the catalogue will be made at the rate of 40,000 cards a year.

The library of the American Congress, the third largest in the world, contains about three million books treating every known subject of literary discussion. "It will be an invaluable privilege to Swedish students and writers," says Miss H. Lindstedt, who will have charge of this catalogue, and through whose influence the gift was obtained, "to be able to consult this huge classified index when making out lists of authorities on the particular subjects in which they are interested, and the catalogue will be preserved here as a unique monument to the generosity of the American library toward educational institutions in a small country."

Suffering has gone from your face, mother!"

"Rheumatism? Me? No, indeed, it's all gone, every bit of it! It's sunshine and joy for me now for the first time in years. I feel a wonderful glory again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you." There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. STRONGER FORCE IN AIR IS URGED BY J. J. PERSHING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—America must be prepared to "take the immediate defensive" in the air in case of war, and to so expand its air strength that it eventually can assume its offensive, General Pershing declared today in his annual report as chief of staff of the army.

"This is the basis of our present defensive policies with all our arms and should be considered a minimum," the general of the armies continued. "A very important part in such a defensive would be the operations of an effective air service."

General Pershing said he desired to call attention to the condition of the air service today and the fact that there existed a "present shortage of facilities and personnel for a completely balanced and adequate service of this vital component of defense."

IMPORTANCE IS GROWING.

"No man can estimate with present certainty the value which can be ascribed in a few years to the possession of an adequate resourcefulness in the air," he said. "It is certain, however, that the influence of air power will become increasingly great and that the nation can not afford to neglect this arm.

"The air service which we develop should be capable of offensive application. This does not mean that we must immediately build an air service that could take the offensive against any great power or group of powers. It does mean, however, that we should have a force that can take the immediate defensive, and that can, during a reasonable period of operations, expand to the strength required for an offensive."

The report said the reserve of airplanes for such a policy and even facilities for personnel training were lacking, and that "industries and the air ways of our country are not prepared for an emergency.

"I earnestly hope, therefore," General Pershing added, "that early steps will be taken to bring about the effective cooperation of states with the agencies of the national government to the end that this vital need can be effectively filled."

WANTS LARGER ARMY.

Discussing the development of the army and post war reorganizations, the general said he had "witnessed with approbation the accomplishments of the present administration in attaining efficiency and economy of operation, and it has been a source of distinct pride to observe the response of our military personnel." He pointed out, however, that he regarded the army at its present strength of 12,000 officers and 125,000 men as "below the minimum required for effective performance of our various missions."

"It is my conviction," he said, "that our regular force is cut too much for safety and that a strength of at least 150,000 enlisted men and 13,000 officers should be permanently fixed as the minimum."

AMERICANS TO INVADE ARCTIC WITH SEAPLANE

DETROIT, Dec. 8.—In a giant seaplane, a party of Detroit and New York sportsmen will invade the great wastes of the Arctic next summer on what is regarded as a most unusual hunting trip if present plans are carried out. Members of the party intend to so completely outfit the plane that it will match the modern parlor car for convenience and comfort. The trip will have as its objective the land which heretofore has been known only to the dog train.

Included in the party will be Inglis M. Uppercu and Charles F. Redden of New York, Howard E. Coffin, Harold H. Emmons, [illegible] James W. Inches of Detroit, men prominent in the airplane and motor worlds.

It is planned to leave New York about July 1, thence to Montreal and Moose Factory. The Hudson Bay territory will be entered from the latter station.

The equipment of the plane will include compartment sleeping quarters, with an observation room forward, an electrically equipped kitchenette, an armory, a galley and large storage rooms. It is announced that arrangements have been made with the Hudson Bay company for gasoline and other supplies.

They are Kenneth Burleigh, 29, and Harry Fisher, 23. Both live at the Benson hotel.

DENVER, Colo, Dec. 8.—(United Press).—"Denver, the Paris of America." GREATER SCHOOL FACILITIES FOR INDIANS URGED

Purchase of California Lands For Homeless Cited In U. S. Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Increased facilities for education of Indian children is recommended by Charles H. Burke, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in his annual report, made public today. The number receiving education in government boarding schools and state public schools was 3000 more than in any previous year, he said, but in the southwest facilities are still needed.

The Indians, adults as well as children, in the semi-arid sections are anxious for further education, Commissioner Burke reported, and any further denial of such enlightenment is unjustified, especially in the light of the government's treaty of 1868 pledging a school for every thirty children.

The Indian Service is also desirous of further medical and health facilities, he said, as the Indians were never so receptive of medical treatment, the medicine men are passing and the government hospitals are well patronized. A hospital in every Indian reservation is recommended to provide especially for the sick and aged, of whom there are many without homes or means for proper treatment.

The report added that a movement was under way to acquire the use of military posts desirably located, which would accommodate 1000 pupils. Discussing the subject of medical aid, Burke said that funds are not sufficient to afford salaries that command the service of enough high-class physicians and trained nurses. The cooperation of Red Cross nurses has been obtained to make a survey of conditions.

An important feature of the past year's work by the bureau was an industrial campaign among the Indians with a view to improving household conditions and enabling the Indians to make better use of their natural resources. This plan has resulted in increased cultivaton, better crops, gardens and homes.

The report shows more than 6000 allotments of land made to individual Indians, the largest number being on the Blackfeet reservation in Montana, where interest in farming has been awakened. Active progress was made in reclaiming lands, the aggregate irrigable area on about fifty reservations now reaching 375,000 acres. The full amount available was expended in the purchase of lands for homeless Indians in California.

Operations in oil were stimulated throughout the productive areas of Indian territory, due largely to the advance in market prices from $1 to $2 per barrel. Promising development has been made in the Shoshone reservation, Wyoming, the Crow and Blackfeet reservations, Montana, and on Navajo treaty land in Arizona and New Mexico, but the largest output continues to be in Oklahoma, and particularly in Osage reservation. Three sales of Osage oil leases during the year exceeded $22,000,000; the gross production was nearly 20,000,000 barrels, and the royalties on oil and gas to the Indians for the year were $9,235,701.

RUSS ARE READY FOR DISARMING

MOSCOW, Dec. 8.—Minister of War Trotzky and Leo Kameneff, president of the Moscow soviet, in recent public addresses in this city, repeated previous assurances as to Russia's readiness to reduce her army providing other states would do the same thing.

The occasion was a gathering of delegates to the Third Internationale. Trotzky announced that the soviet government "is ready and eager to cut its armed forces in half, or even to one-tenth of the present strength, provided other countries would agree to similar reductions." The war minister expressed the hope that the outcome of the disarmament conference to be held in Moscow within a month would result in a reduction of the armies of the Balkan states.

Kameneff said he had a message to the world. "Russia," he declared, "is indeed eager for peace and is prepared at any time to reduce her fighting forces, if given guarantees by other countries. But in making these proposals," he continued, "it must be understood that because of our strength we would refuse any proposals, which might tend to [illegible]

"This is no idle boast and day by day we are showing greater strength in communism, greater constructive ability in reorganization of the country and in reestablishing ourselves."

A review of the Red army followed these speeches. The troops defiled past a large reviewing stand. The Moscow garrison headed the parade and included cavalry, heavy and light artillery, machine gun outfits, tanks, armored cars and anti-aircraft guns; then there followed droves of factory and railroad workers armed with rifles, thousands of trade unionists, and many children.

The parade has been described as the greatest military turnout ever attempted by the soviet government. It is estimated that over half a million persons passed in review.

Argonauts of '49 Plan for Meeting

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—There are at least two survivors of the '49 gold rush—George W. Ketchkiss, of Chicago, and Captain John Anderson of Sewickley, Pa.

Ketchkiss was recently notified of the death of John E. Kerr and then believed he was the last survivor of the gold "fever." Shortly afterward, however, he received a letter from Captain Anderson, who suggested that the two old-timers hold a reunion.

EATS HEARTY, GAINS WEIGHT, FEELS FINE

"After taking three bottles of Tanlac I am in perfect health all around, having gained weight, and stand ready to give this medicine my highest recommendation," declared F. D. Christman, well-known building contractor, of 3514 Wadsworth St., Los Angeles, Calif.

"I was badly troubled with indigestion, gas bloating, and had such terrible pains in my stomach I would be almost doubled up. I also had blinding headaches and fearful dizzy spells, suffered from constipation and always had to be taking laxatives. I lost all the appetite I ever had, and whatever I did eat was just from force of habit, and it always disagreed with me. I felt tired and worn out all the time, and was simply good for nothing.

"Before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac, I had a fine appetite and began picking up. The gas bloating left me entirely and everything I eat now agrees with me fine. Tanlac is certainly a fine medicine."

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough is Child's Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself at Home It's Cheap—but You Can't Beat It

If you want to take care of that bad hang on cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Parmint (double strength) and mix a half pint at home.

You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.

You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will act so surely and quickly on the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It halts the inflammation, the tickling sensation stops with the first spoonful, the heavy breathing goes and clean membrane, free from irritation and mucus follows.

For Catarrhal conditions such as mucus droppings, clogged nostrils and watery eyes, it won't disappoint—ask for Parmint (double strength). Speak plainly so that the druggist will know exactly what you want.—Advertisement.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged Up Kidney Deposits Are Dissolved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out—Druggists Told to Guarantee It in Every Instance.

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys, so whatever you do don't neglect them."

Dr. Carey's famous Prescription No. 777 (Known for years as Marshroot) is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water, night and day, with smarting or irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating, irritability with loss of flesh, or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, for kidney disease in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription now obtainable in both [illegible] ney and Bladder troubles don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty. If you even suspect that you are subject to Kidney Disease, don't lose a single day for Owl Drug Co. and every good druggist has been authorized to return the purchase money on the first big bottle to all who state they have received no benefit.—Advertisement.

RED PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Burned and Itched. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with pimples breaking out all over my face. They were hard and red though not very large. The pimples festered causing much burning and itching, and my face looked very badly. I used other remedies but they did me little or no good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and after using them about six weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Lena Bonchero, 3908 Franklin Blvd., Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 10, 1922.

For every purpose of the toilet and bath Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are wonderfully good.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

GRANT PRINCIPAL EXONERATED ON 'BEATING' CHARGE

School Board Creates Committee to Handle Complaints By Parents.

A resolution, fully exonerating Principal H C Petray of Grant school from the charge of "beating" young Dudley Otts a pupil was adopted last night by the board of education.

The board incidentally created a "grievance committee" which will handle hereafter all complaints of parents against educators. The committee will be composed of Superintendent of Schools Fred M Hunter and Directors J T Chandler and Daisy Short.

Petray recently found young Otts guilty of disobeying a school order and administered punishment. The boy's mother kept him home. The boy was ordered to go to school. The mother wanted guarantees that the child would not be "beaten" again. The superintendent of schools saying that the law allows corporal punishment, declared that no such agreements could be given in any case.

Petray last night asserted that he never "beat" any one. "The boy in question cut classes and misrepresented the facts. I slapped him three times on the palm of each hand," he said. "In doing this I followed out the rules as laid down by the board of education."

THREAT MADE BY ROBBER BAND TO KIDNAP CONSULS

Tsingtao Foreigners in Terror As Bandits Rule in Shantung.

TSINGTAO, Shantung, Dec. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—Bandits still were moving about the city openly today, and it was reported that they were threatening to kidnap the British and American consuls and to hold them as hostages.

Fresh apprehension was caused by trouble with the Japanese railway, water works and electrical workers who threatened to strike. Japanese employed on the wharves stopped work today.

Every outgoing train was overcrowded with persons fleeing from the zone of danger. Japanese sentries were guarding the British consulate.

At a representative meeting of American and British residents a committee was appointed to devise emergency measures for the concentration of women and children. Wang Cheo-Tung, the Chinese commissioner, and Hsi Ung, the newly-appointed governor, were expected here today with additional troops.

PEKING, Dec. 8 (By the Associated Press).—The U. S. destroyer Asheville will arrive at Tsingtao tomorrow, and it is understood here that the vessel will not hesitate to land marines if the bandits infesting the district endanger the lives of foreigners, after the Japanese evacuation.

Japan is prepared to restore the Kiaochow leasehold to China at noon, Sunday. The Japanese legation announced today that all the Japanese troops would withdraw immediately, leaving the district in the hands of Chinese soldiers.

Two Japanese destroyers which have been in the harbor of Tsingtao for several days are prepared to co-operate with the Asheville in protecting lives and property of foreign nationals.

WOMAN STARTS WAR AGAINST CITY COUNCIL

Promises of strenuous labor for "a new city council" were made last night before the board of education by Mrs. Nellie Lane, one of the principal workers for the erection of a new high school in East Oakland and member of the "advisory committee of fifteen," which was created by the board last year and never officially disbanded.

Mrs. Lane deprecated the fact that the city council will not close Nineteenth avenue at the Theodore Roosevelt high school. The school "straddles" this street between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets. The board recently asked that the school be given the ground and the street closed. The city council refused it, holding that this is an important traffic thoroughfare. The board of education then asked that the street be narrowed. The council also refused this. The board of education is now asking again that it be closed. This matter is before the city council at present.

"There will be too many school children on that street, considering the auto traffic," said Mrs. Lane. "We'll have to close it or narrow it. We're going to have that street closed or know the reason why."

"That's up to the city council," said President Boyle.

"Then we'll work for a new council," said Mrs. Lane.

BRIDGE PROPOSED TO SPAN CHANNEL OF GOLDEN GATE

Cantilever-Suspension Roadway Would Cost $17,500,000 and Break Record.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—A plan for bridging the Golden Gate with a combination cantilever and suspension structure costing $17,500,000, and of a height hitherto unattained in engineering history, is being discussed by city officials and engineers here today, following its presentation last night by a Chicago bridge engineer.

The proposed structure is declared to be entirely feasible from an engineering standpoint and to require only the sanction of the war department.

The proposed bridge is an entirely new type and is said to be the only kind yet devised that could stand the stresses of so long a span as that necessary to bridge the Golden Gate.

The gap across the gate is 6700 feet. The proposed bridge would take advantage of the fact that about 1360 feet from shore on each side are rock ledges with a depth of only 50 feet of water, upon which towers could be built. The span between these would be only 4000 feet.

The towers would be higher than the Eiffed tower in Paris. Elevators operating in them would carry sightseers to their tops and provide a commanding view of the Pacific.

The bridge would link San Francisco with Marin county and the northern coast counties of California and open up a new field for development, it is declared.

Joseph B. Strauss, bridge engineer of Chicago, working from data furnished by City Engineer M. M. O'Shaughnessy of San Francisco, has worked out the plan for the proposed structure. He submitted this to Mayor Rolph last night.

Squirrel Nest Reveals Store Of Golf Balls

(By International News Service)

MANCHESTER, Me., Dec. 00.—On the ground of the Augusta Country Club recently was found a squirrel's nest. In this nest a squirrel had concealed thirty-one golf balls The place near the nest is one of the most difficult drives of the course and sometimes the golf balls are knocked into the woods and are lost The nest was found by rare chance.

Evidently, during the summer months, the squirrels thought a new crop of nuts had been invented and watched the balls speed through the air into the woods. After things had quieted down, he began his work of collecting. Many of the balls were in good condition, while some bore the teeth-marks of the hoarder.

Couple Married by Santa Cruz Justice

Kitterman, foreman of the job printing department of the Evening Pajaronian, and Mrs. Della Mitchell, bookkeeper for the California Spray Chemical company, were married in Santa Cruz Wednesday night by Justice C. C. Houck. The wedding was attended only by a few relatives and intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Kitterman will reside in Watsonville.

CHRISTMAS SEAL BUILDING FUND GROWS RAPIDLY

Disabled Veteran Sends in First $1 Check; Rotarians Give $100.

The building fund for the first unit at Del Valle Farm, the Livermore Preventorium for Children, sponsored by the Alameda County Tuberculosis Association, is rolling up penny by penny through the sale of the Christmas Seals. Two men have been detailed from the First National Bank by P. E. Bowles to the headquarters in the Ethel Moore Memorial building to keep records up to date and to care for the contributions which are coming in. A battery of adding machines and an office force are busy receiving returns from the mail campaign which was instituted last week when 40,000 motorists in Alameda county received Christmas seals to the value of $1 with a plea for assistance in the plan to keep the children healthy through means of proper diet, fresh air, recreation and rest which Del Valle Farm affords.

Automobile owners who have received letters from the health workers are being requested to make returns of the check to cover the penny stickers which they hold or the seals immediately that the accounts of the Tuberculosis Society may be closed.

World War has come the first $1 check in the mail campaign.

"I have been in a position to know what it means to have real friends when one is making the supreme struggle for life," he writes. I have my health and am not badly crippled as a result. May these youngsters fare as well."

During the noon hour yesterday $100 was received at the Christmas Seals booth at Hotel Oakland, directed by Mrs. J. F. Carlston, Mrs. William Jurgens and Miss Annie Florence Brown, president of the County Tuberculosis Association. Members of the Rotary Club were the contributors.

Seventy-five booths have been opened in the downtown business districts under the general supervision of Mrs. Dudley Kinsell. She has recruited 200 prominent women to assist her in distributing the penny stickers among the shopping public.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS SUED.

Suit to collect $1200 from Post No. 595, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, claimed due as insurance for the death of Frank D. Happy, a member, on February 17, 1921, has been instituted by Edward B. Happy and Evalyn M. Wilson, his heirs. It is claimed the amount was collected from members of the lodge as a death benefit for Happy, but that it never has been paid.

NEW CITIZENS TO GET DIPLOMAS

ALAMEDA, Dec. 8.—Seventy members of the Alameda Americanization classes in the local schools will receive diplomas tonight at graduation exercises to be held in the auditorium of the high school at 8 o'clock.

The exercises for the evening will open with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Introductory remarks will be made by Mrs. Evans and a welcome to the class will be extended by C. J. Du Four, superintendent of Alameda schools.

Miss Ethel Richardson, assistant state superintendent, in charge of immigration education, will speak on "Citizens, Old and New." M. R. Bevington, chief naturalization examiner, has chosen as the subject of his address "What Americanization Means to the Government."

Mayor Frank Otis and William A. Degan, commander of the Alameda Post No. 9, American Legion, will extend a welcome on behalf of the city of Alameda. Presentation of the United States government certificates will be made by Mrs. Mabel Edwards, instructor in citizenship.

HOTEL MANAGER SUED BY WIDOW FOR ACCOUNTING

Kansas City Woman Charges That Bellevue Purchased With Her Funds.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Mabel A. Miller, wealthy society leader of Kansas City, Mo., has brought suit in the Superior Court here against C. H. Barber, active manager of the Hotel Bellevue, charging that he purchased that property with funds belonging to her while acting as her confidential agent. Mrs. Miller seeks an accounting of $275,000 in money and securities, said to have been handled by Barber for her. She also seeks to have him restrained from disposing of any real estate or securities while the suit is pending.

Charging Barber with having persuaded her to give her promissory note for $100,000 payable in ten years and a trust deed for Kansas City real estate to secure the note, Mrs. Miller asks the court to restrain him from carrying out his alleged threat to record the deed.

According to Mrs. Miller's legal assertions, Barber, shortly after her husband's death, persuaded her to turn over to him for management bonds and notes to the value of a quarter of a million dollars, and from time to time thereafter amounts totaling an additional $25,000.

From November, 1918, to May of this year, Mrs. Miller declares she received $1000 a month from Barber as an "income from investments," but she has failed to receive anything since last May.

The complaint recites that in November, 1920, Barber bought the Bellevue Hotel and the property on which it stands, at Taylor and Geary streets, under the name of A. F. Potter, but with her money. She charges that he refused to give an accounting.

"This whole thing is a surprise to me," Barber said today. "I had not heard of it until yesterday. Instead of my owing Mrs. Miller money, she owes me."

Women Urged To Endorse Property Bill

BY EDNA B. KINARD.

Women's organizations throughout California, whatever their affiliation, are being urged to send endorsements of the community property bill, which will be introduced before the legislature, to Mrs. Aaron Schloss, chairman of the women's joint legislative committee, or to Mrs. Frances Wilson Kidd, chairman of legislation, Alameda district, C. F. W. C. The fight to write into the statutes of the state law extending to the wife some right in the property accumulated during marriage will be strenuously waged when the legislators assemble in Sacramento early next year. Already an active campaign has been outlined by the leaders and preliminary work begun.

Alameda district C. F. W. C., has joined the California Federation of Women's Clubs in adopting resolutions favoring the proposed bill. It has been prepared and approved by the State Bar Association. If adopted the law will give to the wife the right, which she does not now possess, of willing her half of the community property. It will extend the same right to the husband. However, if the wife or husband dies without a will, the entire community property will pass to the survivor—to the wife with administration; to the husband without administration.

Women Make Poor Barkers, Says Expert

LONDON, Dec. 9.—"Women are no good as barbers, they are unreliable and erratic, as most women are in work. Their skill may be remarkable today but positively dangerous tomorrow."

This is the challenging reason given for the official exclusion of women from the ancient profession of hairdressing by Mr. John Symonds, president of the Hairdressing Association, who contends that only men can make efficient barbers.

WIFE HELD IN $20,000 PLOT TO SLAY HUSBAND

Planned to Hire Gunman to Kill Mate, Detectives Charge.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 8.—Mrs. May Glenn Ford solicited the services of a gunman to kill her wealthy husband, Ney J. Ford, offered the gunman $20,000 for the "job" and gave him a photograph of her husband to make sure the right man was slain, according to the sworn statements of four detectives whose investigation resulted in Mrs. Ford's detention today on a charge of attempting to commit murder.

Denying the charge, Mrs. Ford declared she was the victim of "a frame-up" that grew out of her domestic difficulties. These difficulties include a suit for divorce, filed last August, in which she charges cruelty and a suit asking $25,000 damages of her estranged husband for alleged assault.

Before her marriage to Ford a year ago Mrs. Ford was a nurse, employed in Toledo. She has two children by a former marriage.

(By International News Service.)

BELFAST, Dec. 9.—"Irish linen" made in China is being sold in New York according to A. S. Moore, an Irish linen manufacturer.

"New York is fairly swamped with so-called Irish crochet, made in China by women working for about three cents a day," Moore said.

"A blind man can see that this work is not Irish, although the pattern is closely counterfeited. The little motifs, so pretty in the real article, are coarse and ugly in the copy and much larger than they ought to be.

"Certainly the work is done by hand but has neither the firmness nor the fineness of the Irish original. As the price is not cheap, the inference is that somebody makes a stupendous profit."

Last Rites Arranged For Resident of Lodi

LODI, Dec. 8.—The funeral of the late pioneer Herman Tecklenburg will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the O. H. Wells parlors. Interment will be in Woodbridge cemetery, where the Lodi lodges of Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias will officiate. He was a lifelong member of these orders. Deceased was a native of Germany, aged 81. He came to America at an early age, and in the pioneer days of San Joaquin county took up a fine tract of land a few miles southeast of this city. He became prosperous, owning one of the finest farms in the county. A widow and seven children survive.

Will Leaves Ranch Property to Widow

NAPA, Dec. 8.—The will of the late Charles Gracy, who died recently in this city, has been filed for probate in the office of County Clerk James A. Daly. In it he bequeaths all property to his widow, Emma K. Gracy, to be hers throughout her lifetime, and after her death to go to the son, Robert Ernest Gracy.

The estate consists of a ranch in the Napa Redwoods and personal property of various kinds. It is valued at $25,000.

CONCORD NOTES

CONCORD, Dec. 8.—The efforts put forth by the members of the Concord Chamber of Commerce in individual solicitation for new members is bearing fruit. A considerable increase in attendance was noticeable at the last meeting of the local organization. Every effort is being put forth in the present campaign drive for new members and within the next few months the enrollment in all probability will have double. At present the organization has an active membership of sixty business men.

Concord's new lighting system, the installation of which has been in progress for the past several weeks, has been completed. Salvio street, the main thoroughfare of the town, is fully lighted.

Six large electroliers to the block, three on either side of the street, are required to properly light the main business district. Several lights were also installed on Grant street as well.

The local property owners, upon whose property the lights were erected are standing the expense of the new system. The installation of the electroliers was completed by H. Reid & Company of San Francisco.

Old River Steamer Sinks at Butte City

[illegible] steamer Red Bluff, known to shippers up and down the Sacramento river and in Oakland and San Francisco harbors for a quarter of a century, sank yesterday afternoon in twelve feet of water at Butte City, Colusa county. The boat struck a snag, caving in a portion of the starboard bow. Unless the steamer can be salvaged, the loss will be $50,000, says the Sacramento Navigation company, which owns the stern wheeler. There were no casualties.

New Colusa Ruling Hits Liquor Dealer

WOODLAND, Dec. 8.—In the hope to further attack bootlegging in Colusa county, the Colusa city trustees at a recent meeting passed an ordinance presented by Trustee Phil B. Arnold requiring the proprietors of soft drink parlors to place a $500 bond with the trustees at the time of receiving their licenses.

The ordinance provides that any soft drink place found guilty of disposing of or distributing illicit liquor will immediately forfeit its bond. The new ordinance becomes effective next February 15.

KEMAL'S LONELY SEA WASP PLAYS DESPERATE GAME

Destroyers Seeking Submarine Preying on Merchant Craft in Black Sea.

By JOHN HADLEY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CONSTANTINOLPE, Dec. 8.—With the hangman waiting for him at Odessa and six lean and hungry British destroyers watching for him to enter the Bosphorus, Kemal's only submarine is leading a lonely life playing pirate in the Black Sea.

When the Soviet Government gave the submarine to Kemal they wished the captain "good luck" and told him he would be hanged if he came back to port without having sunk a British ship. The British Naval Intelligence heard of this and issued orders that Kemal's undersea hope was to be sunk on sight—and no questions asked—as soon as it crossed an imaginary line drawn across the Black Sea entrance to the Bosphorus.

TRAP IS LAID

Six destroyers were stationed in the narrow Bosphorus straits. As soon as the submarine was sighted two of them were to put to sea, get behind him and shut off his escape. The other four were to steam down the channel, dropping depth charges at regular intervals.

Warned by wireless of the trap laid for him if he ever tried to get at the great battle fleet riding at anchor in the Sea of Marmora, the submarine captain stayed well clear of the straits. Five times he was sighted by the British, but each time far enough out to be safe from even the most elastic interpretation of the British destroyers' orders.

Now he is cruising off Trebizond, stopping merchant ships and doing a road-agent job on the passengers. The Black Sea shipping lanes from Batum to Constantinople and from Sebastopol to Trebizond are in terror of this ocean highwayman, as the Great North Road used to fear Dick Turpin.

DESCRIBES CAPTAIN

An Armenian merchant, who was robbed of 8,000 Turkish pounds when the schooner he was traveling on was boarded by the submarine's crew off Sinope, on the south coast of the Black Sea, said the captain was a blond, bearded man, who spoke to his first mate in French, and was most polite to the schooner's passengers. According to the Armenian, the submarine is a very large one; the crew is Russian, wears Russian naval uniforms and red fezzes and looks well fed.

Officially, the British say nothing, but unofficially the imaginary line inside of which the undersea brigand may be "spurios versenkt" has been considerably extended. Meantime the blond, bearded submarine captain is getting himself a comfortable stake on which to retire in case he escapes the hangman and the lean, gray destroyers.

San Juan Residents Ask Trustees' Recall

SAN JUAN BAUTISTA, Dec. 8.—This town is again in political civic turmoil, with the circulating of a petition for recall of four of the five town trustees. The trustees have resigned or been recalled so often in the last six months that the people have lost track of the personnel.

This latest is said to be over the board's ordering an increase in business license fees to help defray the cost of the new sewer system recently installed. A committee of merchants, led by Frank Abbe, local capitalist and business man, protested the increased taxes, but the committee got such a cold reception at the town board meeting that now petitions are being circulated for the recall of James McMullen, Mike Ramiers, James Rupe and E. Ericksen. The lone trustee to escape the wrath of the merchants is Fred Kemp, who fees.

This is one of the largest damage verdicts rendered in Superior court in recent years in San Joaquin county. The trial started November 16 in Superior court before Judge D. M. Young and has been bitterly contested. The jury was out four and a half hours.

CAPITALIST SUES BROTHER IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—Joseph Rosenberg, capitalist and real estate dealer, has filed three suits here demanding payment of more than $150,000 by Harry L. Rosenberg, brother and business partner.

Joseph Rosenberg charges in one of the complaints that his brother tried to ruin him financially and it also is alleged that the brother was responsible for the divorce suit which the beautiful Mrs. Rosenberg filed against Joseph in 1921. The complaint was withdrawn later by Mrs. Rosenberg.

Through his attorney Joseph Rosenberg asks that the court com[illegible] numerous business transactions and his return to Joseph of the latter's proper share of the profits.

Among the items for which demands are made are the return of $50,000 invested in the Evesham Court apartments, now in the possession of Harry; an interest of $25,000 in Oakland realty, and a share of $6000 in rents from the Oakland realty.

BANK HEAD MAY STAY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Former Governor W. P. G. Harding of the federal reserve board, is still among those being considered for appointment as the next governor of the board, it was said yesterday by officials of the treasury.

Business Club Adds Pole to "Necklace"

[illegible] has been raised by members of the Mutual Business club to provide for a pole in the "necklace of lights," proposed to encircle Lake Merritt. The fund was raised by a collection taken up at the organization's luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. The following club members were appointed as a committee to work for the promotion of Boy Scout work: N. J. [illegible], J. J. Stegge, Larry Hochkiss and Ray Salsberry. The club's annual dinner, which will be held in January, is being arranged for by a committee, composed of C. N. Cooper, E. T. Eckert and Woodson Ross.

By WOOD SOANES

THOSE who are interested in the things that lead up to the production of a successful play may find something to intrigue them in the following account of the history of "Rain" by John D. Williams, the producer. His statement comes as a climax to a series of wild and fantastic yarns concerning the incidents attendant on the production of the piece.

"I read the story, 'Miss Thompson,' upon which 'Rain' is founded as it appeared in a monthly magazine," says Williams, "and while I considered it the greatest example of modern realism I had ever read, I did not think it contained material for a play. I did not buy the story for purposes of dramatization.

"Some time after reading it I met John Colton, who told me that he had happened to be in San Francisco when the proof sheets of 'Miss Thompson' were sent to W. S. Maugham, its author, for correction. Maugham was busy at the time and asked Colton to correct the proof sheets and mail them back to the Smart Set.

"As Colton thus read the story in galley form he, and he alone, was struck with the idea that it contained material for a great play. Colton there and then told Maugham his belief that the story could be refashioned for the stage. Maugham's answer was that he could not see any play in the story of Sadie Thompson, looking at the material from any point of view.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

"The Bowery After Dark" is on the boards at the Central Theater in San Francisco. The cast includes Landers Stevens, Henry Shumer, Florence Chapman and Jimmy Britt, who is playing the role of a pugilist and boxing three rounds with [illegible]

"But he concluded by telling Colton to do what he wished with the material. Colton then came east and sat down with Miss Clemence Randolph to remold Maugham's story for the stage. When he had written half of the first act—on yellow sheets in lead pencil—he showed it to me and it was then that I contracted to buy the play.

"Half of the first act, as written by Mr. Colton and Miss Randolph, was proof enough that a great play would result from the magical touch of these two young dramatists who could quicken Mr. Maugham's plot and characters into an exceptionally vivid and dramatic stage representation.

"When, at my apartment, the play was finally written, the search that set in was not a search for percentages or the most likely partnership arrangement—that kind of thing is always easily settled by a long established precedent in the theater. The great quest, and the only quest, was for the actress who could play Sadie Thompson. I, now owning the play, treated with as many managers as had likely young leading actresses under contract.

"During my search Mr. Sam Harris asked to see me and, after hearing the names of the actresses I had considered, told me that he had Miss Jeanne Eagels under contract. The end of my search was obvious—Mr. Harris could contribute the actress, I could contribute the play.

"In abidance of a cable arrangement with Maugham, I did have to stipulate that I should cast the play, choose my own scenic artist and determine in every detail the treatment of the text. This I did, down to the smallest detail. Carte blanche was given me by Mr. Harris, and his able staff was of great assistance. The result, I submit, is a gratifying demonstration that, with patience, tact and intelligence, varying and various minds may attain a [illegible] goal."

In Which William A. Misses Car and Talks of Honesty

"I just missed my car," panted William A. Rusco, the Parfinkel of the theatrical department, as he over-shoed his way into the office yesterday, "I just missed my car and anyway I know of a case where rewarded honesty did not meet with acclaim on the part of the recipient. He didn't believe that honesty was the best policy and maybe he doesn't now, for all I know.

"My wife met me in Oklahoma [illegible] and brought our baby along for me to see. We were waiting for the train, which had never been known to be on time, to get to Shawnee and I had a wonderful time playing with the youngster. In fact I enjoyed myself so much [illegible] and got on the train without my satchel.

"Just as we were getting off at Shawnee, an hour later, I recalled the fact that the satchel was not with us. I wired the station master at Oklahoma City and received word in return that he couldn't find it. Then my wife remembered a bell boy whom she had tipped lavishly and who seemed a good sort.

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

A. M. Palmer has just opened his twelfth season at the Union Square theater in New York with a four act comedy, "The Rantzaus."

"She wired him to institute a search for the missing satchel and bring it on to McAllister, our next stop. The following day he arrived. I was so glad I could have kissed him. 'Boy,' I said, 'you're all right. Here's $50 for your trouble. I never expected to get this satchel, especially as it was unlocked.'

"The boy was amazed. 'You must value the cannon balls you have in that bag pretty highly,' he said. 'Don't you think fifty is too much?'

"'Not on your life,' I responded. 'That satchel contains $1800 in cash, our receipts from Oklahoma City.'

"'Great Caesar's ghost,' gasped the honest youth. 'If I'd known it was in there you never would have got it!'

"Well, so-long, here comes my car," shouted Rusco and he was off again.

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

Jack Sheehan writes to deny vehemently that he intends to give John Barrymore some opposition in "Hamlet." Insofar as can be learned no one has ever suggested Sheehan, now with the Greenwich Village Follies, for "Hamlet," but there is nothing like forestalling possible rumors.

The Burnham Players will present "The Rainbow" at the Twentieth Century club this evening and tomorrow night. This is the third bill of the Players' first season. Roger Burnham will play the Henry Miller role in the Augustus Thomas play.

The story is going the rounds that Martin Beck, the vaudeville magnate, went to see John Barrymore in "Hamlet" and expressed himself of the belief that "it is a bad translation." Perhaps he did.

Mlle. Cecile Sorel and her associate players in the Comedie Francaise company, have declined the offer from the Mexican government to appear in Mexico City in a repertoire of French classics. The company concludes its farewell engagement at the Century in New York next week.

POISON BOOZE KILLS 26 IN SINGLE YEAR

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 8.—Poisonous liquor in eleven months of 1922 killed more persons in Denver than in any other year since national prohibition became effective, according to figures compiled by Miss Florence Leach, registrar of the bureau of vital statistics. Up to December 1, twenty-six persons had died in Denver from drinking poisonous liquor, according to the bureau records. During 1921 poisonous liquor was responsible for fifteen deaths.

GADSKI'S SONGS HOLD AUDITORS IN RAPT SPELL

Famous Singer At Auditorium Reveals Pristine Force.

Gadski sang. For two delectable hours last night the Auditorium Opera House was vibrant with the magic of her song.

That she was gratified by the warmth of her reception in Oakland was manifested by a return of the Gadski fire, revealing itself first as a spark about a fourth of the way through her program—a spark that glowed and grew and then flamed with the pristine Gadski force until the Artist Gadski stood forth in the majesty and power that made the Wagnerian roles of operatic history.

Last night's recital ranged Schumann, Schubert, Schneider, Homer, MacDowell, Kramer and Kahn, introduced a bit of lieder by way of gracious response to encores, prepared the way to the climax traversing a group of five Wagner songs—and launched a sunburst in "Isolde's Love Death," from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde."

GIVEN RAPT ATTENTION.

This artist, who first found herself in America as "Elsa," was accorded an attention that was both devout and demonstrative. Her Eastbay auditors hung on each jeweled note, waited on each inflection, reveled in a glory of melody, marveled at the dramatic capacity for authoritative interpretation—and acknowledged their obligation with an ovation and flowers. If any one in that audience thought of war it was doubtless with the glad realization the war is over and that the marvel of song then with them afforded surcease to its memories and visions.

It was in the fifth number of part one in her program—the program was in four parts—that the real Gadski was first made known to her hearers. She had sung through Schumann's "Widmung" and "Lotus Flower," through Schubert's "Gretchen am Spinnrad" and "Who Is Sylvia?" Came then the Schubert "Erlking" and the artistry that could translate to terms of music the legend of the mythical bearded character at mention of whose name naughty children are supposed to shrink. Its vividness started delicious shudders. Then was that audience electrified, and the volume of appreciation increased after each succeeding number. Flowers quickly banked the piano.

OTHER NUMBERS ON LIST.

Places were found on the program for Edwin Schneider in "When the Dew Is Falling"; for Sydney Homer in two children's songs; Edward Alexander MacDowell in "The Swan Bent Low" and "A Maid Sings Light"; Walter Kramer in "The Last Hour"; and Percy Kahn in his "Ave Maria."

WOMAN WITHOUT NAME.

LONDON.—Though living at a Bayswater residential hotel for two years, a woman has never revealed her name and is known only by the number of her suite.

RAILROADS DROP UNIT PAY ACTION

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (By the Associated Press).—The Association of Railroad Executives yesterday decided to withdraw, so far as possible, from all questions dealing with labor, traffic and public relations, and to restrict the functions of the association to questions of national legislation, governmental action and policies and legal matters with a nation-wide application.

This action marks the passing of a nation-wide treatment of strikes and strike threats. Whereas the association dealt as a whole with the shopmen's strike this summer and the threatened strike a year ago, in the future each individual road, or each regional executive body, will act.

Members of the organization said one of the purposes of the decision was to get the treatment of labbr questins back in the hands of the individual roads.

HEINRICH AIDS BLACKMAIL CASE

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 8.—Assertion by E. O. Heinrich, handwriting expert of Berkeley, that Sidney Leggett, former theater man of Red Bluff, was the author of blackmailing letters written to Red Bluff capitalists was the outstanding development in Leggett's trial in the federal court here yesterday.

Heinrich presented handwriting samples half of which were taken from the letters and half of which were said to have been written by Leggett. The handwriting expert declared both were written by the same person.

Deputy United States Marshal Eugene Mulvey stated he had taken Charles J. Clark, former Red Bluff newspaper man, into custody Wednesday night, as a suspect but had released him. Thomas Dozier, Leggett's attorney, accused Clark of having written the letters.

GERMANS SEE U. S. HAND IN EUROPE TANGLE

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(By The Associated Press.) — American interest in European affairs, evidenced by Ambassador Child's declarations at Lausanne, Ambassador Harvey's utterances at London and the presence of Ambassadors Houghton and Fletcher in London on the eve of the premiers' meeting serves a section of the German press as a pretext for the assumption that the United States has determined definitely to abandon its "attitude of proud reserve."

While such deductions move the German editors to take a somewhat more hopeful view of the immediate international situation, there is an absence of optimism in official and parliamentary quarters, where the coming weeks are still viewed with unconcealed apprehension.

Children to Care For Man Blind in Suicide Attempt

Totally blind as the result of an attempt to kill himself after being named as co-respondent in a divorce case, George O. Baker will be taken care of the rest of his life by his two children, Hazel, 19 years old, and Archie, 16.

Baker's son and daughter made this promise during a visit to their father's bedside at the county hospital, where he is still in a precarious condition from the self-inflicted bullet wound in his head.

Baker attempted to take his own life last Tuesday in the apartment of Mrs. Lottie Clark, 516 Fifteenth street, after Leo R. Clark Fresno [illegible] merchant, had obtained a divorce from Mrs. Clark, naming Baker as "the man in the case."

Baker's daughter, Hazel, who lives at 1261 First avenue, said she hoped her father and Mrs. Clark would never meet again.

"She has ruined his life and I never want to see a reconciliation between them," the girl said.

Burglars Loot Safe On San Pablo Ave.

The office at the rear of the Bushman Electric Company, 2331 San Pablo avenue, was broken into last night and an attempt made to crack the office safe. Failing in this, the burglars robbed the cash drawer, obtaining $2. When employees of the company came to work this morning they found burglars' tools lying about on the floor. There was about $10 in the safe.

MAN CLAIMS WAS BEATEN.

The story of Robert E. Cronin, who claims that he was robbed and beaten is being investigated by the police. He was found last night in a dazed condition in the rear of a gasoline station at Eleventh and Clay streets by J. V. Young, 672 Fifteenth street. He was treated at the Emergency hospital. His ear was cut in half.

OBREGON WARNED AGAINST 'REDS'

VERA CRUZ, Mex., Dec. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Fascisti organization at Jalapa has warned President Obregon to eliminate Communism from the "plan of conduct" of the Federal government.

In a document containing thirteen questions as to the government's purposes, Fascisti asserts that the present manner of conducting the affairs of state "indicate that the Federal government is shaped so as to be the preliminary to the coronation of Communism."

One question asks whether the government already has adopted the Communist system or whether it is attempting to bring about such a regime. The communication asserts that, if President Obregon refuses to reply to the questionnaire, his silence will be interpreted as assurance that the government is about to accept Communism.

JAIL IS REFUGE FOR PENNILESS AUTO TOURISTS

REDDING, Dec. 8.—Three men riding in an automobile owned by one of their number, Frank Jackson of Indianapolis, were lodged in jail here last night when they asked the police to give them accommodations.

Jackson said the trio were touring the country having started from Chicago and their funds became exhausted just before they arrived in Redding. They were permitted to spend the night in jail while their automobile was parked outside the City Hall.

The other members of the party, gave their names as Charles Stengel, of Philadelphia, and Milton Zadek, of New York, who said he was a college graduate and who wore a fraternity emblem.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 8.—If you would live long, work and work

LIFE ON PLANET VENUS PROBABLE, SAY SCIENTISTS

Conditions Favorable For Existence of Protoplasms, Is Conclusion.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—The existence of life on the planet Venus may be considered highly probable, Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, said in a recent lecture here. He added that the question of life on Mars was controversial, but that its small mass and its great distance from the sun counted heavily against the probability of life there.

"Venus," he said, "is comparable to the earth in many ways and if, as is likely, living organisms develop wherever conditions are suitable over a sufficient interval of time, then it may be considered that life on Venus is highly probable. On no other bodies in the solar system, however, are conditions at all favorable for the existence of protoplasm."

Dr. Shapley said that accepting the tidal evolution theory of a planetary system, even for stars otherwise favorably located, an encounter of just the right sort with another star was necessary for the birth of a planetary system.

"And once such a family is born," he continued, "other stars must disturb the family, and the star's light intensity must remain essentially uniform for the enormous interval of time required for the crustal evolutions which must precede animate origins.

"Nevertheless, it appears probable that among the thousands of millions of stars there are here and there planets that conform to the requirements. Although the animal man is probably not duplicated in the universe, there are doubtless numerous other living earths, and the chance that their life phenomena surpass in intricacy and 'highness' those on the earth is as good as the chance that they fall below our level."

The search for habitable worlds, he said, was largely a search for conditions suitable for the existence of water in a liquid form. This, he added, was an absolute necessity for the development of life such as that on the earth, and a definite chemical constitution for air, land and water also was necessary. A planet's days and nights, therefore, must not be so long as to prevent the existence of water in a liquid form.

"It seems certain," he said, "that some water exists on Mars at times in a liquid form. The average astronomical opinion is that low forms of organisms may exist on Mars, that high forms are very improbable, and that beings physically comparable with man are absolutely impossible."

Education Handicaps Told by Commissioner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Assimilation of the foreign born, removal of illiteracy, adjustment of inequalities in educational opportunities, and inculcation of proper ideals concerning the American form of government, are paramount problems which the educational forces of the country must meet, in the opinion of Commissioner of Education Tigert as expressed today in his annual report.

"What we do or fail to do in public education," he said, "will largely determine the future of our experiment in democracy."

Informed leadership in dealing with these problems, the report declared, is needed more now than ever before. It was pointed out that while some of the states, through years of experience and consecutive efforts of trained leaders, have accomplished notable achievements in various phases of educational theory and practice, other states are still seeking the answers to many of the same questions, and laboriously and at great expense exploring ground that has already been carefully charted.

PROMOTES EDUCATION.

It is the work of the bureau of education, it was said, to promote the cause of education throughout the country, to disseminate such information, and to seek interstate cooperation. Much of the costly duplication and experiment was declared to have been saved by the bureau by making available to all the states the experiences and achievements of the most progressive and most highly endowed as far as its resources enable it.

Substantially increased support for the bureau, as a conservative investment, was recommended by Tigert, in the light of the service its activities render the whole population. He said the staff was so limited, through lack of means, that it was impossible for its specialists to give full attention to more than a small part of the perplexing questions upon which school authorities seek advice. Another handicap was the small amount available for publications. School Life, the monthly publication of the bureau, was necessarily discontinued for almost a year because of the failure of congress to agree upon a measure for the publication of periodicals by government bureaus.

INDIVIDUALITY SHOWN.

For each state to maintain its own system of education, adopting its own methods of organization, administration and instruction and determining for itself the amount and character of instruction which shall be provided for its children, the commissioner said, is entirely proper since the genius of the American people will probably never accept the idea of a centralized national system of public schools. The bureau's work, he pointed out, was to collect statistics and [illegible] tems and to publish the information so that educators in every part of the land will know what progress has been made in education.

To make its service more effective, the functions of the bureau are divided into four parts: Field service, research and investigation of special problems, educational surveys and dissemination of information. During the past year 41 surveys were made, including a state system of public schools, a state system of higher education, 31 of higher educational institutions, four of city public school systems, three of city school buildings and one of a county system of schools. Some of these necessitated from four to eight weeks study by a corps of experts. The resulting recommendation led to substantial improvement in the systems studied.

[illegible] the year was undertaken by a force of 199 persons sent to Alaska to help the people of the territory to earn a better livelihood by the reindeer industry, to give them medical attention, to relieve destitution among them and to maintain schools for them and their children. The distribution of reindeer [illegible] the enterprise as the form of industrial education best fitted to the races inhabiting the untimbered regions of Alaska remains under the supervision of the bureau of education.

'GIRTH CONTROL' FOILED AS CANDY SUPPLANTS DRINK

American Habit of 'Treating' Causes Increase in Waistlines.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Prohibition is making American men fat, cutting down the average span of life and piling additional work upon the American housewife. That is the indictment of the Eighteenth Amendment found in figures just compiled by the National Life Insurance Company following a national health survey.

It comes about through the American habit of treating, the survey shows. Unable to treat over the bar, Americans treat at the soda fountain, the candy counter and at restaurants.

Results—increased waistlines, less active heart action because of excessive fat and, thus, shorter lives. Increased work for housewives is incidental, occasioned by popping vest buttons.

"While prohibition has been beneficial in thrift, home building and peacefulness it materially has helped fat to become an enemy to human longevity," the survey said. "Except in the rarest instances, persons who live to ripe ages are thin.

"Exercise too often is taken too violently or merely results in increased appetites and enlarged consumption of food, offsetting the good results of athletics.

Rain Postpones Trial By Holding Witnesses

MARTINEZ, Dec. 8.—Because of inability of witnesses to leave Bradford Island owing to the heavy rain yesterday, the preliminary examination of Ray Wheeler, 18 years old, on a charge of robbery, scheduled yesterday afternoon, was postponed by Justice Frank Glass until December 12. Wheeler is charged with complicity in the robbery of a Chinese camp on the island in July. To forestall any further postponement due to weather conditions, arrangements have been made by the district attorney's office for transport by boat to Stockton of witnesses.

"Pride and Prejudice"

EVERY woman who has read the old novel knows of the woes that come where "Pride and Prejudice" rule. It's an old story ever new.

Prejudice is now keeping many women from using the pure, healthful Spread for Bread—

Nucoa

Made from the snow-white fat of the cocoanut and the purest of milk, Nucoa is a product which adds quality to the table, yet costs less than a spread made entirely of milk.

And here Pride enters too. Many housekeepers who have to study economy and who do not know that their richer neighbors are using Nucoa, are too proud to buy any but the most expensive spreads.

N.B. Set aside Pride and Prejudice. Buy a pound of Nucoa—it comes in a protecting carton. Try it. Then if you're not proud to say that you use it, return it to your grocer. He will refund your money without prejudice or quibble.

2 Auto Deaths in S. F. Bring Year Total to 125

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—The total deaths from automobile accidents in this city during this year increased to 125 today, following the death of two victims yesterday.

The latest victims from automobile accidents were Juan Gomez, 77 years old, 752 Howard street, a news vender, and Mrs. Sophia Schallich, 56, 3652 Sixteenth street.

Gomez was struck by an automobile driven by George Corona, 537 Columbus avenue, at Market and Mason streets December 4. He died at the San Francisco hospital, and police announced that the driver of the death car, now under arrest, will be charged with manslaughter.

Although witnesses claim the accident was unavoidable, Lloyd Flatland, 72 Castro street, who on Wednesday night ran down and fatally injured Mrs. Schallich at Market and Seventh streets, will also be charged with manslaughter, according to police. Mrs. Schallich died at St. Luke's hospital.

JAPAN IN WILD SPENDING ORGY

HONOLULU, Dec. 8.—Japan is in the throes of a wild orgy of spending and loafing, according to S. Yamamoto, president of the Motoshige Shoten, one of the largest Japanese wholesale establishments in Honolulu, who has just returned from a business trip to the Orient.

Commodities have reached the peak of high prices and the laboring class of Japan is receiving exorbitant pay. Carpenters in Tokyo, according to Yamamoto, receive from four to five yen ($2 to $2.50) a day and refuse to work over five hours. They start to work at 9 o'clock, rarely getting to the job before 10, and at 4 o'clock they quit.

Profiteering on a huge scale is practised by virtually every wholesale establishment in the islands, says Yamamoto, some houses realizing from 50 to 100 per cent profit.

Japan must economize or face disaster, says Yamamoto.

Real Estate Men Sue Shell Oil Co.

Claiming that, in violation of their lease, Charles C. Aisgood, with connivance of employees of the Shell Oil Company, made their real estate office at Manila and College avenues inaccessible by digging large holes in the ground and piling up dirt and other debris around their office, Jay A. Gould and T. J. Dunn, real estate operators, have filed suit for $4500 damages. The plaintiffs claim the defendants took these measures on July 1 last, although the plaintiffs had a lease on the premises that did not expire until November 1.

Wife Asks Divorce, Tells of Beatings

It was a daily occurrence for Earl P. Hull to become enraged and call her names, while on two occasions he severely beat her, Mrs. Nora G. Hull avers in a divorce suit filed today. The quarrels and beatings took place during the past year at 2138 McKinley street, Berkeley, the wife avers. Affirming that they were married in Oakland February 22, 1913, and separated on November 6 last, Mrs. Hull asks for custody of Marian, aged 6, and a divorce decree.

Husband Criticized Dress, Says Wife

Hugh E. Williams had the habit of criticizing her style of dress and her way of speaking English besides frequently quarreling with her, calling her names and taking money and spending it on himself, avers Mrs. Agnes E. Williams in a suit for divorce. They were married in Portland, Ore., June 31, 1917, and separated August 10 last, states Mrs. Williams.

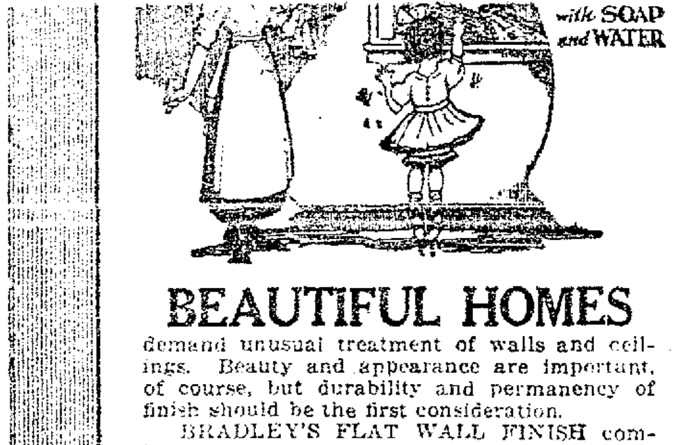
BRADLEY'S FLAT WASHABLE WALL PAINT



CAN BE WASHED with SOAP and WATER

BEAUTIFUL HOMES demand unusual treatment of walls and ceilings. Beauty and appearance are important, of course, but durability and permanency of finish should be the first consideration.

BRADLEY'S FLAT WALL FINISH combines every necessary requisite. It completely seals the pores of the walls, and dirt, dust and grease merely stay on the surface. By washing with a little soap and water, the original finish is instantly restored.

We have many attractive shades to choose from.

BLUE BIRD BUREAU of the TRIBUNE

Everyday's mail brings pleas such as these to the Blue Bird. "We are wishing for a happy Christmas. I know that you will not forget to bring us something to eat. I will pray each night until Christmas. When I see my mother's face wreathed in smiles of happiness when all the things come to the door I shall be happy. Please do not forget us Santa Claus, but please don't forget to make poor mama happy with something to eat; some of the good things that make home happy on Christmas."

Another concludes her plea with, "So please do not forget us Dear Blue Bird because if you forget us Santa will too."

It is to these that the Blue Bird must try to bring happiness with the help of the Goodfellows. Let it not be said that the more well-to-do in the Eastbay district willingly forgot the less fortunate and left them to grieve over their Christmas sorrows in silence! The Blue Bird will be "blue" if he has not enough presents, food and clothing to send to the girls and boys whose parents cannot afford to remember them with Yuletide cheer and plenty.

So Goodfellows send in your order for a family or part of a family now in order that the Blue Bird can make his preparations to provide a little for every worthy child, mother and father who asks for his help in this season of remembrance of others. Send in your contributions to the Blue Bird Fund or in passing The TRIBUNE office drop in and leave it with the cashier or custodian of the Blue Bird Fund.

"Keep the fires burning in homes where hearts are yearning."

"My Dear Blue Bird: I am a widow since last year and just came home from the county hospital. I have two children—would like to have something for the children for I am not able to buy anything. El- [illegible] Would be thankful for anything you give us. The children are always asking if Santa Claus is coming."

"Dear Blue Bird: I never thought I would have to ask for help, and it hurts me very badly to have to ask it—but my husband is out of work and I have two little children that are looking forward to Christmas and I know I can't buy them anything at all this year as we've been having so much bad luck. I just lost my father, brother and mother and we took my little brother, that was the only one left. So with my husband out of work and after we paid some bills we can't afford to get the babies any gifts. One of my girls is five years old and the other baby is nine months old. My little girl saw Santa Claus in one of the stores, and it made my heart ache to hear the little things she asked for knowing my circumstances. I do not like to ask you to help me because I am only one of many [illegible] the little girl said please bring me a doll, a stove and a Christmas tree.

"P. S. If you have one of those little sweater sets or a sweater of a coat that would fit my nine months old baby, I would appreciate it very much, she gets so cold."

How Clara Phillips Escaped—in Theory

Artist's drawing illustrating the generally accepted idea of how the "hammer murderess" broke out of the Los Angeles county jail early Tuesday morning. No. 1 shows the convicted woman's cell. No. 2 illustrates how she probably was assisted through the opening in her cell window. In No. 3 she is seen being lowered to the roof on a building adjoining the jail and No. 4 shows her leaving the roof by a narrow stairway, by which she reached Temple street, as in No. 5.—(Drawn by Los Angeles Times Artist, Charles H. MERCHANTS MEET FIRST TIME AS BUREAU MEMBERS

More Than 200 At Hotel Oakland Hear Dayton Expert.

More than 200 Oakland merchants gathered in the Hotel Oakland last night to take part in the first general meeting of the recently organized Retail Merchants' Bureau and to listen to W. H. Farley, of Dayton, Ohio, who made the subject of "The Science of Business" interesting and instructive

He told his hearers of the greater profits that come to those who properly study the methods leading to greater average sales. He told them that the motto of "good enough" was the enemy of all progress. He urged them to read of the methods employed by all others; urged the bigger stores to hold schools for their clerks to stock their stores with service and courtesy.

S B. Swan opened the meeting by telling his hearers that the Retail Merchants' Bureau has been organized for their benefit and that it would benefit them just to the degree to which they were willing to work for it. He predicted a future for the department but stated that it was entirely dependent upon cooperation.

Among the other speakers was Postmaster Joseph Rosborough, who urged his hearers to mail their Christmas packages early, stating that this year's business would be at least 25 per cent in excess of last year's. He set next Monday as the day on which packages to the East should be mailed and the 18th of December as the date for the mailing of local packages

According to Mrs Tenney, president of the league, definite outcome in the milk situation will be forthcoming by the early part of next week

Boy Commits Thefts To Satisfy Craving

ALAMEDA, Dec. 8. — A craving for candy and cigarettes prompted Stanley Anderson, 16 years old, living at 1547 Benton street, to attempt to secure loot from two Alameda stores last night, according to his admission to the police.

The first store entered was at 1314 Lincoln avenue, when goods valued at $5 were secured as checked up by P. Zappettini, owner.

Later in the evening Anderson tried to obtain smokes from a store at 1705 Lincoln avenue. He stuck a hook on a stick and, pushing it through the iron railing in front of the store, lifted a can from a shelf. He was arrested by Policeman L. Cook. After being questioned at the Alameda police station he was taken to the Detention Home

Autoist May Save $104 Forfeited Bail

BERKELEY, Dec. 8.—John Theodoridus, engineer of Bay Point, will have a chance of saving his $104 in forfeited bail money. On a plea from Theodoridus' attorney Judge Robert Edgar this morning set aside the forfeiture of bail recorded yesterday when the former appeared in court 15 minutes late.

As a result of the new court action a second complaint of speeding was filed against Theodoridus by Officer William Dean to replace a similar charge dismissed yesterday when bail was ordered forfeited on three other charges. Theodoridus also will face trial for reckless driving, for having no operator's license, and for having a white tail-light. All four cases will be heard next Wednesday.

Theodoridus was arrested by State Traffic Officer Lester Manning after he had narrowly missed running down two officers at San Pablo avenue and Camelia street.

heritance, then with patience and good courage it will be preserved. There never again will be precisely the old order; indeed, I know of no one who thinks it to be desirable. For out of the old order came the war itself, and the new order, established and made secure, never will permit its recurrence.

It is no figure of speech to say we have come to the test of our civilization. The world has been passing —is today passing— through a great crisis. The conduct of war itself is not more difficult than the solution of the problems which necessarily follow. I am not speaking at this moment of the problem in its wider aspect of world rehabilitation or of international relationships. The reference is to our own social, financial and economic problems at home. These things are not to be considered solely as problems apart from all international relationships, but every nation must be able to carry on for itself, else its international relationship will have meant importance.

No Excuse For Coal And Railroad Strikes

Doubtless our own people have emerged from the World War tumult less impaired than most belligerent powers; probably we have made larger progress toward reconstruction. Surely we have been fortunate in diminishing unemployment, and our international and business activities, which are the life blood of our material existence, have been restored as in no other reconstruction period of like length in the history of the world. Had we escaped the coal and railway strikes which had no excuse for their beginning and less justification for their delayed settlement, we should have done infinitely better. But labor was insistent on holding to the war heights and heedless forces of reaction sought the pre-war level and both were wrong. In the folly of conflict our progress was hindered and the heavy cost has not yet been fully estimated. There can be neither adjustment nor the penalty of the failure to readjust in which all do not somehow participate.

Financial Aid For Farmers By Congress

The railway strike accentuated the difficulties of the American farmer. The first distress of readjustment came to the farmer and it will not be a readjustment fit to abide until he is relieved. The distress brought to the farmer does not affect him alone. Agricultural ill fortune is a national ill fortune.

Agriculture has its vicissitudes which no legislation will prevent, its hardships for which no law can provide escape. But the Congress can make available to the farmer financial facilities which have been built up under government aid and supervision for other commercial and industrial enterprises. It may be done on the same solid fundamentals and make the vitally important agricultural industry more secure and it must be done.

This Congress already has taken cognizance of the misfortune which precipitate deflation brought to American agriculture. The very proof of helpfulness already given is the strong argument for the permanent establishment of widened credits heretofore temporarily extended through the war finance corporation.

Cheap-Transportation Vital to Agriculture

The farm loan bureau, which already has proven its usefulness through the federal land banks, may well have its powers enlarged to provide ample farm production credits as well as enlarged land credits. It is entirely practical to create a division in the federal land banks to deal with production credits, with the limitations of time so adjusted to the farm turnover as the federal reserve system provides for the turnover in the manufacturing and mercantile world. Special provision must be made for livestock production credits and the limit of land loans may be safely enlarged. Various measures are pending before you and the best judgment of Congress ought to be expressed in a prompt enactment at the present session.

But American agriculture needs more than added credit facilities. The credits will help to solve the pressing problems growing out of war-inflated land values and the drastic inflation of three years ago, but permanent and deserved agricultural good fortune depends on better and cheaper transportation.

Paralysis Predicted For Transportation

I know of no problem exceeding in importance this one of transportation. In our complex and interdependent modern life transportation is essential to our very existence.

We have built 40 per cent of the world's railroad mileage and yet find it inadequate to our present requirements. When we contemplate the inadequacy of today it is easy to believe that the next few decades will witness the paralysis of our transportation-using social scheme or a complete reorganization on some new basis. Mindful of the tremendous costs of betterments, extensions and expansions, and mindful of the staggering debts of the world today, the difficulty is magnified. Here is a problem demanding wide vision and the avoidance of mere makeshifts. No matter what the errors of the past, no matter how we acclaimed construction and then condemned operations in the past, we have the transportation and the honest investment in the transportation which sped us on to what we are, and we face conditions which reflect its inadequacy today, its greater inadequacy tomorrow, and we contemplate transportation costs which much of the traffic cannot and will not continue to pay.

Connect Up Rail and Sea Lines, Is Plea

Manifestly, we have need to transportation facilities. We should more effectively connect up our rail lines with our carriers by sea. We ought to reap some benefit from the hundreds of millions expended on international waterways proving capacity to utilize as well as expend. We ought to turn the motor truck into a railway feeder and distributor instead of a destroying competitor.

The motor car reflects our standard of living and gauges the speed of our present day life. With full recognition of motor car transportation we must turn it to the most practical use. It cannot supersede the railway lines no matter how generously we afford it highways out of the public treasury. If freight traffic by motor were charged with its proper and proportionate share of highway construction we should find much of it wasteful and more costly than like service by rail. Yet we have paralleled the railways and thereby taken away from the agency of expected service much of its profitable traffic, which the taxpayers have been providing the highways whose cost of maintenance is not yet realized.

Highway Competition With Railways Opposed

The federal government has a right to inquire into the wisdom of this policy, because the national treasury is contributing largely to this highway construction. Costly highways ought to be made to serve as feeders rather than competitors of the railroads and the motor truck should become a co-ordinating factor in our great distributing system.

This transportation problem cannot be waved aside. The demand for lowered costs on farm products and basic materials cannot be ignored. Rates horizontally increased to meet increased wage outlays during the war inflation are not easily reduced. When some very moderate wage reductions were effected last summer there was a 5 per cent horizontal reduction in rates.

Railways are not to be expected to render the most essential service in our social organization without a fair return on capital invested, but the government has gone so far in the regulation of rates and rules of operation that it has the responsibility of pointing the way to the reduced freight costs so essential to our national welfare.

Government Operation Does Not Afford Cure

Government operation does not afford the cure. It was government operation which brought us to the very order of things against which we now rebel and we are still liquidating the costs of that supreme folly. New economies, new efficiencies in co-operation, must be found. The fact that labor takes 50 to 60 per cent of total railway earnings makes limitations within which to effect economies very difficult, but the demand is no less insistent on that account.

Clearly the managers are without that inter-carrier, co-operative relationship, so highly essential to the best and most economical operation. The relationship of the service to public welfare demands the effective co-relation and a concerted drive to meet an insistent and justified public demand.

Merger of Lines Suggested As Remedy

The merger of lines into systems, a facilitated interchange of freight cars, the economic use of terminals and the consolidation of facilities are suggested ways of economy and efficiency.

President Harding recommended the pooling of freight cars and the establishment of an agency to finance railroads in buying equipment. Continuing, he said:

In a previous address to the Congress, I called to your attention the insufficiency of power to enforce the decisions of the railroad labor board; the carriers have ignored its decisions on the one hand, workmen have challenged its decisions by a strike, on the other hand.

The intent of Congress to establish a tribunal to which railway labor and managers may appeal respecting questions of wages and working conditions cannot be too strongly commended. It is vitally important that some such agency should be a guaranty against suspended operation. The public must be spared even the threat of discontinued service.

Public Must Not Be Deprived of Service

Sponsoring the railroads as we do, it is an obligation that labor shall be assured the highest justice and every proper consideration of wage and working conditions, but it is equal obligation to see that no concerted action in forcing demands shall deprive the public of the transportation service essential to its very existence. It is now impossible to safeguard public interest because the decrees of the board are unenforceable against either employer or employee.

The labor board itself is not so constituted as to best serve the public interest. With six partisan members on a board of nine, three partisans nominated by the employees and three by the railway managers it is inevitable that the partisan viewpoint is maintained throughout hearings and in decisions handed down. Only the public group of three is free to function in unbiased decisions. Therefore the partisan membership may well be abolished and decisions should be made by an impartial tribunal.

Contact With Interstate Commission Necessary

I am well convinced that the functions of this tribunal could be much better carried on here in Washington. Even were it to be continued as a separate tribunal there ought to be contact with the Interstate Commerce Commission which has supreme authority in the rate making to wage cost bears an indissoluble relationship. Theoretically fair and living wage must be determined quite apart from the employers' earning capacity but in practice the railway service, they are inseparable. The record of advance rates to meet increased wages both determine by the government is proof enough.

The substitution of a labor division in the Interstate Commerce Commission, made up from its membership to hear and decide disputes relating to wages and working conditions which have failed of adjustment by proper committees created by the railways and their employees offers a more effective plan.

It need not be surprising that there is dissatisfaction over delayed hearings and decisions by the present board when every trivial dispute is carried to that tribunal. The law should require the railroads and their employees to institute means and methods to negotiate between themselves their constantly arising differences limiting appeals to the government tribunal to disputes of such character as are likely to affect the public welfare.

Ample Power to Prevent Strikes Urged

This suggested substitution will involve a necessary increase in the membership of the commission, probably four to constitute the labor division. If the suggestion appeals to the Congress, it will be well to specify that the labor division shall be constituted of representatives of the four rate-making territories, thereby assuring a tribunal conversant with the conditions which obtain in the different rate-making sections of the country.

I wish I could bring to you the precise recommendation for the prevention of strikes which threaten the welfare of the people and menace public safety. It is an impotent civilization and inadequate government which lacks the genius and the courage to guard against such a menace to public welfare as we [illegible] enced last summer.

Public interest demands that ample power shall be conferred upon the labor tribunal, whether it is the present board, or the suggested substitute, to require its rulings to be accepted by both parties to a disputed question.

Security of Public Demands Prevention

Let there be no confusion about the purpose of the suggested conferment of power to make decisions effective. There can be no denial of constitutional rights of either railway workmen or railway managers. No man can be denied his right to labor when and how he chooses, or cease to labor when he so elects, but, since the government assumes to safeguard his interests, while employed in an essential public service, the security of society itself demands his retirement from the service shall not be so timed and related as to effect the destruction of that service. This vitally essential public transportation ought to offer the most attractive working conditions and the highest of wages paid to workmen in any employment.

In essentially every branch, the railroad worker is responsible for the safety of human lives and the care of vast property. His high responsibility might well rate high his pay within the limits the traffic will bear; but the same responsibility, plus governmental protection, must justly deny him and his associates a withdrawal from service without a warning, or under circumstances which involve the paralysis of necessary transportation. We have assumed so great a responsibility in necessary regulation that we unconsciously have assumed the responsibility for maintained service, therefore the lawful power for the enforcement of decisions is necessary to sustain the majesty of government and to administer to the public welfare.

Here's Program of Legislation Urged in White House Message

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(United Press.)—The recommendations of President Harding in his message to Congress, which form one of the most comprehensive programs ever submitted by an executive, included:

Abolition of the Railroad Labor Board and substitution of a labor division of the Interstate Commerce Commission, with power to enforce its decision against both carriers and employees. If that proposal is not approved, the board should be reorganized by removing all but the public representatives and the headquarters of the tribunal moved to Washington.

Steps must be taken to prevent strikes that threaten the public welfare.

Announcement that a conference of governors would be called here to discuss prohibition enforcement. The President emphatically declared for a strict enforcement of the prohibition amendment.

Greater facilities for agriculture and livestock interests.

Adoption of a constitutional amendment to abolish child labor.

Adoption of a constitutional amendment to restrict the issuance of tax exempt securities by State and the Federal government.

Extension of reclamation and irrigation work.

Conservation of forests.

Attention to the wide difference between the cost of production and the price paid by the ultimate consumer.

Creation of a central agency to aid railroad financing.

Approval of a proposal for survey of a plan to draft all resources of the country, human and material, for national defense.

Attention to the super power survey of the Eastern industrial region looking to unification of steam, water and electric powers.

No One Contemplates Commercial Aloofness

President Harding said the new tariff act would be administered with a 'broad mindfulness of the whole business situation" and then said:

No one contemplates commercial aloofness, nor any other aloofness contradictory to the best American traditions, or loftiest human purposes. Our fortunate capacity for comparative self-containment affords the firm foundation on which to build for our own security, and a like foundation on which to build for a future of influence and importance in world commerce. Our trade expansion must come of capacity and of policies of righteousness and reasonableness in all our commercial relations.

Let no one assume that our provision for maintained good fortune at home and our unwillingness to assume the correction of all the ills of the world, means a reluctance to co-operate with other peoples or to assume every just obligation to promote human advancement anywhere in the world.

The voice of the United States has a respectful hearing in councils, because we have convinced the world that we have no selfish ends to serve, no old grievances to avenge, no territorial or other greed to satisfy. But the voice being heard is that of good counsel, not of dictation. It is a voice of sympathy and fraternity and helpfulness, seeking to assist but not assume for the United States burdens which nations must bear for themselves. We must rejoice to help rehabilitate currency systems and facilitate all commerce which does not drag us to the very levels of those we seek to lift up.

Recrudescence of Hyphenated Americanism

While I have everlasting faith in our republic, it would be folly, indeed, to blind ourselves to our problems at home. Coming to our shores are the advocates of revolution, finding their deluded followers among those who take on the habiliments of an American without knowing an American soul. There is the recrudescence of hyphenated Americanism which we thought to have been stamped out when we committed the nation, life and soul, to the world war.

There is a call to make the alien respect our institutions while he accepts our hospitality. There is no need to magnify the American viewpoint to the alien who seeks citizenship among us. There is need to magnify the national viewpoint to Americans throughout the land. More, there is a demand for every living being in the United States to respect and abide by the laws of the republic. Let men who are rendering the moral fiber of the republic through easy contempt for the prohibition law, because they think it restricts their personal liberty, remember that they set the example and breed a contempt for war which will ultimately destroy the republic.

Dry Enforcement Nation-Wide Scandal

Constitutional prohibition has been adopted by the nation. It is the supreme law of the land. In plain speaking, there are conditions relating to its enforcement which savor of nationwide scandal. It is the most demoralizing factor in our public life.

Most of our people assumed that the adoption of the eighteenth amendment meant the elimination of the question from our politics. On the contrary it has been so intensified as an issue that many voters are disposed to make all political decisions with reference to this single question. It is distracting the public mind and prejudicing the judgment of the electorate.

The day is unlikely to come when the eighteenth amendment will be repealed.

Immigrants' Education Requisite to America

Our program of admission and treatment of immigrants is very intimately related to the educational policy of the republic. With illiteracy estimated at from two-tenths of one per cent to less than two per cent in ten of the foremost nations of Europe, it rivets our attention to a serious problem when we are reminded of a six per cent illiteracy in the United States. The figures are based on the test which defines an illiterate as one having no schooling whatever.

Remembering the wide freedom of our public schools, with compulsory attendance in many states in the Union, is convinced that much of our excessive illiteracy comes to us from abroad and the education of the immigrant becomes a requisite to his Americanization. Here is revealed the special field for federal co-operation during the education.

From the beginning public education has been left mainly in the hands of the states. But it is the especial obligation of the federal government to devise means and effectively assist in the education of the newcomer from foreign lands.

Child Labor, Tax Exempt Securities Amendments

Closely related to this problem of education is the abolition of child labor. The decision of the Supreme Court has put this power outside the proper domain of federal regulation until the constitution is amended. I recommend the adoption of such an amendment.

One year ago I suggested the submission of an amendment so that we may lawfully restrict the issues of tax exempt securities and I renew that recommendation now. Tax exempt securities are drying up the sources of federal taxation and they are encouraging unproductive and extravagant expenditures by states and municipalities. * * *

Cooperative Buying To Cut Living Costs

The wide spread between production cost and prices which consumers pay concerns every citizen of the republic. It contributes very largely to the unrest in agriculture and must stand sponsor for much against which we inveigh and that familiar term—the high cost of living. No one doubts that the excess is traceable to the levy [illegible] be unfair to charge him with all responsibility before we appraise what is exacted of him by our modernly complex life. We have attacked the problem on one side by the promotion of cooperative marketing, and we might well inquire into the benefits of cooperative buying. Admittedly the consumer is much to blame himself because of his prodigal expenditure, his action of service, but government might well serve to point the way of narrowing the spread of price, especially between the production of food and its consumption.

A super power survey of the eastern industrial region has recently been completed, looking to unification of steam, water and electric powers, and to a unified scheme of power distribution.

Survey of All War Resources Commended

The proposed survey of a plan to draft all the resources of the republic, human and material, for national defense may well have your approval. I commended such a program in case of future war in the inaugural address of March 4, 1921, and every experience in the adjustment and liquidation of war claims and the settlement of war obligations persuades me we ought to be prepared for such universal call to armed defense.

I bring you no apprehension of war. The world is abhorrent of it and our own relations are not only free from every threatening cloud, but we have contributed our larger influence toward making armed conflict less likely.

SURVEY OF U. S. WAR RESOURCES URGED ON SOLONS

Draft of Man and Industrial Power Advised As Precautionary Move.

Those who assume that we played our part in the World war and later took ourselves aloof and apart, unmindful of world obligations, give scant credit to the helpful part we assume in international relations.

No Sanction For Pacts Of Armed Alliance

Treaties of armed alliance can have no likelihood of American sanction, but we believe in respecting the rights of nations, in the value of conference and consultation, in the effectiveness of leaders of nations looking each other in the face before resorting to the arbitrament of arms.

Every obligation consonant with American ideals and sanctioned under our form of government is willingly met. When we cannot support we do not demand. Our constitutional limitations do not forbid the exercise of a moral influence, the measure of which is not less than the high purposes we have sought to serve.

After all there is less difference about the part this great republic shall play in furthering peace and advancing humanity than in the manner of playing it. We ask no one to assume responsibility for us. We assume no responsibility which others must bear for themselves, unless nationality is hopelessly swallowed up in internationalism.

Russian Burdened By Money in U. S.

Thus 25-year-old Nathan Rubenstein, Russian millionaire, explained his visit to America.

Rubenstein arrived here jauntily attired in a 148,000,000 ruble suit, which translated into American currency means $28. It was necessary, Rubenstein said, to pay for the garments on the installment plan because he could not get the entire 148,000,000 rubles into his wheelbarrow pocket at once. A million rubles, he said, will fill a grain bag, the customary Russian change purse so that it required more than a week for him to pay his tailor, even though he made ten trips a day to the shop with a couple of [illegible]

PEERESS WOULD BAR WOMEN FROM POLITICAL JOBS

Marchioness of Townstead Says They Take Parochial, Not National Attitude.

LONDON, Dec 9—"I really don't think that women should be in Parliament at all," said the Marchioness of Towshend in an interview.

"This is not, of course, because I think that a woman, by doing so neglects her home and her children, but because I feel that women in Parliament would be far too apt to concentrate on home affairs and the concerns of women and children—to take to the parochial instead of a national attitude.

"That is why I shall not attempt election to Parliament, but will confine my political activities to the social side, although I shall do some public speaking.

"One of women's greatest political faults in the past has been that they have continually spoken as though men, with wives and children of their own—to say nothing of mothers and sisters—were active enemies of our sex. That is one of the greatest mistakes ever made.

RIGHT TYPE PROBLEM.

"And another difficulty about women in Parliament is the trouble in getting the right type of woman to stand for election. We don't want to have nothing but spinsters who, however clever, haven't the broad sympathies and understanding of the best type of married women. Neither do we want the embittered woman who turns from disappointment in her married life to find solace in public service.

"But so far as I understand the women in England, outside the big cities, seems to take no interest in politics at all. That is a pity, and I think women enthusiasts should agitate with all their might to make women as keen on political affairs as men.

MORAL REVIVAL WORLD'S NEED, DECLARES ASTOR

Teachings of Christ Must Guide Awakening Christianity to Live.

By DAVID M. CHURCH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON. Dec. 8. — World codes must be revived in conformity with the teachings of Christ, according to Viscount Astor, if Christianity is not to become a failure.

The world is disturbed by new points of view regarding the position of women, class distinction, the movement against alcoholism, the relations of capital and labor, the brotherhood of man. Hosts of citizens are challenging these new advances, the viscount said.

America is now in the midst of a great moral struggle that may influence the trend of Christianity, the viscount said. America gave up intoxicants, but as with many a man who has done likewise, the American people are experiencing a moral struggle as to whether or not they are able to carry out their resolution. The cause of Christianity must be affected one way or another by the result of this struggle.

France is a drawback to the progression of Christianity, the viscount indicated.

"France," he says, "seems often very materialistic. Women's outlook, which is usually more moral and spiritual than man's, has but little influence on French national policy.

"Parisian life exemplifies too closely the saying: 'Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die.'

"On the whole French opinion, even in the provinces, considers man to be a sensual animal, and expects the Government to make unchastity as safe for him as possible."

Throughout the world, as in France, temperance and chastity are challenged, the viscount said, but Christianity has not failed.

"What the world needs now is fearless leadership and honest thinking. Democracy and Christianity have not failed where and when they have been properly tried. Christianity has not failed. It cannot have failed, because it has not been really tried, fully applied and understood.

"Democracy is not wrong, because we are not yet able or willing to apply the ideas of the brotherhood of man.

"There are indications of an awakening or resurrection from materialism, selfishness, self-indulgence and thoughtlessness, the awakening of our common conscience on the traffic in women and children, on the deception of alcohol, on slums and war.

Four Santa Cruzans Confess Burglaries

SANTA CRUZ, Dec. 8.—Four residents of Santa Cruz are under arrest and all have confessed to the commission of numerous burglaries in the city. They are members of local families and have been working with an automobile. They have stolen mostly furniture, rugs, bedding and tools.

The men, arrested at San Jose, were L. H. Hillman, Albert Gaub and Jack Welch, who worked at the Santa Cruz Portland cement plant. Marianna Morazzini was arrested at Glenwood after the officers had a race with the train in an automobile.

BRITAIN TO CUT TAXES, PROMISE OF CHANCELLOR

By F. A. WRAY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Relief is coming for the British taxpayer, says Stanley Baldwin, new Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"The Government is pledged to a reduction of expenditure in order to bring about reduction of taxation," he declares. "To do this we are prepared to face unpopularity from many classes of society.

"The financial position of Britain cannot improve in a moment. But once we reduce taxation industrial stagnation will be immeasurably improved. But the first thing is to bring down the present unmanageable expenditure.

"Better trade for Europe will only come when the question of reparations is settled. For this a better understanding between Britain and France is necessary. France has not always been an easy neighbor to work with, but the French position is different from the British.

"France is under the impression that we are willing to surrender everything to Germany in order to re-establish her, because our trade with Germany is a paramount importance.

"France is mistaken there, because her trade with Germany is of greater importance to her than ours is to us. At the same time, by careless handling of this problem Germany is being forced into bankruptcy or possibly revolution. She will then be the cancer spot of Europe and, while perilous to us, infinitely more perilous to France."

FREMONT HIGH STUDENTS GIVE CHRISTMAS PLAY

"The Evergren Tree," Which Scored a Success, Will Be Repeated Tonight.

"The Evergreen Tree," a new conception of Christmas legends by Percy MacKaye, will be repeated tonight by a cast of seventy Fremont High school students representing the Jesters' Workshop, the Community Theater organization of the school. The well executed production, which combines drama, song and dancing, was given its first presentation last night in the Fremont High auditorium. Other performances are announced for Thursday and Friday evenings, December 14 and 15.

The annual Christmas festival is the work of the Workshop students. Admission is complimentary, cards being issued through the principal, H. D. Brasfield.

Three hundred students have contributed to the final production of "The Evergreen Tree." Its preparation has extended over six weeks, under the direction of Miss Doris E. McEntyre, director of dramatic art.

Unique designs in color and setting have been worked out by groups directed by Miss Marietta Borrhees. The design classes have superintended the costuming under Miss Bessie Bell, domestic art de-

FILIPINOS STILL SUPERSTITIOUS

MANILA, Dec. 10.—The "herb doctor" and common quack flourishes abundantly in the Philippines largely because the people are not free from the ancient superstitions of their native religion, in which sorcerers conjured the kinder gods and implored mercy for the sick in weird incantations and mystic dances performed at the bedside of their patients.

But Donato Bascos, a poor farmer, recently played more than even with his "herb doctor." He became convinced that the man was a fake and invited him to sleep in the house overnight. When the "doctor" had dropped off to sleep Donato crawled from his bed and boloed him to death. This is the bare report of the constabulary, but it is likely that there was neighborhood gossip that the "doctor" was a "nancuculam," or one in league with the devil. Such killings are usually traced to such beliefs.

Even in Manila, thriving metropolis of the Philippines, old notions hang on tenaciously. The man, a licensed doctor, whom it is proposed by the Quezon party to have Governor-General Wood appoint as mayor of the city, once submitted a formal memorial to ex-President Taft (when he was Governor-General), in which the doctor said that Chinese were different and lower than other human beings. They even had different diseases and would not respond to the common medical remedies.

Golf Ball Is Driven Into Ear of Donkey

(By International News Service.)

CORK, Ireland, Dec. 8.—Izaak Walton has no modern champion, and so fish stories are giving way to golf stories.

J. W. McEvoy drove off the third tee at the Middleton links, and his ball entered the ear of a donkey on the course. The donkey stood still for a time, but when the players were within a few yards the animal took to its heels and tossed its head, and the ball came rolling to the ground.

It cost McEvoy one stroke when the argument had ended.

Paper Coats Now Worn in Boston

(By International News Service.)

These coats are of different colors, the predominating color being blue, and worn over a sweater. They make good smoking jackets.

Colonel H. G. Doyle brought a number of them from Germany and pronounced them warmer than woolen coats.

"Nagging" Is Divorce Charge of Husband

MARTINEZ, Dec. 8.—Charging [illegible] to prepare his meals and alleging she pursued a course of fault finding and nagging, Lester A. Hart, of Richmond, filed suit for divorce against Ruth A. Hart. The couple married in San Jose in July, 1921. A separation occurred, according to the complaint, on November 13 last when Mrs. Hart left voicing the opinion that they would be better off divorced. Pierce and Carlson are attorneys for plaintiff.

BRITISH BANKER [illegible] FOR RECOGNITION OF RUSS SOVIET

Sir Edgar Likens Empire's Policy to That of U. S. Toward Mexico.

By CHARLES A. SMITH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—"The first act of the new British government in the sphere of foreign policy should be the recognition of the Soviet government." Sir Edward Mackey Edgar, famous British banker and chairman of Sperling Brothers, gave this as his considered opinion in an interview with International News Service.

"So far as I can see," said Sir Edward," Russia is the dominating problem confronting the new government. What are we to do with Russia? On the answer to that question hangs the peace of Europe and the security of the British position in India and throughout Asia.

U. S. IS CRITICIZED.

"At present Britain seems to have no policy in regard to Russia. Or if she has one it is very like President Wilson's policy in regard to Mexico. Mr. Wilson would not recognize any government in Mexico because he disapproved of its origin. The consequence was that Mexico wallowed in bloodshed and chaos, when a helping hand would have set her on her feet again.

"Britain is making the same mistake with Russia. She disapproves of the Bolsheviks and therefore will have no truck with them. That is to say, she will sit with their delegates at international conferences and make trade agreements with them, but she will not 'recognize' them.

TRADE SUFFERING NOW.

"All this is bad policy, and British trade is beginning to find it anything but amusing. The Urquhart agreement stands out as an example. The agreement was not ratified simply because the Russian rulers cannot stand the way they are being treated by the British foreign office.

"In my opinion the new government could not make a better start than by ending the futile and, to British trade, costly quarrel with Russia."

BRITISH TROOPS TO BE WELL FED

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—British soldiers are to be fed henceforth as never before. So says the latest edict of the Army Council.

"Cookhouse" is no longer to be the dumping ground of the impossible soldier. Every man employed as a cook henceforth must be specially trained. Every officer henceforward must know enough about food to discover whether it is properly cooked or not. And attractive service of food is to be as essential as good cooking.

The new army cook from now on must not on any account begin his day's work without being shaved; he must not smoke in the cookhouse, on threat of direst punishment, and he must have clean hands and nails.

The new soldier of the line is to be given a cup of tea when he wakes in the morning, and a liberal breakfast is to follow. Each midday meal must consist of meat, vegetables and sweets, and a substantial tea and supper must follow each day.

"Lining-up" for rations is entirely abolished. Seating accommodation must be comfortable and adequate, and, above all, officers must make arrangements for food to be served steaming hot.

The war has taught the British War Office that Napoleon was right when he remarked that "an army marches upon its stomach."

Brother Contests Will Giving Widow Estate

NAPA, Dec. 8.—William F. McPike, brother of Jefferson Davis McPike, has filed a contest to the latter's will, which was recently presented for probate in the superior court by the widow, Phoebe McPike. The will leaves the entire estate, valued at $9000, to the widow.

The brother in his contest alleges that the will is not the last will of deceased, that it was not legally executed in the presence of witnesses, and that it should be declared void because of an alleged agreement settling all property rights, entered into between Jefferson Davis McPike and his wife, Phoebe McPike, some time before his death.

Debate for Trophy Will Be in Newman

NEWMAN, Dec. 8.—The decisive debate for the Wangenheim silver cup takes place this evening, between Oakdale and Newman high school teams in this city. Each school has won the trophy twice and tonight's winner becomes the owner. The cancellation of the allied war debt is the question for debate. George Smith and Walter Simmonds, who won the decision last year for Newman, will present the argument for the local school again. They are to present the affirmative. While debate is under way here another Newman team composed of Misses Ruth Merwin and Alice Franzen, will sustain the negative at Ceres.

Santa Rosa Rainfall 10 Inches for Season

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 8.—With a rainfall this season of 10:27 inches, as compared to 2.91 inches last year at the same date, Santa Rosa residents are inquiring if it would not be well to follow the example of ancient times set by Noah and build an ark. Santa Rosa creek and other streams are running almost bank full, carrying surplus water which could not be absorbed by the soil. One and nine-tenths inches of rainfall fell here during Tuesday night and awnings in the business section of the town were damaged by a strong wind which accompanied the rain.

MODESTO HIGH FACULTY VOTES AGAINST FINALS

This institution which has plagued high school students since high schools were first founded was abolished by the high school faculty yesterday in five minutes time.

They voted to abolish the curse, declaring it did not result in efficiency.

Instead, there will be frequent written exercises for all students during the semester.

MAN INDICTED IN STANISLAUS FOUND GUILTY IN SOUTH

Samuel Hansen Still Faces Charge of Getting 20 Acres of Land By Fraud.

MODESTO. Dec. 8.—Samuel Hansen, under indictment in this county on the charge that he stole title by forgery to twenty acres of land near Turlock, has been found guilty on a similar charge in Santa Ana. According to word received here the Santa Ana jury deliberated seventeen minutes on the case.

Hu Jones, Modesto abstract man, who was one of the principal witnesses against Hansen at Santa Ana, said that he identified Hansen at once upon entering the courtroom Monday, although it had been two years since he met Hansen in San Francisco. At that time, he charges, Hansen attempted to involve him in a fraudulent scheme to clear title to the twenty acres near Turlock.

This land, it is alleged, was stolen from James F. Waters, now living in Kansas City. Waters also was a witness against Hansen in Santa Ana. Waters did not know that he had lost his land until he attempted to pay taxes and was informed the taxes already had been paid. It is asserted the land had changed hands four times since the alleged fraud of Hansen.

Conviction at Santa Ana means that the local authorities will not have an opportunity to prosecute for a number of years, for the penalty on such a charge is from one to fourteen years in prison.

Modesto Elks Run Christmas Circus to Raise Charity Fund

Neighboring Cities in Valley of San Joaquin Send Delegations.

MODESTO, Dec. 8.—Hundreds of people, many of them representing other cities in the San Joaquin valley, have patronized the Christmas charity circus that is being conducted here this week by Modesto lodge, No. 1282, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The circus was opened Wednesday night and will continue until Saturday night. The proceeds of the enterprise will be devoted to providing Christmas cheer for the needy in Stanislaus county.

Modesto society folk are actively identified with the affair. Among those assisting are Mrs. Raymond Toomes, Mrs. Robert McDuffie and Mrs. George Chapman.

Last night was Merced night, and many Elks from that city, with their ladies and friends, attended. Tonight will be Stockton night, and Saturday night will be "1922 night."

The entire Elks' building is being utilized for the affair. It has been given the appearance of a mammoth circus tent. All the traditional concomitants of the circus are present, including side show, wild animals, peanuts and pink lemonade.

Livermore Rushing Christmas Seal Sale

LIVERMORE, Dec. 8.—The Christmas Seal sale campaign is well under way in Livermore and the surrounding country. The committees in charge of the sale are all working hard to put Livermore over the top and Mrs. Chesley Bush, who is at the head of the [illegible] goal within a few days.

The seals are selling fast and local people are greatly interested in the success of the drive because of the close proximity to the Del Valle health farm, the Alameda county institution for undernourished and tubercular children. Part of the money raised by the seals will be used to erect permanent buildings and make needed improvements at the farm. A benefit show will be given at the Bell Theater next Sunday night to raise funds for the cause.

Niles Cannery Pays Out $100,000 in Year

NILES, Dec. 8—More than $100,000 was distributed among the workers of Niles and the rest of Washington township by the Schuckl cannery here durring the season just closed, according to recent reports of F. W. Drew, superintendent of the plant.

The books of the company show that the cannery bought from growers in this locality 800 tons of apricots at $100 a ton; 2000 tons of tomatoes at $16.50 a ton; 200 tons of cherries at $200 a ton. Besides this 2000 tons of peaches were shipped in from Marysville and 60 tons of cherries and 300 tons of apricots from San Jose.

STANFORD GIRL DEFIES ADAM TO THROW EVE OUT

Women Find They Have Twelve Ribs Instead of One, She Replies.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 8.—"Throw 'em out!" insists Leon T. David, sophomore writer of Sequoia Club, in an indictment of Stanford women published recently in the Stanford Pictorial, a magazine of student opinion here. Coeducation at Stanford is a failure, thinks David, because there are four times as many men as women, a fact which he believes elevates women to a higher social plane than they would ordinarily occupy.

Answering David, Miss Ruth Wilson says women are beginning to learn that they have twelve ribs of their own, instead of the one Adam gave Eve. Moreover, Miss Wilson says, they find that they have a brain, and are beginning to use it.

"According to dominant interests," writes David, "there are three groups existing among the '500.' These are the women who make learning their all-compelling star in a college education. There are those who have come here to stay, 'because, my dear, it's the rage nowadays,' and because it means a good time. Then there is the group which is here to put out matrimonial bait."

In referring to those who "put out bait," David continues: "Class three combines the attributes of class two, with a diligent searching out of 'eligible young men.' This group is more subtle and dangerous than the second. Class two stalks a good time, innocent enough without petting; but class three plays up every prospect, and gives every opportunity for moonmadness. The disciples of this group do not long bother the ordinary Stanford man, who seeks a pal rather than a permanent adjunct in his campus attachments with one of the opposite gender. These damsels are but more sophisticated editions of the small town country cousin who invites the unwary to come home and meet her family, said gentleman having smiled at her across the church. Both these jazz babies and man hunters are inclined to dress out of accord with their surroundings. To be classy is an asset to each. Hence, in proper weather, they may be seen on the campus, having draped themselves scantily or gunsackily, according to the styles, using silk, satin and crepe de chine. They wear what sensible girls would term 'party dresses' to class in a university where the men have as a whole adhered to established simplicity and democracy in dress."

David sums up the situation as follows: "Adam was the first to land on terra firma. Eve was an afterthought, which Adam kindly provided for by the donation of a rib; and yet when she arrived, she caused trouble and had both of them thrown out of Eden.

"Adam Rough was the first in this Eden. Co-Eve was an afterthought, having swiped a rib from the college skeleton to establish herself. Now it has come to a point where she would fain believe Adam has no place here; at least she treats him that way. She has false ideas of her own importance. As remarked before, 500 women have no place in the midst of 2000 men. Throw them out."

Miss Ruth Wilson, a senior student and a member of the Roble Club, replies to David's attack as follows: "Throughout the usual man's opinion of a Stanford woman runs the strain 'She's too independent.' Men used to prefer the clinging vine type—the kind made from Adam's one rib. It has always pleased him to develop this variety. Only in the present day have women begun to learn how to stand on their own feet. They have discovered that they have not only been endowed with twelve ribs, instead of one, but a brain as well. Stanford has probably done more to develop this feeling of independence than any other university. And now that it has developed, some men want to extinguish it. Let the men wake up to the fact that perhaps they themselves have a false idea of their own importance. If the interests of Stanford are now 'predominately masculine,' it is time for them to be stretched to interests broad enough to include at least 500 women."

OROVILLE, Dec. 8.—An adobe house, roofed with growing clover, is now being constructed by J. M. The house, which is designed for farm life in the Sacramento Valley, will be unique among California homesteads.

TRACY PLANNING CELEBRATION FOR LINCOLN HIGHWAY

TRACY, Dec. 8.—A celebration upon the completion of the paving of the Lincoln highway through Tracy and the erection of the two electric arches on that highway, was decided upon by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their meeting this week.

The directors feel that there is just cause for celebration over the era of progress into which Tracy is now passing. The development of this district into a rich irrigated section with many alfalfa fields, dairies, orchards and vineyards is fast progressing.

It is also an era of building. Many attractive homes are being erected. J. L. Paige is completing a splendid modern $65,000 theater. $150,000 has been spent in up-to-date school edifices. The postoffice will soon be in an up-to-date building on Central avenue. Other business blocks are being contemplated and some two miles of streets are being paved. All this will culminate at about the same time and will result in a worthy celebration.

The details of the celebration have not yet been worked out and the date will be set acording to the completion of the highway.

SPRECKELS WILL REMAIN IN FIELD AT PLEASANTON

Company Announces That It Will Continue to Grow Sugar Beets There.

PLEASANTON, Dec. 8. — Announcement was made this week that the Spreckels Sugar Company would continue to grow beets in this district. Contrary to many rumors and reports circulated, which were without foundation, the Spreckels Sugar Company does not intend to abandon the local field in 1923.

Although the territory did not give forth the large acreage that the company expected here the last season, still both the farmers and the company were satisfied with the results. The district yielded almost a 11-ton acreage crop, which already has brought over $8 per ton.

Last week the Spreckels people made an additional payment of 10 per cent on the beets delivered in September and October, which amounted to over $3000, and it is expected that further payments will be forthcoming in December and January.

The local crop may be expected to bring around $9 per ton, if sugar keeps at the price it has been the past few weeks, which is $2.50 per ton more than the farmers were asking this past season, when a flat contract of $6.50 was being solicited of the company.

It was advantageous to the farmers to accept the contract the company offered them, which is governed according to the net selling price of sugar and all the farmers announced themselves pleased that they accepted it now that a substantial increase in price of sugar is noted.

The Spreckels Sugar Company anticipates being able to offer a labor proposition that will appeal to the farmers and that will encourage more to plant this coming season. The district has plenty of good land available for this crop, and large acreages that have been planted to other crops these past years should be planted to beets next year.

Although the local Spreckels office could not give out any reliable information on what the 1922 contract would be, still it is considered probable that the same contract offered for the last year, known as the southern contract, will again be given them.

Already work has been started plowing up the heavy lands which are particularly adapted to beet growing and which this past year yielded such splendid tonnages. Much work is expected to be completed before the heaviest rains set in and since the beet harvest concluded on the 24th of November, men, teams and tractors have been working up a big acreage.

Battery Contact Bad, But Police Contact Is Good

CROCKETT, Dec. 8.—P. B. Caster of Crockett is known by readers of this community as pilot of a green painted auto.

While endeavoring to take a friend from Oakland to San Leandro Tuesday night, the contact of his headlight batteries suddenly became bad. With equal suddenness the contact with speed cops became good. Seven contacts were made with the guardians of the night thoroughfare, who requested an audience. No. 7 escorted the auto to a berth in a garage for the night

A message from friends in San Francisco Wednesday morning informed Caster that they were taking up a collection to get him a car with good headlights.

UNITED STATES COYOTE TRAPPER RETURNS TO JOB

NAPA, Dec. 8.—As a result of a hearing in the Farm Adviser's office at the court house, J. Smith, government coyote trapper who had been operating in Pope Valley and who was recently discharged from the service on a charge of "political activity" will be reinstated.

Smith, regarded as one of the best trappers that has ever been engaged in the work in Napa county, was dismissed from the United States Biological Survey by Director C. G. Pole on information contained in a letter and signed "C. J. B. Thelan." In the letter it was claimed that its writer and several other residents had positive proof that Smith was spending much of his time interesting ranchers in the candidacies of certain politicians and that he even conveyed voters to the polls on election day.

When the hearing was called no "Mr. Thelan" was present and although a search was made of the list of postal patrons, great register and every other public record of Napa county residents, the name was not to be found.

POSSE CAPTURES SLAYER SUSPECT IN DELTA SEARCH

Hindoo Accused of Shooting Two Fellow Countrymen On Island Run Down.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 8.—After a search that lasted throughout the night in the river delta lands a posse headed by Sheriff R. R. Veale at 4 o'clock this morning overtook and captured Chadden Singh, said to have shot and killed two fellow Hindoos at Hotchkiss island.

The officers came upon Singh near Oakley, fifteen miles from the scene of the shooting. He was brought to Martinez and is held in the county jail here.

In the posse with the sheriff were Under Sheriff William Veale, Deputy Sheriffs H. L. Brady, Dike Joslin and Ralph Harrison.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 8.—Inder Singh and Harry Singh were shot to death last night at Hotchkiss Island, fifteen miles from Pittsburg, by Chadden Singh, a coworker, following an argument in a mess house after the dinner hour, according to a report received here late last night by Sheriff R. R. Veale.

Chadden Singh escaped from the Island in a rowboat and disappeared on the mainland which is in the Delta region of the Sacramento river.

According to Sheriff Veale who went to the scene of the shooting last night, the affair resulted from a religious argument between Chadden Singh, who recently came to the island from Stockton and older employees.

The first two shots took effect on Inder and Harry Singh and they fell with bullets in the heart.

Mrs. Ruth L Rogers, who seconded Wilbur's motion, also declared that no further action will be taken in the matter at the present. Both Wilbur and Mrs. Rogers, however, declared that the efforts to end alleged illicit sales of liquor will be carried on with renewed intensity.

Technically the motion to ask for Schilling's resignation is still before the council. R. A Kolze, chairman, and F. J. Cunha voted against the motion, while Mrs Rogers and Wilbur voted for it. Samuel Simons, the fifth member of the council, was not present at the meeting.

Wilbur and Mrs Rogers declared today that they are directing a fight not against Schilling, but against illicit dealers in liquors. Mrs. Rogers declared that, in her opinion, Schilling has proven himself a good officer in every other respect than prohibition enforcement.

STATE BUDGET AND SAVINGS.

The fixed budget of the state of California, it is announced, is in the neighborhood of 59 millions of dollars. As a round figure this will stand as that sum from which nothing may be taken to effect a saving, a sum which must be appropriated.

It is from the amount over this 59 millions, and up to the 88 millions which were spent by the last legislature, the economy administration must make its saving. There is a margin of 29 millions in which all of the cutting must be made. Quite possibly a considerable cut can be made. Unless the trimming damage the plant in such manner that future costs will more than offset present gains the taxpayers will applaud whenever so much as a dollar is saved.

Under the law the Governor has powers over appropriation bills which practically mean he may steer them where he will. He can veto items in such bills, cutting out appropriations which do not please him and he can say, unless overridden by a two-thirds vote, what items shall not go into the measure. How else will the governor-elect be able to save? There is, of course, the plan to reduce salaries and abolish offices. It may be found there are listed as jobs certain activities or sinecures which are not needed and yet there is no one who will say the sum total of all such salaries will amount to any considerable sum. A reduction of salaries for men who are performing service for the state will bring up the objection that this can only mean a lowering of the quality of service and the driving out of men who are really equipped to perform their tasks.

The man who would economize in state expenditure will find the third way the most baffling. It contemplates the trimming of expenses in the various institutions, or abolishing some in their entirety. No such action may be taken without working hardship and suffering unless it is predicated upon an investigation of experts. It must be shown there is a waste which may be stopped, that agencies are in the field doing a work for which there is no need. For every institution there are hundreds of supporters and hundreds of arguments for perpetuation.

If the effort to save money, to hold down the budget for California, is responsible for a painstaking and conscientious investigation of all state agencies, offices and expenditures to the end that waste be stopped something will [illegible] or small the saving may be. It must be remembered, however, that all of the saving must be made from the $29,000,000 above the fixed charges. If anything like the $15,000,000 promised is cut from that sum it will mean a fifty per cent reduction accomplished by the trimming of jobs, salaries and [illegible].

The public is ready to welcome reduction in state expenses. It has always looked hopefully to the State Legislature for signs of economy. This year it has a promise to back the hope and will give to the proceedings at Sacramento a particular attention.

A CHANCE TO HELP.

The season for the endurance test for postal clerks, carriers and salespeople is on. From now until Christmas at the postoffice a corps of extra clerks will be engaged in helping the regulars with the task of handling the deluge of letters, cards and gifts. The deluge has set in at the stores, to reach its highest point the week before the holiday.

The public has no more than the moral obligation to make the work easier for those who see in the holidays the peak period of long hours and hard work. By so much as mailing letters and cards early in the day and as early as possible before Christmas, service may be performed. The "shop early" admonition, voiced so many times, has not outworn its point.

There is every indication that this is to be the greatest Christmas Oakland and the Eastbay has seen. There [illegible] that the public is extending the spirit of good will and service to the salesmen and clerks in measure never before approached.

Do your shopping and your mailing early. Save the last minutes for those things which you are bound to overlook.

CREDIT DUE TO POLICE.

It is the American's privilege, almost his recreation, to criticize police departments. The nature of the policeman's job forces standards upon him higher than those of any other body of men so selected and so rewarded. An error, a misdeed, of one reflects on the whole number.

When members of the Oakland department pursued, halted, and captured a desperate bank robber within an hour after the word had come that he had left the scene of his crime they, and the whole force, deserved the highest of praise. They took their lives in their hands, exchanged shot for shot with a desperate man, and came out the victors.

There is no cause to exult in death and yet death was the only end to the road chosen by the Danville bank robber. He had the opportunity to surrender, at Danville and in Oakland, and he chose to blast his way through. From the time he entered the bank armed with a revolver he was a potential murderer. When he started firing at Danville citizens and when he shot again at the police in this city he was at heart a killer of men.

The prompt capture of this robber reflects with credit to the calibre and training of the Oakland police. It will serve as a warning to other men of twisted brain who would rob banks and defy law. Hereafter when men would be free with blanket criticism of the police this incident may come to mind to temper the words with something of fairness and appreciation.

QUIET ADVENTURERS.

How many are there in the Eastbay who know a dowitcher from a willet or a godwit? Would the news that the first named is not abundant at any time and that the other two are becoming increasingly abundant awaken a wide response, and if so, what would be done about it? Do we wish godwits and dowitchers around?

There are a number of persons here who may question the general ignorance concerning these things and they are of the ranks of bird lovers. Every day in the year they are on the lookout for new visitors, for the arrivals and departures of old friends in the feathered tribe. They are students of a beautiful and intensely interesting part of the life of a state which is bountiful in the larger and more apparent things to attract the eye and imagination.

If one reads any of the bird magazines he will find a report of the shifting population of the songsters, gulls, warblers, vireos and others of Oakland and Alameda county. Those who render the reports perform a double service in attracting the attention of the country to the bird life which is here and in adding to the study of bird life the data of this locality.

There is romance in the simple fact that Mrs. Kelly saw Brown Pelicans near the ferry-boats; that Miss Wythe and Mrs. Allen reported a red-breasted Nuthatch on September 7; and that a Cassin Vireo, an unusual bird, was seen on the University Campus by Dr. Grinnell. The bird-lover has discovered the secret of quiet and satisfying adventure.

"SIERRA TO THE SEA."

"From The Sierra to the Sea," is more than a slogan which slips easily from the tongue. It is the objective of roadmakers in the San Joaquin Valley and the subject of thought and discussion.

At Coalinga the chamber of commerce is taking leading part in calling a meeting of the valley counties to give a new impetus to the highway which shall connect the mountains with the sea. Monterey county is giving its efforts to the project. To connect the coast and valley roads so far constructed forty miles of lateral highway must be built. It is this forty miles which stands between "The Sierra and the Sea," between giving to the San Joaquin Valley as an added inducement and asset the fact its cities and towns will be but a few hours from the seashore or the mountain heights.

The road will be built. The question is, how soon? There are too many obvious advantages to be gained by such a lateral to permit the plan to remain neglected for any great length of time.

French bakers have discovered that the moment they go on strike they become soldiers. The result is discomfitting and embarassing for no sooner have they changed their white hats for the army chapeau than official orders come for them to bake bread. Then it is be a baker or face court martial and in the meantime the regular army bakers are furnishing the bread supply for Paris. This is the Poincare way of breaking a strike and is being used right now when all of the striking Paris bakers have been called to the colors. The compulsory army law has made it possible.

If it were not for the office boys in the outer offices more words would reach the wise.

We must apoligize for not having had any verse of our own in this department lately. We can't write verse any more unless the conditions are just right. We say nothing of poetry. What they call poetry nowadays, much of it, can be written by anybody, in any position, at any time. But honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned verse, with rhymes in it and everything, is hard work for us, especially in the autumn. If we get the least bit cold there is nothing doing. And if we sit down by a steam radiator it either grunts or hisses us. We have always envied Fothergil Finch.

Anything Fothergil writes he can write at any time. Fothergil sees beauty everywhere. "Oh, the Beautiful Swine," said Fothergil one day, gazing dreamily into a pigpen. "Let me cast some pearls before them." But the swine, as usual, were unappreciative. They liked their own poetry better. Fothergil has the humility of a great artist. "My pearls were not good enough for the Beautiful Swine," he murmured.

We always liked the poem he wrote a couple of years ago at the time he lost his hair. Fothergil was wandering among the rainy hills of April with his soul full of jonquils and his thorax fulfilled of influenza germs when he came to a little brown and silver pool where the rathe frogs croaked, longing for some Narcissus to come and join them in their play. "Beautiful Frogs!" cried Fothergil. The frogs replied by conjugating a Greek verb full of it's and K's, and a lizard slithered upward to the margin of the still water and regarded him with a wide and friendly smile.

"Beautiful Saurian!" said Fothergil, kneeling beside the pool, and at that instant a Beautiful Goat, inspired by the Slapstick Demi-Urge, kicked him with its horny head and Fothergil plunged forward and sank like bread that has been cast upon the waters.

He arose with his mouth full of slime and song, and this is the poem he uttered:

Beautiful Goat! did Pan send you?
Look me in the eye!
Tell me, are you a real Goat,
Or a Symbol?
If you are real, you are a Symbol!
And if you are a Symbol, [illegible]
You are real!
Ouch! do not be too real!
Goat, you are eating my hair!

Every time Fothergil tried to get out of the pool the Beautiful Goat butted him in again, and the pool was so small that the Beautiful Goat could reach Fothergil's head from the edge of it. The poem continues:

Lock by lock
You are stripping from my head
My [illegible] hair!
Ouch!
More gently, Beautiful Goat,
I adjure you
By our father Pan, more gently!
You smile at me
Eye to eye we stand
In the true community of song,
Swayed by the Panic rhythm of the earth.
And as you smile into my eyes
You eat my hair!
I may never travel
Hither, little band!
There is a lesson in this!
Ouch!
My hair, my elastic hair
Shall turn to springs
Within the inwards of this Goat.
And he shall bound and leap
More blithely on the hills of morn
His hoofs shall make music on the rocks,
And his beard shall be a shaken banner
In the sun!
The rhythm that was in my flowing hair,
The song that crowned my head,
Are passing into this Goat,
This chosen Goat,
This friend of Pan.
And he will utter them in motion.
He will be a black and dancing
Silhouette at dawn
Against the red glory
Ouch!
Yes, I will turn 'round!
[illegible]
too!
Take all! Take all!
O tragic barber with the scented beard,
Take all!
Ouch!
Try and get it even!

There is a good deal more of the poem, but perhaps this is enough [illegible] spirit. When the Beautiful Goat had taken all he bounded away toward the west. Fothergil's last glimpse of him was on top of a hill, leaping, and he seemed to bound directly into the golden sun itself, and vanish. "A lovely meeting of Pan and Apollo," as Fothergil put it himself. Fothergil, murmuring, "My head is bald, but still unbowed" crawled from the pool, took a touching farewell of the frogs and lizards and came musing back to town. "Nature invents such awkward little idylls!" said Fothergil, smiling leniently at Nature.

The circumstance would have annoyed us excessively. But Fothergil is a modern of the moderns. He sang the Beautiful Fact while yet the Beautiful Fact was taking form; occurrence and interpretation were simultaneous.

Excerpts from the National Press

Chicago Tribune: "It is said D'Annunzio will visit America. He will be welcome. There is no man in Europe whom the American public would be more curious to see in the flesh and to hear. We have read of his fiery eloquence. His extraordinary influence upon events in Italy, from the campaign which ended with her entry into the war to the astounding adventure at Fiume and his part in inspiring the Fascist movement, has proved him one of the great personalities of his generation."

New York Herald: "The bitterest thing about Debs' speech in Chicago is not the venom of his words but the fact that he is free to utter them. When Debs was pardoned eleven months ago Attorney-General Daugherty issued a statement in which he expressed his hope that Debs would 'devote his talent to some useful purpose.' The only purpose to which Debs devotes his talent is the purpose of the anarchist, the bolshevist and the common or garden crook. 'I despise and defy their laws!' screams the beneficiary of the president's mercy."

To delegate to the maker of the statute its application might be as wise as interesting."

Cincinnati Times Star: "Robert W. Huck of Illinois has the hardest job in the world just now. He is the first husband of a congresswoman. The predecessors of Mrs. Robert W. Huck are spinsters. They came alone to their seats in congress. Mrs. Huck was escorted to Washington by a husband and for the two years of her term will have a 'prince consort' in the gallery."

Brooklyn Eagle: "London chefs are reported as denying the fitness of cranberry sauce to serve with roast turkey. They admit currant jelly with mutton, and apple sauce with pork, but call the cranberry sauce a 'sweet.' Their opinion counts for little. Until Paris speaks we shall follow our American tastes. Even then, if Paris agrees [illegible] prefer rebellion to submission."

JUST FOLKS

HIS SERVICE.

He would have said: "I've never done a thing,
When brains were handed out I wasn't there;
Some fellows write and some are born to sing,
And others climb in planes and ride the air.

"God made me out of odds and ends, I guess,
The leavings from a batch of clay He used;
I seem to lack the genius for success
By which the world might gain or be amused.

"There wasn't any flavoring of skill
Nearby which He could drop into the mold,
I was the bit of pastry, fashioned ill,
That's given to the children when it's cold."

He couldn't write or paint or make a speech,
Nothing he's done has ever brought him fame,
He had no gifts the heights of Life to reach,
Yet he shall be remembered just the same.

His years were filled with kindly little deeds,
He gave cheered, helped and comforted and soothed;
His was the service Life so often needs
In little ways the rugged paths he smoothed.

And call it nothing, in his modest way;
He thought success was brilliance or style,
[illegible]
the day.

He thought so little of the joys he gave
That he would be astounded could he know—
Now that the earth has closed upon his grave—
How many friends he had who miss him so.

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vandervoort recently entertained a group of young people at a progressive euchre party at their home in Pleasanton.

"The California Engineer and Applied Scientist" is the name of the latest University publication.

Honest Answer.

"I'm afraid, my friend," said the lecturer, interrupting his address to point an accusing finger at a little man who was yawning in a front seat, "that you are not following me closely."

"I'm not a friend of yours, and I'm not here to listen," said the little man. "I'm waiting to put out the lights and lock up the hall."—Topics of the Day Films.

Was Tiger's Star Pupil

She has verve and fire almost equal to the Tiger himself—this pupil of Clemenceau—who tells stories of the old days when the famous man of France was a struggling young doctor trying to eke out his existence in America by teaching at the Catherine Aiken school for girls at Stamford, Conn.

Mary Emma Hewes was her name then, before she married John Ferens and settled down in Brooklyn, and one can imagine this sprightly lass of 16 led her young teacher a pretty dance, if one is to judge from the present twinkle in her roguish blue eyes. There's not a line on her face, although she has passed her seventy-second birthday, and the way she tripped up the stairs to rummage in an old trunk for her picture would put some of the modern light steppers to shame.

"He was 24," she said, "and I was 16. It was positively miraculous the way he pounded French into our heads. I never saw any one so dynamic. He was keen for results. Quickly he'd write a French anecdote on the board, give us a moment or two to read it, then erase it and ask us to reproduce it.

"He had his mustache, even then, and though he never tolerated any nonsense, still we girls used to often think we detected a smile under that mustache. He'd scold us when we deserved it, oh, yes, but it was all over—poof—like that. He never nagged.

"There was one girl in our class who wrote very poorly and monsieur would scold her. One day she brought an exercise which he couldn't make head nor tail of. 'Read it yourself, mademoiselle,' he commanded. 'I can't discern one word,' and his tiger eyes flashed. But the poor, frightened, little thing couldn't even read it herself, and Clemenceau burst right out laughing.

"He only came Mondays and Tuesdays, though, as he was practicing medicine in New York among the poor. I don't believe he was paid a cent for it. They said he came to America because his father, as head of the Communists, was sent into exile and France would not tolerate him."

Mrs. Ferens modestly admitted that she was the 'Tiger's star pupil.' "I succeeded because I loved French," was her comment, "but more because Clemenceau was my teacher. No one could help being carried along under his forceful impetus. It did not surprise me in the least to see the high station he has reached in France and the world. It is like him. It is what we expected."

Mrs. Ferens went on discussing the old times at the school. "There was another girl," she continued, "who always used to skip her classes and go sit in the summer house reading forbidden novels. Monsieur seemed somehow to sense that she was somewhere in the vicinity and one day he went out to her with a chair. 'Mademoiselle,' he said gallantly, 'here is a chair for you. Tomorrow I bring the desk.'

"Monsieur Clemenceau often went horseback riding with the girls. I think that is how he became interested and finally in love with my classmate, Molly Plummer. No one [illegible] except Miss Aiken, knew about it till the end of the term, when he sailed back to France to arrange for the wedding ceremony. It was very lucky we did not know about it. You know how curious school girls will get all at a budding romance in their midst."—New York Mail.

Do Christmas Mailing Early, Says Postmaster

Postmaster Joseph J. Rosborough has sent out a warning to the public that Christmas falling on Monday this year and all postoffices throughout the United States being closed on Sunday, people will have to mail their packages at least two days earlier this year than last. The mailer is permitted to write on the outside of his package, "Do not open until Christmas."

The large Eastern cities are urging the public to mail for out of town delivery early in the week beginning December 11, and for city delivery during the week ending December 18. This will flood the local postoffice a number of days earlier than ever before, which makes it more necessary for the local public to start packages on their way as early as possible to avoid this congestion. Rosborough says:

"The receipts of the Oakland postoffice are expected to reach the $1,000,000 mark at the end of this year, indicating that the Christmas mail will be much heavier and almost impossible to handle in our congested quarters with antiquated equipment.

"If the public will begin to mail at once it will extend our rush period over a longer period. We are asking the public kindly to co-operate with us to help 'finish the job.'"

LOOT LOST BY BANDIT IS SOUGHT

Search is being made in Danville today for $250 in coin which the bandit, Paul Heiner, who robbed the branch of the San Ramon Valley Bank and was later shot to death in Oakland is believed to have dropped during the cross-town chase following the holdup.

The bank officials announced today that, while the sum taken from the bank was $7,698.48, it was recovered in the bandit machine and on his person with the exception of $250. The bank officers believed that the money is in the fields near the bank.

Meanwhile, citizens of Alamo, a hamlet adjoining Danville, are considering a token of some sort for Inspector William Smith of the local department who led the posse in Oakland and risked his life to stop the flight of the bandit.

Smith, according to the residents of Alamo, was born and raised in that community which is ringing with his praises today. As Lloyd Ivory, mechanican at Danville, put it: "Bill was born and raised right in Alamo and he wasn't going to see anyone get away with his neighbors' money. He made the fellow stop."

According to Inspector Thomas Gallagher, Heiner was a native of Sweden and his first encounter with the police was in 1917 when he participated with Albert Nichels in a holdup at Seventeenth street and Broadway. He was sentenced to nine years in Folsom and was released last year.

Directly after his release from prison he applied at the Palo Alto base hospital and was employed as an orderly under the name of Calvin West. He represented himself as a former member of the Los Angeles police department to the officers in charge of the hospital.

Heiner left the hospital on December 2 on a leave of absence, went to San Francisco where he hired an automobile and next appeared in Danville where he forced the two assistant cashiers into the vault robbed the bank, outwitted the police and citizens of the town and sped to Oakland.

KILLED IN GUN BATTLE.

He was killed in a pistol duel at Twelfth and Oak streets receiving thirty bullet wounds at the hands of Inspectors William Smith, William Marshall and John Gannaw and Policeman A. V. Stebbins who comprised the shotgun squad sent out of Central Station to seize the bandit.

This morning Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Frank Colbourn and Chief of Police James T. Drew joined in a letter of appreciation and commendation to the officers fo the shotgun squad and to Captain of Inspectors Richard McSorley and Inspector Frank Rossick who directed the pursuit from the Central Station.

Army officials today started on a search for a brother of Heiner believed to live in San Francisco.

To Marry in Europe

MISS LOTTE TAUSCHER, beautiful daughter of Mme. Gadski, who will marry Ernst Busch, cousin of the late Adolphus Busch of St. Louis fame.

Gadski to Sing in Los Angeles In Spite of Protest of Legion

Johanna Gadski, prima donna grand opera soprano, whose fame as an exponent of Wagnerian music is world-wide, will go to sing in Los Angeles on December 11, even though she has failed to remove the misunderstanding between the American Legion post in the southern city, and herself.

Madame Gadski so announced at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. She professed herself at a loss to understand the hostile attitude of the ex-service men in Los Angeles and said that she had made a special trip to that city to find out what it was all about. At the same time Madame Gadski announced that she will take legal steps against anyone who spreads the report that she is disloyal and that she "rejoiced at the sinking of the Lusitania." This, the singer defined as "malicious libel," which had been repudiated by the Department of Justice itself, she declared.

The singer is accompanied by her daughter, Miss Lotte Tauscher, who is engaged to marry Ernst Busch, cousin of the late Adulphus Busch of Milwaukee and St. Louis, in Berlin, on June 15.

TRIP TO L. A. FUTILE.

Discussing the imbroglio with the Los Angeles Legion, Miss Tauscher said, speaking for her mother:

"We went to Los Angeles to find out what the Legion had against mother. We arranged a meeting with a special committee of the legion in our apartment at the hotel, and we sent an invitation to all the Los Angeles newspapers to send representatives to this meeting. At the appointed hour, we were there, and so were the reporters, but no one put in an appearance from the Legion. We then telephoned Legion headquarters, and were informed that the committee of the Legion had decided not to come to see us. We then offered to go over to Legion headquarters, and the newspaper men offered to accompany us. This was also declined by the Legion men, so we had to return north without having accomplished even an interview."

Madame Gadski and her daughter visited Germany last summer, and were entertained at a special affair given in Madame Gadski's honor by the American Ambassador in Berlin.

L. A. MERCHANTS URGE GADSKI INVESTIGATION.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—A telegram asking for official information concerning the attitude during the World War of Madame Johanna Gadski, singer, yesterday was sent to Attorney General Daugherty by F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, it was announced last night.

ATTORNEYS PAY WARM HOMAGE TO REED'S MEMORY

Bar Association Adopts Resolutions in Honor of Ex-District Attorney.

Gathering to honor the memory of the late George W. Reed, former district attorney of Alameda county, members of the Alameda County Bar association today adopted resolutions in his honor, after listening to addresses from several prominent attorneys in eulogy of the deceased.

The judges of the superior court, including L. S. Church, T. W. Harris, James Quinn, Joseph S. Koford, George E. Samuels, E. C. Robinson, A. F. St. Sure and Dudley Kinsell, with Judge J. J. Trabucco of Mariposa county as a guest, sat en banc during the services.

In delivering the eulogy for the departed, Attorney M. C. Chapman, president of the Bar association said in part: "We gather here not so much in sorrow and sadness as in joy that we have had the honor of acquaintance of such a man as George W. Reed. He was as just a man as ever came to the bar of justice to plead a righteous cause. When a client came to him his cause was his attorney's cause and that all that could be done in his behalf would be done, and done well.

"The last leaf has been turned, the burden of weariness laid aside and that 'peace which passeth understanding' is his."

Attorney A. A. Moore, with whom Reed was associated in the practice of law, told of his early life before the bar and of his election to the office of district attorney, which he held from 1889 to 1893. "There never was a more faithful man than George Reed," said the speaker.

Superior Judge L. S. Church one of three associated with Reed in the district attorney's office, said in part:

"Of these three I alone survive. [illegible] and offer my love and my tears. Reed's outstanding characteristic was his loyalty to friendship. He left behind him the crowning glory of a good name."

Attorney Robert M. Fitzgerald a close friend of the deceased also spoke in eulogy of Reed.

Judge John J. Allen chairman of the resolution committee, offered the resolutions which were ordered made a part of the court minutes by Judge Harris, who presided at the exercises.

T. & D. Robbers Are Identified

Positively identified by Ralph Kreutzberger, manager, and Mrs. Esther Steffens, cashier of the Oakland T. & D. theater, as the bandits who held them up and obtained $900, [illegible] Burleigh and Harry Fischer are being held by the San Francisco police together with Harry Clark. Burleigh's real name is believed to be Ernest Scott.

Clark was apprehended and, later, Detective William Mulekeen and Gus Tompkins apprehended Burleigh and Fischer at a San Francisco hotel. The two latter were [illegible] believed to be the men who held up and robbed the T. & D. theater here of $900 on November 27.

Accompanied by Inspector Wallman of the local police department, Kreutzberger and Mrs. Steffens visited the San Francisco city prison and positively identified Burleigh and Fischer. They saw only two men on the night of the holdup and the police are acting on the theory that the third member of the ring was awaiting them in the automobile. The police were debating today whether the men in custody would be sent to Oakland or Sacramento for trial.

CRELLIN HOTEL PROPERTY SOLD FOR STORE USE

Whitthorne & Swan Enlarge Frontage Holdings At Washington, Tenth.

Whitthorne & Swan today completed the purchase of the Crellin Hotel property, on the northwest corner of Tenth and Washington streets, together with a forty years lease on a lot immediately in the rear of the hotel on Tenth street, the lot being 34x100 feet. This gives Whitthorne & Swan either the ownership or a lifetime lease of all the frontage on Washington street between Tenth and Eleventh streets and more than half of the block on the two numbered streets.

Nothing can be done with the Crellin hotel property for a while, owing to leases already in existence, but, as rapidly as possible, the hotel building will be occupied by the dry goods firm.

The leased property on Tenth street is now covered by two old-fashioned frame houses. The work of wrecking these was begun today, and a building will be erected that will be opened into the new building recently completed on Eleventh street.

Whitthorne & Swan own the corner of Eleventh and Washington streets. This was formerly the old Salinger property and is 34 feet on Washington street by 90 on Eleventh. The main part of the store is on a 66-foot piece owned by the Schutze Estate Company, and leased to Whitthorne & Swan for thirty years. Next, on Washington street comes the Crellin hotel, which has now been purchased by the firm. The two lots in the rear are under forty and fifty years leases.

This means that Whitthorne & Swan will soon occupy practically two-thirds of this block with their dry goods store.

GROCERS ASK AID IN MILK FIGHT

Women of the various Eastbay housewives' league may contribute funds to aid fifteen local grocers and restaurant men in legal action against one of the local creameries which started the recent milk war by cutting prices, according to Mrs. H. J. Platts, president of the Oakland Housewives' League.

During the milk war this creamery contracted with the fifteen merchants to supply them with milk for six months at the price prevailing at that time, Mrs. Platts said. At the end of the milk war it broke the contract and raised its price, she declared.

H. P. Buck, proprietor of a grocery at 650 Twelfth street, is one of the fifteen whose contracts are alleged to have been broken. He appealed to Mrs. Platts' organization yesterday for assistance in his fight against the creamery. Plans are now under way, Mrs. Platts said today, for the raising of a fund jointly by the fifteen merchants and the members of Eastbay housewives' leagues, to be used in starting court action against the creamery in an effort to compel it to abide by its contract.

Mrs. Platts today declared she has begun a program of laying the milk situation before a number of women's clubs throughout the city, urging them to hold in their demands to the dealers that the price of milk shall be reduced from 13 cents a quart to 12.

The Glenview Womens' Club yesterday adopted a resolution pledging the financial and moral support of its members to the Oakland Housewives' League in its fight against 13-cent milk, and congratulating Mrs. Platts.

BRITISH DIVORCE LAWS ARE RAPPED BY CONAN DOYLE

People Can't Live With Mates Nor Remarry, Complains Sir Arthur.

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Unhappy marriages are poisoning the life stream in England, and all because of antiquated divorce laws, according to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

"Several hundred thousand people are now wandering about England, helpless victims of our cruel and antiquated divorce laws," Sir Arthur declared. "They cannot live with their legal spouse, yet they are not free to marry. It stands to reason they will form illegal unions.

"Such people are as dangerous to the body politic as microbes in the blood, poisoning the lifestream of the nation.

"We have half a million graves in Flanders," said the author, his deep voice tingling with quaverings. "We want half a million cradles in England.

"But here are hundreds of thousands of people practically sterilized by our divorce laws. They cannot settle down and raise families because the law forbids them to marry.

BLAMES CHURCHES.

"And this sin"—Sir Arthur leaned forward and spoke earnestly—"is the fault of the church!

"The bishops of England, good people, no doubt, but slaves to old texts which do not in the least correspond to modern conditions are in that way the greatest enemies to human progress and happiness!

"Unfortunately the bigoted people of the church are organized. Only one out of ten people in England is connected with the church. But the other nine are not organized, so their will is over-ruled by the organized weapons of the church always against progress.

"Surely it is obvious that a law that keeps a man or woman tied for life to a dipsomaniac, a life convict, an insane person, or one by whom they have been deserted is cruel.

"We are the laggards of the world in this matter just as we were the last to reform our abominable criminal code!"

Sir Arthur is a leader in the movement for divorce law reforms and displayed heaps of letters upon his study table from persons who bewailed the fact that they were enmeshed in unhappy marriages, but were unable to secure relief because of the English divorce laws, which permit divorce for men only on proof of misconduct by their wives and for women only upon proof of misconduct, cruelty or desertion.

LANE PICTURES CAPITAL'S GRIM DETERMINATION IN DARKEST DAYS OF WAR

RED TAPE DELAYS CONTRACTS

This is the SIXTH article from "The Letters of Franklin K. Lane." Another will be printed tomorrow.

(Copyright, 1922, by Anne W. Lane)

To Walter H. Page:

Washington. March 16, 1918.

My Dear Mr. Ambassador—I am the poorest of all living correspondents; in fact, I am a dead correspondent. I do not function. If it had not been so I would long since have answered your notes, which have been in my basket, but I have had no time for any personal correspondence, much as I delight in it, for I have a very old fashioned love for writing from day to day what pops into my mind, contradicting each day what I said the day before, and gathering from my friends their impressions and their spirit the same way. For the first time in three months I have leisure enough * * * to acknowledge a few of the accumulated personal letters.

F K LANE

Let me give you a glimpse of my day, just to compare it with your own and by way of contrasting life in two different spheres and on different sides of the ocean. I get to my office at 9 in the morning and my day is broken up into 15-minute periods, during which I see either my own people or others. I really write none of my own routine letters, simply telling my secretaries whether the answer should be "yes" or "no." I lunch at my own desk and generally with my wife, who has charge of our war work in the department. We have over 1300 men who have gone out of this department into the army. * * * My day is broken into by cabinet meeting twice a week, meeting of the council of national defense twice a week, and latterly with long sessions every afternoon over the question of what railroad wages should be.

Washington at Last Center of Nation

My office is a sort of place of last resort for those who are discouraged elsewhere, for Washington is no longer a city of set routine and fixed habit. It is at last the center of the nation. New York is no longer even the financial center. The newspapers are edited from here. Society centers here. All the industrial chiefs of the nation spend most of their time here. It is easier to find a great cattle king or automobile manufacturer or a railroad president or a banker or the Shoreham or the Willard Hotel than it is to find him in his own town. The surprising thing is that these great men who have made our country do not loom so large when brought to Washington and put to work.

Every day I find some man of many millions who has been here for months and whose movements used to be a matter of newspaper notoriety, but I dod not know, even, that he was here.

I leave my office at 7 o'clock, not having been out of it during the day except for a cabinet or council meeting take a wink of sleep, change my clothes and go to a dinner, for this, as you will remember, is the one form of entertainment that Washington has permitted itself in the war. The dinners are Hooverized—three courses, little or no wheat, little or no meat, little or no sugar, a few serve wine. And round the table will always be found men in foreign uniforms, or some missionary from some great power who comes begging for boats or food. These dinners used to be places of great gossip, and chiefly anti-administration gossip, but the spirit of the people is one of unequaled loyalty. The Republicans are as glad to have Wilson as their President as are the Democrats. I think sometimes a little more glad, because many of the Democrats are disgruntled over patronage or something else.

The women are ferocious in their hunt for spies, and their criticism is against what they think is indifference to this danger. Boys appear at these dinners in the great houses, because of their uniforms, who would never have been permitted even to come to the front door in other days, for all are potential heroes. Every woman carries her knitting, and it is seldom that you hear a croaker even among the most luxurious class. Well, the dinner is over by 10:30, and I go home to an hour and a half's work which has been sent from the office, and fall at last into a more or less troubled sleep. This is the daily round.

"Everybody's Teeth Are Set"

I have not been to New York since the war began. I made one trip across the continent speaking for the Liberty loan, day and night. And this life is pretty much the life of all of us here. The President keeps up his spirits by going to the [illegible] functions at the White House and everybody's teeth are set. The allies need not doubt our resolution. England and France will break before we will, and I do not doubt their steadfast purpose. It is, as you said long ago, their fault that this war has come, for they did not realize the kind of an enemy they had, either in spirit, purpose or strength. But we will increasingly strengthen that western gate so that the Huns will not break through.

We do things fast here, but I never realized before how slow we are in getting started. It takes a long time for us to get a new stride. I did not think that this was true industrially. I have known that it was true politically for a long time, because this was the most backward and most conservative of all the democracies. We take up new machinery of government so slowly. But industrially it is also true. When told to change step we shift and stumble and halt and hesitate and go through all kinds of awkward misses. This has been true as to ships and airplanes and guns, big and little, and uniforms. Whatever the government has done itself has been tied by endless red tape.

It is hard for an army officer to get out of the desk habit, and caution, conservatism [illegible] seem even in time of crisis to be more important [illegible] of daring. In my department, I figure that it takes about seven years for the nerve of initiative and the nerve of imagination to atrophy, and so, perhaps, it is in other departments. It took five months for one of our war bureaus to get out a contract for a building that we were to build for them. Fifteen men had to sign the contract. And of course we have been impatient. But things are bettering every day. The men in the camps are very impatient to get away. But where are the ships to do all the work? The Republicans cannot chide us with all of the unpreparedness, for they stood in the way of our getting ships three years ago. The gods have been against us in the way of weather, so we have not brought down our supplies to the seaboard, but we have not had the ships to take away that which was there; or coal, sometimes for the ships.

Nation Resolutely With President

From now, however, you will see a steadier, surer movement of men, munitions, food and ships. The whole country is solidly, strongly with the President. There are men in Congress bitterly against him, but they do not dare to raise their voices, because he has the people so resolutely with him. The Russian overthrow has been a good thing for us in one way. It will cost us perhaps a million lives, but it will prove to us the value of law and order. We are to have our troubles, and must change our system of life in the next few years.

A great oil man was in the office the other day and told me in a plain, matter-of-fact way, what must be done to win—the sacrifices that must be made—and he ended by saying: "After all, what is property?" This is a very pregnant question. It is not being asked in Russia alone. Who has the right to anything? My answer is, not the man, necessarily, who has it, but the man who can use it to good purpose. The way to find the latter man is the difficulty.

We have national woman suffrage, national prohibition, continuing inheritance tax, continuing income tax, national life insurance, an increasing grip upon the railroads, their finances and their operation as well as their rates. Each primary resource, such as land and coal and iron and copper and oil, we will more carefully conserve. There will be no longer the opportunity for the individual along these lines that there has been. Industry must find some way of profit-sharing or it will be nationalized. These things, however, must be regarded as incidents now; and the labor people, those with vision and in authority, are very willing to postpone the day of accounting until we know what the new order is to be like.

"Darkest Day We Have Seen"

Well, I have rambled on, giving you a general look-in on my mind. Don't let any of those people doubt the President, or doubt the American people. This is the very darkest day that we have seen. But we believe in ourselves and we believe in our own kind, and believe in a something, not ourselves, that makes for righteousness—slowly, stumblingly, but, as the centuries go, surely.

I have not yet seen the Archbishop of York. He has not been here. But he has made a most favorable impression where he has been, and so have the English labor people.

Poor Spring-Rice did good work here. Washington felt very sad over his death, and is expecting that England will evidence her appreciation of the fact that he did nothing to estrange us by the way in which his widow is treated.

Reading has been received and fits in perfectly. With warm regards, as always, Cordially yours,

FRANKLIN K. LANE.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY HELPS ALICE SEW.

Uncle Wiggily began to sew on the duck girl's dress

One day, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, looking for an adventure, he chanced to pass the pen house where the Wibblewobble family of ducks lived. The bunny rabbit gentleman looked in the window, friendly like, intending to wish them good morning, when he happened to see Alice, one of the Wibblewobble duck girls, sitting in a chair.

At the same time, Uncle Wiggily looked at a clock on the wall and saw that it was nearly school time.

"My goodness, Alice!" cried the bunny gentleman, hopping into the duck house. "Don't you know that it's nearly time for school? You'll be late and the lady mouse teacher will make you stay in the hollow stump school after the others go home if you're late."

"I know it, Uncle Wiggily," quacked Alice, "but I can't help it!"

"Well, why don't you hop up and flutter on to school?" asked the bunny gentleman. "Why are you sitting there with the clock ticking its way on toward nine and—"

"I must finish this sewing," said Alice, who was pushing a needle and thread through and through the hem of a dress she was wearing. "I tore a hole in my dress when I was getting ready for school, Uncle Wiggily," quacked the duck girl, "and I can't go to my class until I sew up the hole. Lulu has gone and mother had to hurry down town shopping, so there is no one to help me sew."

"Except that I might help you," offered Uncle Wiggily, shy like and bashful, as he twinkled his pink nose.

"You, Uncle Wiggily!" cried Alice holding her needle in the air. "Can you sew?"

"Not very well," admitted the bunny. "But I see that the hole is in the back of your dress. It is hard for you to sew it because you must turn half way around to reach it. That is why it takes you such a long time. You'll surely be late.

"Now I am not very clever with needle and thread. But at least I could pull together the sides of the hole in your dress, and it would do until you could get to school. There the lady mouse teacher might sew it for you," said the bunny gentleman.

"Oh, yes, she would. Uncle Wiggily," quacked Alice eagerly. "And it is very good of you to offer to help me sew. As you say, the hole is away around on the back of my dress and I've half twisted my neck off turning to see what I'm doing. I haven't time to change to another dress now. So please help me by sewing up the hole as best you can until I get to school."

"Come and sit over on the window seat," invited Uncle Wiggily. "I'll have more room there."

Alice gave Uncle Wiggily the needle and thread. So far the duck girl had taken only two or three stitches in her torn dress, and these stitches were easily pulled out. Then Alice sat down on the broad window seat, her back toward the bunny gentleman, and Uncle Wiggily, with the needle and thread in his paw, began to sew on the duck girl's dress.

"Sew as fast as you can, please, Uncle Wiggily," begged Alice, "as I don't want to be late for school."

"I'll hurry," promised the rabbit, pushing out of his way a satin sofa cushion that was on the window seat. In and out around the edges of the hole in Alice's dress Uncle Wiggily pushed the needle and thread, pausing now and then to rest his paw on the sofa cushion. At last it was finished.

"There you are, Alice!" cried the rabbit at last. "Your dress is sewed and you may hurry on to school. Flutter as fast as you can, and I think you will not be late."

Up jumped Alice. Then a funny look came over her face.

"Oh, see what you've done, Uncle Wiggily!" she quacked, trying not to laugh. "Just look!"

"What have I done?" asked the bunny.

"You have sewed me fast to the soft cushion!" quacked Alice. "Fast to the soft cushion! Oh, what shall I do?"

"I — have—sewed—you—fast—to—the—sofa — cushion!" cried Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling very fast. "Oh, my goodness!"

"I can't go to school with the sofa cushion sewed fast to me!" quacked Alice, "and there is no time to unsew it."

"You must go with it fastened to you!" decided the bunny. "There is no time to lose. As it is my fault I'll hop to school with you and help carry the cushion. When we get there the lady mouse can unsew it."

Well, you can imagine how funny Alice looked going to school with a sofa cushion sewed fast to her torn dress, and Uncle Wiggily hopping by her side carrying the cushion in his paws. They could [illegible] themselves, help laughing. But [illegible] they reached the hollow stump school. Of course the lady mouse teacher and the animal children were much surprised.

But the lady mouse soon snipped the cushion loose from Alice's dress and the duck girl wasn't late after all. And they said Uncle Wiggily was really quite clever.

So it all happened for the best, you see. And after all this, if our [illegible] the clothes line and fall into the egg basket, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and Jimmie's jam.

Alexander Quist, Piedmont millionaire, is found dead in his study from acid poisoning. Queen Quist, his pretty daughter; Napoleon Knott, detective; Miss Amick, the housekeeper, and others are suspected.

Queen escapes from the city jail and is found by Speed on board a mystery ship with her mother, Mrs. Quist. Both are under the influence of Madho Guru, Hindu mystic. Madho Guru reveals his scheme for getting control of the Quist millions and proposes that Sargent kill Tootles and his young college assistant. Speed, who is disguised as Reggie Montomerency, ex-convict, reads in newspapers of Reggie's death and is in danger of being discovered.

Speed enlists Queen in a conspiracy to prevent the Hindu from discovering about the Count's death. Speed, with Queen and her mother, witness some spirit writing and manifestations accusing Knott of the Quist murder, which Speed is unable to understand or explain.

Alexander Quist's spirit writes Mrs. Quist, telling her to put implicit faith in the Hindu and to turn over to him $900,000 in bonds.

CHAPTER 34.

THE SWAMI'S TRICKS.

"No, no, no," Queen said. "Don't touch me. I was foolish to believe all those things. That was just part of the game. He asked you—he put it into your head——" she spoke rapidly, rambling, unfinished scraps of sentences. "Your talk was just play——"

"That's not true," he protested, following her as she backed away from him. "Don't be unreasonable. If I had entered the conspiracy, would I be telling you about it?"

"He gave you the idea," persisted the girl. "He put it into your head to tell me—lies."

The athlete saw that it was a hopeless task to convince the girl in her present frame of mind. She was badly unstrung. And arguing with people who are in such a condition does not have a sedative effect.

He changed the subject to the Swami.

"I wouldn't be surprised if this Hindu knew something about the murder of your father," he said, casually. "They won't be home until dark, and in that time I propose to make a search of these premises. I'm betting that I find evidence of trickery. I'll solve the problem of some of this fraudulent phenomena."

The girl now was looking at him out of cold eyes. The sky blue irises had become almost indigo in color and seemed to shed a fire of hostility, kindled by subdued anger.

Speed feigned not to notice the change in her demeanor. He was a good student of human nature. He knew that people frequently forget their own anger when interested in something else. And so he led the way to the door which barred the entrance to the Swami's office.

He stood studying the door for some minutes. He knew that Queen had followed him, but he did not look around at her.

Strangely enough the door was not locked and he entered cautiously, as if afraid of being overheard. This was the room into which Speed had been carried by the Swami. Queen hesitated on the threshold. Pride forbade her to enter or make any concessions to Sargent. A desire for companionship, tinged by fear, impelled her to stick close by this husky exponent of the gridiron pastime. She compromised by remaining in the doorway while Speed went rapidly over the room.

"So you told me all those things, LIES."

Posed by John Miljan and Isabelle Lowe, Fulton Theater.

A quick inspection of the room revealed nothing out of the ordinary. There was no incriminating material in any of the drawers or desks, on the tables or in the pockets of the various garments.

"He certainly has covered up," ejaculated Speed, as he sat on the arm of a chair and glared about him at the unoffending furniture. "No hidden paraphernalia, no weapons, no letters or documents showing from whence he came nor whither he is bound. And I'll be hanged if I can find a concealed partition or a trap door. Yet his own private quarters is the logical place for him to hide the stuff used in his jugglery.

"Now for a search of the other rooms."

Queen tagged along unwillingly as Speed invaded the seance chamber. Here he found the idol, slates, the crystal sphere, writing paper, a bass viol and other material used by mediums, but although he ransacked the place thoroughly there was naught that could explain the visions and the sorcery that had been practiced before their eyes.

Sargent had expected to find white robes and other apparatus but he had been disappointed.

It was in his own bed chamber that he found a single clue. He had looked everywhere when he caught sight of a scarred place on the wall of the room. It looked as if the wood had been pricked in many places with pins. He stooped down and examined the floor closely.

"Look at that," he exclaimed. "It's another poison needle."

Queen forgot her pique in her curiosity over the long, hollow needle with the feathered end and the rubber band fastened tightly about it.

"This is the same weapon that killed Harris," said Speed, in a low tone. "See those marks on the wall. Someone practiced shooting the blowgun here. They stood over there and used this knot as a bulls eye. When they hit the knot, the needle fell on the floor. Otherwise it penetrated and stuck in the soft wood.

"Now I know the Swami's crooked, I'll find his layout if I have to tear the joint wide open."

The athlete walked back into the seance chamber and stood looking around him with his hands on his hips. This was a puzzling problem. Certainly the Swami had a very clever hiding place for his outfit.

Absently he began to strum on the bass viol. He knew stringed instruments and he saw instantly that this one had a very poor tone. looked up at Queen.

"Inside of one of these would make a good hiding place for this fellow's robes," he commented. "It's big enough to contain all kinds of junk. And from it's tone I wouldn't be surprised——"

He began prying at the joints in the wood with a paper knife that he had picked up in the Swami's study. After fifteen minutes work, he lifted out a portion of the wood framework and looked into the cavity.

"Bulls eye," he cried." Look at this, Queen.

The interior of the bass viol was divided off with small partitions, each of which contained some article.

"What are those bright things?" asked Queen, greatly excited.

Spots glowed in the semi-darkness from several of the compartments.

Speed picked up one of these and brought out a ball of tightly wrapped gauze; that unfolded and fell about him like a sheet. The garment was luminous and gave the athlete such a spectral outline that Queen gasped as he held it up before him.

"I am a materialized spirit," mocked the athlete, speaking in hoarse sepulchral tones.

He examined the gauze closely. His studies in the chemical laboratory at the university had made him familiar with many compounds and it did not take him long to determine that the material had been coated with some kind of luminous paint.

Queen, who had been delving into the compartments herself, now brought out a black garment that was much like a coverall.

"Let me have that and I will show you some magic," proposed the athlete to the disillusioned girl. "I'm wise now." He slipped on the black robe, which covered him from head to foot, leaving only his eyes exposed.

"Sit over there," commanded Speed, mimicking the Swami. "The forces are at work. The spirits are coming very strongly."

He closed the door, blotting out all light, and fished something out of the bass viol.

"The hand is quicker than the eye," he chanted.

The Auction.

The man—
Who auctioned off the things—
That lay in jumbled heaps about—
Made use of long and polished nose—
For speaking tube—
His nasal twang cut through the buzz—
Of busy bargain hunters—
And startled them to bidding rash—
Much more than they intended—
But keen to out-bid those who sought—
To carry home some cherished thing—
That they had spotted for their own—
They threw all caution to the winds—
And bid far more than what the thing was worth—
And as they took it from the room—
In exultation—
Determined eyes snapped angry looks—
That anyone could plainly read—
"He he—you thought you'd run a bluff—
But I'm the guy you couldn't stop—
When I got started—
I would have pawned my house and lot—
But that I'd had the buying bid—
You should know better—smarty."
The auctioneer just beams with glee—
For well he knows the human kind—
How each is jealous of the other—
And gloats at their undoing—
A man who wore a derby hat—
That was in style when war was raging—
In sixty-one—
Poked there among a lot of rubbish—
And found some things the others missed—
Which seemed to tickle him immensely—
And soon he had all piled about him—
A baby buggy that had held—
Full many a crying infant in it—
A pair of second-handed shoes—
Some dishes cracked—and pots and pans—
And other things not worth the mention—
On these he asked the auctioneer to call for bids—
And waited keen with lips drawn back from yellow teeth—
And eyes tight squinted like a grim hyena—
A woman wrapped in ancient shawl—
Bid fifty cents—
Which startled much our derby friend—
Who tried to give an answering bid—
But as he stuttered all he said was—
F-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f—
Fifty-five—a woman said who held a baby in her arms—
Our friend was wrestling with hysterics—
With anxious face he tried again—
S-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s—
Sixty cents—the woman said who had a shawl around her—
S-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s—
Sixty-five—the woman said—
Who held a baby in her arms—
The auctioneer smiled down and said—
"It's sold—for sixty-five."

A Slight For the Kellys

Somebody was reminded the other day—and, by the same token reminded me—of one that I hadn't heard for at least ten years. The best authorities agree that a good story stands revival every five years. So this one, it appears, has an ample leeway of a lapse of time.

As the tale runs, the parish priest called on a well-to-do parishioner named Kelly, for a substantial contribution to the fund for purchasing a bronze bell for the church. Mr. Kelly was in a generous mood. He gave a larger sum than any other member of the congregation gave.

The bell was purchased and installed. Meeting Mr. Kelly a few days later, the clergyman said:

"What do you think of the new bell?"

"I'm sorry I gave a cint," said Kelly shortly. "If I'd known what was going to happen ye'd have had no money from me."

"You astonish me," said the Father. "What's wrong with it?"

"I'll tell ye what's wrong with it," said Mr. Kelly; "whim that bell rings do ye hear it speakin' me name? Ye do not. All ye hear it sayin' is: 'Doolan, Donlan, Donovan, Dugan!'"

Child's History of the Human Race

by Ramon Coffman.

KING CANUTE AND KING OLAF.

Bands of Northmen invaded Ireland. Some of them settled on the island, and to this day we sometimes find families there with such names as Hanson, Jansen and Thorkelson.

This picture shows a band of Saxon minstrels and jugglers in the "good old days" before the Danes came to England.

England was even more popular with the Northmen. It was larger and easier to reach.

England at that time was in control of the Anglo-Saxons. They had been in England 300 or 400 years when the Northmen began to come.

The English called the invaders "Danes," because they came mainly from Denmark. For two centuries there were battles to decide who should rule the island. The English fought stubbornly, but the Danes gained more and more land. London was the last place to hold out against the fighters from the north.

The first Northman to become ruler of England was named Canute.

Canute is sometimes called "the Great," because he got power over so much land. He had Denmark before he came to England. He also laid claim to the throne of Norway.

The king of Norway at that time was Olaf, "the Stout." Canute sent some messengers to him.

"You must either give up your throne," said the messengers, "or else admit that Canute is your lord and master."

Olaf became angry.

"There is no end to the greed of this man Canute," he cried. "Denmark and England aren't enough for him. He wants Norway, too! Does he want to rule all the northern lands, or to eat alone all the cabbage in England? He is more likely to do that than to get me to be his under-man."

The messengers gave this message to Canute. He replied:

"King Olaf is mistaken if he thinks I want to eat all the cabbage in England. He will soon see that I have something besides cabbage under my ribs."

Canute made good his threat. He won power over Norway and Olaf lost the throne.

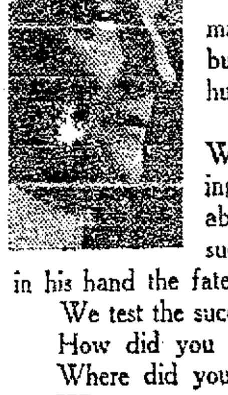
GET RESULTS.

This age pays tribute to efficiency.

We are after results and are not over particular as to the method by which results are attained.



We laud the man who delivers the goods.

All this shoddy incense to success has assailed our nostrils from childhood.

The big income lawyer, merchant or banker occupies the pedestal as worthy of emulation.

Napoleon got results. His achievements made him great—great in infamy, great in his butchery of millions, great in the betrayal of human ties and friendships.

For thirty years that pitiful, shrunken figure, William Hohenzollern got results. After reading his memoirs we are undertermined as to what abnormal type he belongs, but the marvel is that such an irresponsible bombast should have held in his hand the fate of a great people for so long a time.

We test the success of the hour by three interrogations:

How did you get it?

Where did you get it?

What are you doing with it?

Frederick Froebel, the father of the kindergarten, was not successful as men generally rate success. Agassiz was so busy in scientific research he had no time to make money.

The other day John S. Worley, of New York, who has just been appointed professor of transportation railroad engineering in the University of Michigan, gave up a situation yielding him $25,000 a year to accept this professional chair at less than $5,000. His justification was that he could do more service as a teacher of young men.

Every day there is recorded in the shining book of heroes the victories of unknown and humble folk who will not pay the price of cheap success. They come through clean, captains of their souls.

Friday. It was cold and still this morning. I will be glad when it is summer and a fella can go swimming.

When me and the bunch had slid a while we went to school and Mush was out walking around the yard and he said he was near froze, I asted him why he did not go inside and get warm and he said his sweet little all-day-sucker wouldn't let him. Just then she opened the door and looked at him and he looked at the ground, and said: "Has the princess got any orders for her devoted slave?" And she said: "Shut up!" and slammed the door.

When we had recess Mush was not anywhere around and the all-day-sucker said that when school let out she wanted us to show her where Mush went with us last night. So when school let out I told Youniss and she told Maggie and they came along, and the little all-day-sucker was wearing her flat hat and dragging an axe behind her and looking mad.

I told her that an axe would not be any good against ghosts but she did not say anything. When we got across the gully from the haunted house there was not any smoke coming out of the chimney and there was not any glass in the windows and no door in the doorway and it made a fella scairt to only look at it. When we told her that was the place she gave me her coat and said for us to wait for her. Then she went down across the gully and up the other side like a tramp cat over a high board fence and into the haunted house without stopping.

Then she went down across the gully and up the other side like a tramp cat over a highboard fence and into the haunted house without stopping.

Pretty soon we heard a banging and someone began to holler and the first thing we knew Mush came out of the back door and hiked out for the railroad track as fast as a fat man could run. Then another man came rolling out, and he went slipping and sliding down into the gully and went away down the gully swinging one flat wheel, and we were all very much surprised because it was my grandfather. Then two mean looking men came out and stopped to talk, but just then the all-day-sucker came out and they went away. And she threw a stick at them and shook her fist at them and her hat was hanging down over one ear and she was still dragging the axe when she got to us.

She said: "That is the last of that bunch of bootleggers!" I said, "What were they doing," and she said they were making bootleg. A haunted house is a funny place to start a shoe factory, but I do not see what she had to get sore about. We went as far as the school with her, and her husband said, "How is little Rain-in-the-Face by this time," but she would not answer him.

My grandfather did not say anything about it at supper and his face was so red and my mother looked so mad that nobody said anything and I went to bed before I got blamed for something.

What Dorothy Dix Says

TOO MUCH SWEETNESS.

A Chicago woman is suing her husband for a divorce because he is too affectionate and has made their whole married life a perpetual honeymoon.

This is a strange case of unusual and inhuman marital cruelty, for most men stop their love making at the altar, and drop their brides down on the prosaic realities of domestic life with a jolt that loosens their back hair.

We cannot but sympathize, however, with the lady who found herself tied to a man who never got over registering Romeo stuff, and handing out soft talk.

One can imagine how bored she got having her hand held when she wanted to be using it to play golf, or trim a hat, and how she must have felt like screaming when she was asked for the millionth time: "Do you really truly love me? And would you jes pine away and die if I should die? And 'cos booful baby doll is 'oo'?"

A SOLEMN WARNING

Anyway let us hope that the sad fate of this unfortunate wife will convey a solemn warning to those melancholy and morbid married women who are always moaning that their husbands have ceased to be lovers, that they no longer hand out any sentimental flummery to them, and never bestow upon them any kiss save that which bears the unmistakable duty label, and that is just about as satisfactory a substitute for the real article as ginger beer is for champagne.

It should teach them that they are mistaken in thinking that they could stand a daily diet of lollypops. No matter how sweet a tooth a woman has an overdose of confectionery is bound to cloy on her palate, and upset her stomach and make her turn yearningly towards plain bread and butter. One lump of sugar in your tea flavors it, and takes off the bitter taste. A dozen lumps turn it into a sticky, gooey, nauseating drink from which you turn in disgust.

So with love, or rather the manifestations of love. We thrill to our fingertips at the rare kiss surcharged with emotion, warm with passion, filled with romance, but what could be more loathsome than to be continually slobbered over by a human kissing bug?

Similarly, nothing is more precious than the occasional word of love that comes spontaneously bubbling up from the depths of the heart, and that is called forth by some particular occasion, but who would not be suspicious of the affection that is always proclaiming itself aloud?

SOME EXCEPTIONS

Of course, courtship, which is all billing and cooing and kissing and the honeymoon which is the hang over from the courtship, and is also linked with sweetness long drawn out do not fall under this condemnation. They are mere sentimental interludes, a midsummer madness, for which marriage is generally a sovereign cure.

Perhaps, it is because men have a better understanding of love and romance than women have that husbands seem more successful in preserving their wives' affection than wives are in keeping their husbands interested in them. Men know that you must use sentiment sparingly, as you do sugar, to sweeten domestic life and so they keep their wives always asking for more. Women try to make it a whole dish of sugar and it is too sweet for the taste of the average man. A very little of it satisfies and he doesn't ask for a second helping.

The trouble is that women forget that there is nothing on earth on which we cannot be surfeited, that there is nothing of which we do not tire if we get too much of it. We can be so fed up on the things of the soul, as well as the body, that we have no further appetite for them. "Feed me on apples, stay me with flagons, for I am sick of love," cried Solomon, who had several hundred affectionate wives and so cries many a man and woman of today who have the misfortune to be united to overly affectionate spouses.

There can never be too much of the love that expresses itself in tenderness, and forebearance, and cherishing the welfare, and happiness of the beloved one, but a very little of the love that demonstrates its existence in petting and love talk, goes a long way.

BORING HIM TO DEATH.

This is especially true in the marital relationship, and many a wife kills her husband's love for her by boring him to death. She makes a ritual of the daily kiss, and it gets to be as much of a distasteful burden as any other chore you have to do twice every day of your life. She wants to know, in season and out of season, if he loves her, and he gets so weary of the question to which he knows that she knows he is bound to give the same answer that it gets on his nerves, and he feels like telling her that nobody loves a fool.

She calls him up in business hours just to hear the sound of his voice; she calls him pet names in public; she insists on going with him everywhere she possibly can; she won't let him read the paper at home because she wants to talk to him; she smothers him in love and caresses until he feels as if he were drowning in a sea of molasses.

And he gets as tired of her as he would of chocolate creams if he had to live on them.

Put this into your cigarette sister, and smoke it. If you want your husband to relish your angel's food, measure out your sugar carefully. Don't make it too sweet.

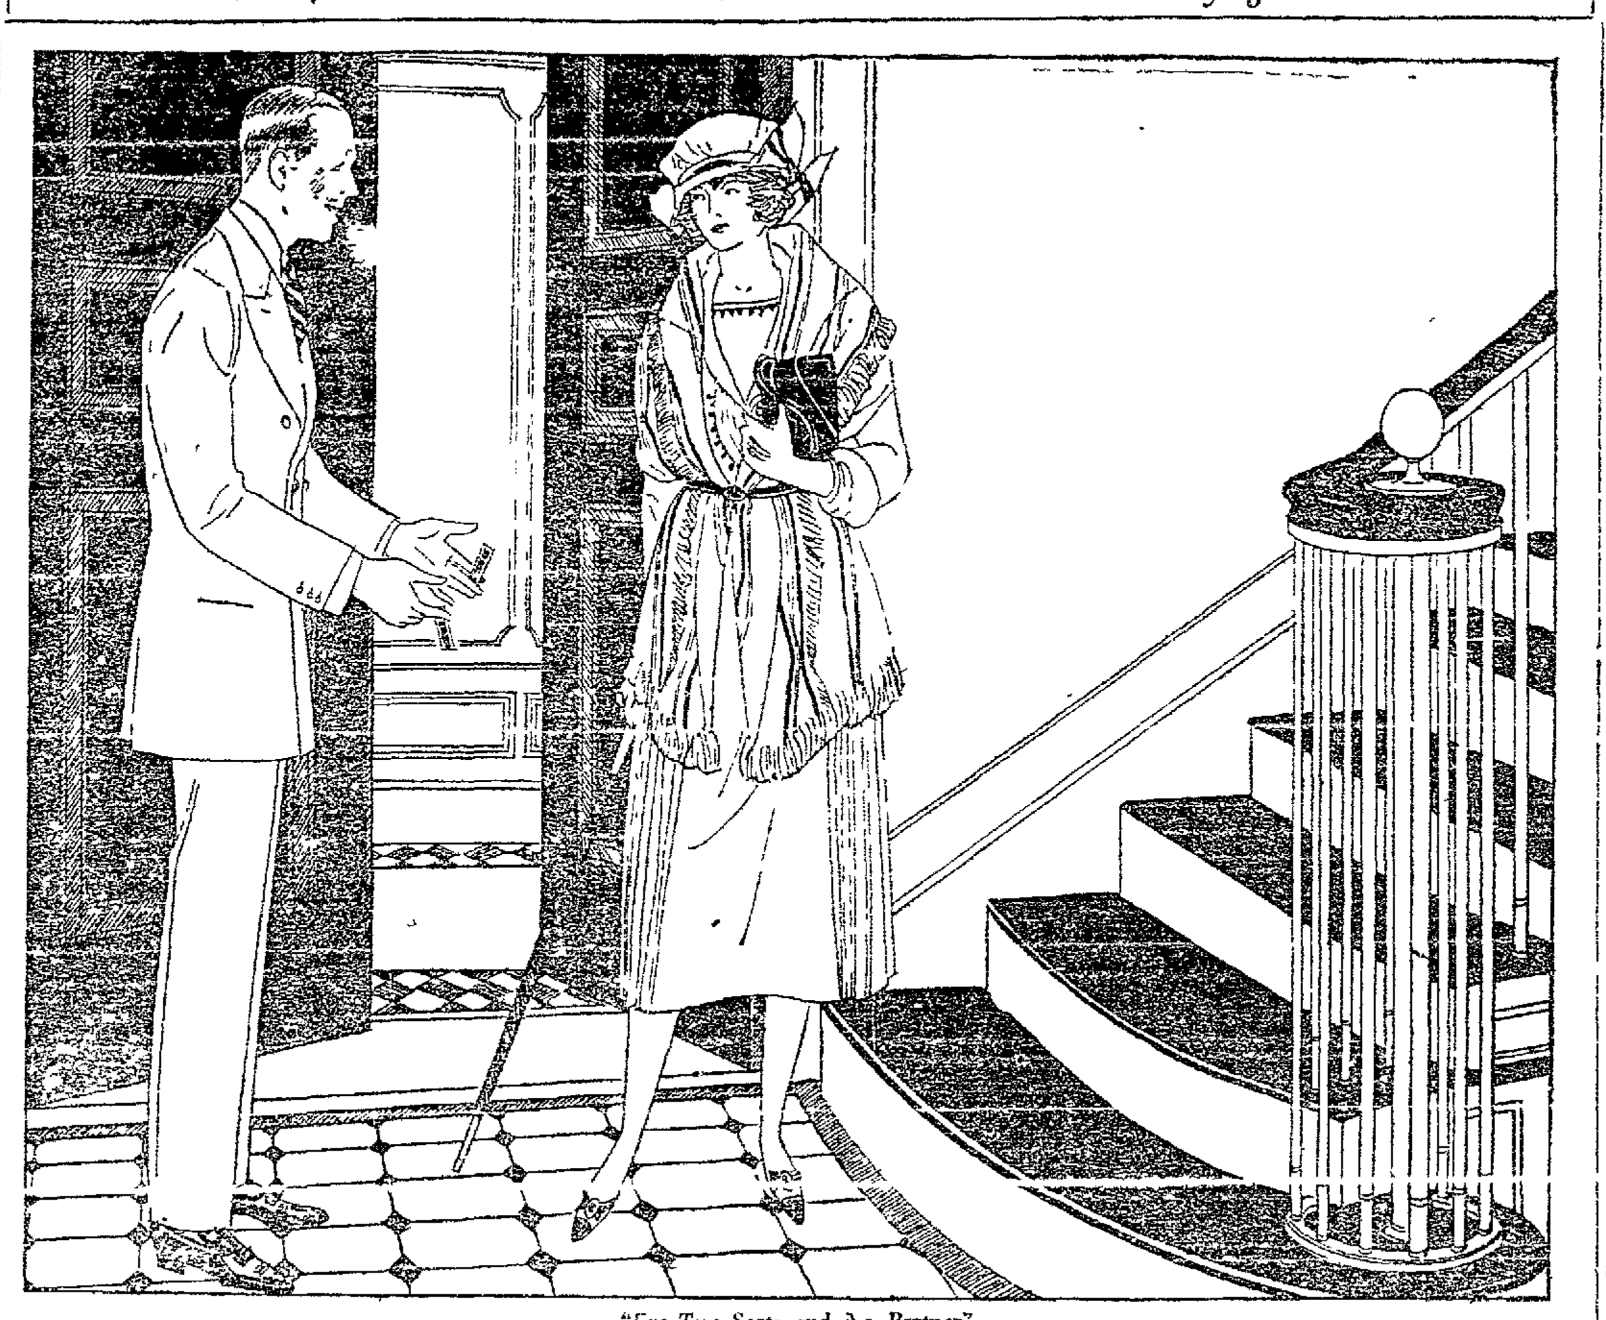
FINANCING SENTIMENT

--By J. A. Waldron



"I've Two Seats and No Partner"
Illustration by LAWRENCE FELLOWS

The boarding-house was of the better class. The odor of poverty, which is more obvious than the odor of sanctity, was absent, in rates excluded it.

But the boarding-house nevertheless had human variety. Most of the women guests were of settled age and of manners and aspects that insured them freedom from the wiles of designing men. Four of the ladies, middle-aged and with ample means, spent their leisure about a table at auction bridge. Of course they had their little differences but all disputes were solved. Their luck and skill were so uniform that the end of each week of play saw them pecuniarily where they started, plus amusement.

There was but one woman in the house warranted by nature and age to quicken male pulses. She was the chief dining room girl, and her name was Maude. She was tall and willowy, a blonde with a face perfect in contour and a complexion suggesting a peach of the prettiest variety. Her hair abundant and unquestionably original, was the color of brass the day after polishing. Maude went home every night after dinner.

The old and middle-aged male guests having wives that kept track of their impulses, smiled at Maude as fathers smile. But every young man in the place was keen for Maude, who was no flirt. She greeted them all alike, paid appreciative glances for compliments—what woman will not?—and was self-reliant and verbally able when repartee was pertinent.

Maude was what the young men called "a swell dresser." Perhaps it was her figure, but she always looked like a model for clothes, and the women whispered with one another in wonder at her appearance knowing their own apparel cost much more than Maude's. And she looked at all times as though she had just been to a coiffeuse. But it was all her own skill with the prime asset of beauty behind it.

One by one the young men in the place secured brief moments with Maude to try themselves out. It never worked.

John Grafton waylaid her one evening in the hall after dinner as she was going home. Grafton was chief clerk in a broker's office and had all the nerve and sophistication of his kind.

"Ah, Maude! But you look a winner tonight! I wonder if you wouldn't like to go the Follies? I've two seats and no partner."

"Sorry," Maude replied, "but I've an engagement."

"Some other evening, then?"

"Oh my evenings are filled for quite a spell." And she laughed and went her way.

Another evening Billy Hanley, another boarder, was waiting for her on the corner. He was resident buyer for one of the big shops. He flashed a pair of Hippodrome seats and wanted her company. She thanked him, but it wasn't possible. And the way she smiled left him as good-natured as before.

At various times she was also approached by four other young men of the house. All had plenty of money, and the theater list was canvassed aimlessly by each. Maude was unexcited and gracious, but her negatives were flexible.

Archie Jay found a moment alone with her and tried his luck for a third time. He was assistant treasurer of a prosperous theater. "You're absolutely wasted in a boarding house," he said. "It isn't your natural environment, girlie. You would be a winner in the theater."

"What do you mean?" she asked.

"Why, there isn't a girl in the chorus in 'The New Moon' that shines as you could. And I am the boy that could get you a place, if you cared for popularity and all that."

"Don't you think I'm popular where I am?"

"Altogether too popular for such an environment."

"But the theater has no fascination for me—unless I'm in the front row of the balcony with some one I like."

"Oh! Then you have a suitor?"

"I didn't say so. But I don't [illegible]"

After the various young men were satisfied that she was not for their society they held little experience meetings and compared notes. As long as all were hopeless, they might as well be candid with one another. And they all seemed to think more of her than ever.

"I even saw the Scotchman asking her to go with him somewhere last night," said Grafton, "and although she smiled at him just as she smiles at all of us, it was useless. A swell chance that tightwad would have, wouldn't he?"

"The movies are his size," replied Hanley, "and if in an insane moment he should ask a girl to go, his pecuniary regret after the show would be poignant."

The young man referred to was Donald Ferguson, who was said to be thriving in the skirt and suit trade, which is highly competitive business. His name alone suggested his origin, for he was a New Yorker born. And he was as good to look at as any of them. In a quiet way Donald had been as susceptible to the charms of Maude as the others, but his frugality was a standing jest. He seemed to be the only young male about who had not brought Maude beribboned boxes of candy and flowers.

"Well," said Archie Jay, "she's one peach of a girl. She'd make a great hit in a beauty chorus."

The boarding-house mistress had loitered and heard something of the conversation. "If you're talking about Maude," she remarked to Archie, "you're on the wrong track. She would never become an actress. She's engaged to be married."

There was a chorus of queries as to whom and about the man in the case.

"I don't know the lucky man, or when, but she has given me notice. She will leave two days before Christmas," said the mistress.

"Let's club together in a purse for her," suggested Grafton, as Donald Ferguson was seen entering. "We'll make it a Christmas present as well as a matrimonial compliment."

"Good!" replied Archie. "And we'll show up the Scotchman. Let's all give the same amount and make it worth while."

Grafton wrote a check for fifty dollars. The others responded each with a like amount, as Ferguson came forward.

Grafton explained what they were doing. "Surely, Ferguson," he said, "you must think as much of the lady as the rest of us. And Christmas is coming."

"I think a lot of her," was Ferguson's reply.

"Well, we have financed our good-will. Come across."

"You're a brick after all!" said Hanley. "We didn't think you'd do it."

"Why shouldn't I do it?" asked Donald. "I'm to marry the lady."

The Worthless Wimple

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

THERE is an old saying that among those who are charitable there is a majority who can ill afford the pleasure. Certain it is the remark was made many times when Arabella Knott took in the poor bless Wimple boy and mothered him as solicitously as if he were her own.

"What Arabella's thinking of I don't know," was the way Mrs. "Doc" Adams expressed it. "She with her deafness and never knowing whether she's getting her [illegible] or not, has no call to be devoting her time to the bringing up of a young one who might better be reared by the county. There was never a Wimple what was worth a button."

But Arabella did not care. Since she had given up playing with dolls thirty years ago and more she had never had anything or any one to care for. When [illegible] was left the last of a family whose record had been spread over the back fences and even in the justice court. The boy was left alone and that was enough for Arabella.

Waddy Wimple, short for Wadsworth, was 14 and except in the service of Arabella, was as indolent a lad as Miss Creek had ever seen. This woman who sent him off to school, mended his clothes and cooked him meals of a kind he had never known before, came into the boy's life in answer to a longing he had never understood. Waddy, for all his carelessness in tracking mud into the house, gave his heart to Arabella and, with the diffidence of the boy, knew no way to express his devotion. Arabella understood.

It was Mrs. "Doc" Adams, and Waddy's habit of singing to the stars, which brought the first hint of trouble in the house.

"I have never thought," Mrs. Adams shouted into Arabella's ear, "a person could consider herself lucky to be deaf. But if you could hear that Wimple boy bawling from his window each night you'd know enough to make him hush. It wouldn't be so bad if his voice wasn't changing."

It was hard for Waddy to understand he must give up his singing. The boy had always been lonely and here in this new home the deafness of his foster mother cut him off from a companionship of free expression. Ever since he could remember he had sung. There was a time when he had to sneak off to do [illegible] now.

At 18 everyone except Arabella said Waddy should be getting a job to repay her for her time and labors. When the boy broached the subject she wept and told him she wanted him to finish high school and then, she said, he could go into the Enterprise store. Mr. Farmer had promised.

As time for graduation approached and the clerkship in the Enterprise was but a few weeks distant, Waddy took to walking alone in the woods. He [illegible] grateful to balk at the plans Arabella had made and yet he could not see himself [illegible]. It was not that he felt himself too good. The Wimples, he had been told since infancy, never amounted to much. He fought his fight and knew there was nothing else he could do. Then, as was his practice, he sat down on the bank of the creek and, trying to hold his voice that it might not carry too far, put his hopes and ambitions into song. It was as [illegible] to do very badly, something just out of sight and reach.

A fat fisherman rose hastily and all but trotted to the side of the oblivious boy. Not until the singer had finished did the man speak. The sun went down and the stars appeared.

Again the town criticised Waddy Wimple when, instead of entering the Enterprise, he left Arabella weeping and went to the city. There was no explanation. Waddy did not dare tell of his hopes, and for a brief moment the foster mother wondered if the neighbors had been right.

"I'll come back," Waddy said. "I want to make good quicker, that's all." There were many things he wished to say but all he could do was surprise her with a kiss. Arabella smiled through her tears. "If only," she said, "he had not decided so suddenly."

The triumph of Arabella came with the announcement in the newspapers that Porter Banham of Cleveland had discovered a marvelous young tenor and predicted for him an immediate success.

"I suppose," said Mrs. "Doc" Adams, "he'll never come back here again. Them Wimples were never appreciative."

"No," said Arabella, trying to keep the immense satisfaction from her voice, "he is not coming back. As soon as I can get my things packed I am going to Cleveland!"

It is agreed in Moss Creek, when news comes of Arabella Knott living in luxury and traveling over the country on the concert tours of Wadsworth Wimple, that there is no accounting for the way luck is distributed.

This is a true story. If God is interested in governments, I wonder what he thinks of ours.

MY friend was coming back from Mexico with a heavy dose of malaria. As ill luck would have it the water was bad on the boat. Malaria makes one thirsty. So, at Mazatlan, my friend laid in a dozen of oranges to quench the fever thirst. When they arrived at San Pedro two oranges remained on a plate beside his berth.

Came then the United States Inspector of Horticulture to inspect the ship. He spied the oranges and made inquiries. The explanations did not pacify him. Did not my friend know that he had no business bringing oranges from Mexico? Didn't he realize that he might thereby import the dreaded 'black scale' into this country? My friend did know these things but the fever had made him rather desperate. The upshot was that the ship was fined $500 and once again the oranges of California were protected by the strong arm of the law.

Now I have nothing against laws which protect oranges. They are good and necessary laws. I am glad they are enforced, no matter how stringently. But—

In the back of my street there is an alley. All over the city there are other alleys just like it, sour, steamy places where children breed like wigglers in a cesspool. Ceaselessly the denizens of those awful runaway spawn. Ceaselessly life begins its struggle in that darkness and filth, poverty, ignorance and sin. Ceaselessly too life ends its struggle in that filth and rickety wagons bear the carrion away. And after all that were the kinder end, for them and for ourselves. For those who do not die go on to worse things. The gallows claims them, or the county hospitals. Yet still we let them come, an endless, loathsome stream, conceived in sin and sickness and foredoomed to suffering and crime. No laws against such matings check the flood, no legal act prevents the spread of plagues.

The laws which keep the black scale from our oranges are valuable. But when, I wonder, will the children of our nation be held worthy of an equal care?

A real friend of the Jerry gang sends in the following. I like her kindly spirit and the tolerance she always shows, but I disagree. Read her letter first.

"Dearest Jerry—

"I greet you lovingly.

"The argument between the Novelist and the Practical Businessman in your 'Listen World' got me started. And for the simple reason that we are all well aware of the fact that many an employer is exceedingly partial to the younger element, regardless of consequences. God bless those of his kind, for they never go very far. Gratification is above judgment, and the result? ? ?

"We all know it. Ability, experience, ambition, determination, good judgment, common sense and a DECIDED INTEREST IN ONE'S JOB and NOT age should be the required qualifications of an employee, for after all, that and nothing else is what will bring success to one's employers. Success can only be attended by one who loves his work and I am firmly convinced that the power of love can bring about the same desired effect in an older as in a younger individual.

"It's contrary to the old adages to affirm that youth is more devoted, capable or alert than the older one. 'Practice makes perfect,' 'Experience the mother of teachers,' 'Character developes in the stream of life,' etc. I would suggest that the longer you float, the more perfect it becomes.

"Rarely will a business firm succeed and progress if its reasoning power is influenced by looks and not efficiency.

"Character and brains produce results and [illegible] is anything accomplished but through years of devotion—life's experiences.

"I wonder if the practical business man in the argument is only a young 'he' flapper. Who is doing the real things worthy of notice in the present day? Among so very many I would mention Edison, Burbank. Who are the leading bankers in the country? Are they young men? The leading professional men? Some young Johnnies? Nothing doing.

"Life may not be a ripening, strengthening process' to a few 'nuts' in 'the rank and file,' but to the real man and real woman, it certainly is, and the world has proven it beyond a doubt. I dare say that in this age of ours were we to make thorough investigation, we would find the younger generation far more 'stale in the morning and stupid at night' than their elders. For the simple reason that the former are going a little too fast to keep fresh (opposite of stale! !)

"Go along the streets and take notice of the 'stale and stupid' looking ones and I do assert the complimentary remark, fits the younger ones by far. In their class is found the caved in chests, drooping shoulders, half dazed eyes from lack of sleep. To the middle age class or elder ones, belongs the alert eye, motherly look, self possessed, interesting and interested—therefore, of sympathetic soul, and with sense enough to realize that a tired body means a tired brain, so she retires early to be on the job at 9 a. m.

"Again, I say, isn't it life's experience that has made her realize these conditions? Where do we find more alertness or efficiency—the young man of dance hall fame, or the serious minded elder gentleman? Leave it to the gang to decide. It's not age but the individual that must be considered.

"Centenarians and invalids excluded, of course. I assume that we are discussing perfectly healthy and normal humans, within a comparative age.

"Forty-three and far from 'stale and stupid,' but much more alert, progressive and interested in life's problems than at 20.

"D. A. B. G."

I said I disagreed—but I do only partly. Of course business firms will not succeed if influenced by looks instead of efficiency—but I do not think that dull eyes, caved in chests and weary steps are found in youth while joy, brains, bright eyes and intelligence are found only in those past 30. You'll find them in a cross-section of any age. There's something about youth that's very glorious to me. It hasn't found out that life is not all beauty—it hasn't found out that many are beaten in the struggle, it hasn't found viciousness and [illegible]

My Marriage Problems

THE "FEW WORDS" DICKY HAD TO SAY TO MADGE.

"Turn down the wood road."

Dicky's phrasing was a request, his tone a command, and I obeyed both as I swung the car into the "wood road," a thoroughfare beloved by all of us for its winding curves, each displaying a new vista of forest beauty to our woodland-loving eyes. In midsummer one frequently met motors upon it, but in the late autumn it was almost deserted, the "natives" preferring the straighter roads as the shortest distances between their start and their destination.

I knew without Dicky's telling me where he wanted me to stop the car. A half-mile down the road there is an opening in the woods always reminding me irresistibly of a cove in a stream, where one can draw a car out of the narrow road and avoid any danger of some other motorist ramming one's car.

Dicky is Emphatic.

It is an ideal spot for a confidential talk, and during the summer months I have seen many a car parked there with its occupants, almost always young couples, absorbed in each other's society. And when, as had often happened since we came to the east end of the island, Dicky and I found ourselves a bit crowded out by the number of the people in our home, we had escaped to this delightful spot and sat there talking until we had straightened out whatever domestic tangle needed our attention.

"One hundred per cent intelligent," Dicky commented, as I turned the car into the little glade and stopped. "Now, shut off your engine, for you and I are in for a 'conference,' with the office boy instructed to admit nobody less than the President of the United States."

"Why all the high tragedy?" I asked saucily, as I stooped obediently to the switch key.

Dicky grinned reluctantly.

"You'll think it's battle, murder and sudden death before I get through," he said in pretended burlesque, but I thought I detected more than a trace of seriousness beneath his raillery, and I was correspondingly uneasy and warily silent.

"In the first place," Dicky began didactically, "just get one thing through your bean. I'm not asking any questions about this performance with Katherine, but don't you and Lil think for one little fraction of a second that you're putting anything over on me! I probably rank in your lists of male intelligentsia as twentieth or some such rank, the high places being preempted by deah Majah Grantland and sweet Allen Drake, the boy with the long eyelashes. But limited as my intelligence is, I'm still able to put two and two together without making it over four and one-eighth."

"What Do You Mean?"

He paused for breath, and I drew a long one of decided apprehension as to his reaction when he should learn that Lillian had sent for Allen Drake, whom he had so contemptuously characterized, and whom I knew he detested wholeheartedly. That Dicky was determined to keep me from aiding Lillian I feared, and I began to search wildly in my mind for some expedient by which I could compromise Lillian's need of me and Dicky's prejudices.

"I'll admit you did fool me for a few hours," he went on more slowly. "I really did think Katherine was coming on for a rest and visit while Jack was gone to South America. And when you said that she would like to do some nursing while she was here I was tickled to death on account of Mother.

"But the mater informs me a little while ago," Dicky continued, "that she doesn't need or want a nurse, and that Mrs. Bickett is going over to the hospital on an important case. Now, I can't guess what case she's going on, can't coordinate Katie's brainstorms, Jim's abrupt leavetaking, and the confabs you and Lil and fossilized old Pettit have been having. But that's neither here nor there. Keep your little secrets if you want to, but just remember this—no detecting, plain or fancy, or any other stunts this time for you! The season is closed for you, old top, and you'll just get back nicely in your little cave, for nothing—did-ing—absolutely!"

I sparred for time.

"What—what do you mean?" I quavered. "I haven't been—"

"No, you can bet your sweet life you haven't been doing anything worth mentioning, or I'd have been on your trail before this. I'm just telling you this now, so you can make up your mind to keep out of the mess. It's a joke, anyway—your getting mixed up in these secret-service messes! Of course, old Lil is different. She really belongs to the game, and she's valuable. And I can see how, on account of Katherine's profession, she could be useful to Lil. But you—outside of giving Lil moral support, which the Lord knows she doesn't need, and giving Allen Drake a chance to tell you what a wonderful white-haired boy of the powers that be his lordship is, I don't see where you come in. And it's a risky business. I don't choose that my wife get mixed up in it. So if you have any little plans laid with Lil, you'd better get busy and squash 'em."

Giant Recruit to See Service in Hawaii

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 8—Pacifists who decry "giant armies" should take a slant at the newest result of "this man's army" in this city.

He's William Randolph Dare, of Rochester, 24 years old, 6 feet 1 inch in height, and weighing just 265 pounds. Dare, enlisted for the Medical Corps, is slated for service in the Hawaiian Islands.

SPURN "SPOILS SYSTEM," PLEA TO GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—An appeal to the party in power to turn its back on the "spoils system" and adopt a through-going application of the merit principle was made by Richard H Dana, Boston, president of the National Civil Service Reform League, in an address tonight before the annual convention of the league.

"Let me ask the administration," said he, "whether there is any other issue it could now take up which would so appeal to the public at large and so redound to its own credit in the history of the country. Experience has shown that any flagrant use of patronage always loses votes for the party responsible."

Dana said that counting employes of states counties, municipalities and townships, the army of civilian public employes in the United States numbers above 3,000,000, or one for every seven families. The pay-roll of this army is about $3 000,000 000 a year, of which $600,000,000 is spent by the federal government.

One-quarter of the total of salaries paid, Dana charged, is wasted in supernumerary employes, unnecessary duplication of work, inadequate management and antiquated methods.

"Could waste be stopped in the public service," he said, "there would be a saving to our overtaxed country of $700,000,000 a year."

STEAM-ROLLER HEARSE.

Little Rock, Ark.—The tender of a steam-roller he had operated for ten years was used to carry Henry Colton's body to the cemetery.

Ball Bearing on Train Wears Long

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company is experimenting with roller bearings for passenger coaches, similar to those adopted by the state railways of Sweden. For about a year six "P-70" coaches on the Pennsylvania have been in operation with barrel-shaped roller bearings, but according to mechanical experts of the company there has not been sufficient time to draw definite conclusions from the test. It is said by the company that so far the bearings have shown very little wear.

One of the things expected to be accomplished in equipping railroad stock with roller bearings is the lessening of the tractive effort required to start a train, which would result, according to railroad authorities, in a saving of fuel.

BIRD LIVES WITH DOG.

Cincinnati to Sell Big Booze Supply

(By International News Service.)

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 9.—Three hundred and ninety-eight cases of bonded whisky are to be sold at public auction in Cincinnati in the near future by order of Judge John Weld Peck, of the U S. District [illegible] permits will be allowed to bid. The whisky was confiscated after it had been sold to Louis Cohen, of New York City, for $28,000, Cohen having been convicted of attempting to bribe a Fedral prohibition officer.

GERMAN WINES LOWER.

Take it to your grocer

This Coupon is worth

Fill out this coupon—hand it to your grocer. It is worth 25c toward the purchase of one quart can of Mazola

It gets you this remarkable salad and cooking oil at about HALF PRICE

IF you have not used Mazola, this is your opportunity to give it a fair trial and prove to yourself that for salad dressings there is nothing better. It makes a smooth, fine dressing, and Mazola-mayonnaise will keep longer without separating. Mazola never becomes rancid—you don't have to keep it in the ice box.

For shortening, you will find Mazola is equal to rich creamery butter, and you use less. Makes your cakes and biscuits light and tasty. Once you use Mazola for shortening, you will prefer it to lard or butter.

And for frying, you will find Mazola-cooked foods are more digestible. Because Mazola does not carry odors or flavors from one food to another, you can use it over and over again to the very last drop. Merely strain it. It always remains sweet and clean.

If you are not satisfied in every respect with Mazola as the best oil for salads and cooking, your grocer will refund your money without question.

INTEREST FOUND IN DEFINITION OF AMERICANISM

All Contestants For Tribune's Prizes Must Have Work in Before Dec. 16.

Suppose you take a pencil and note down the principal qualities that seem to you to constitute real "Americanism." You'll no doubt find that quite a number will occur to you. Which of them would you select to put into a 50-word definition of Americanism—a term that in the past few years has become of world-wide importance and use?

For the best definition of American that is submitted by any boy or girl in attendance at any public school of the Eastbay, The TRIBUNE will pay three cash prizes of $50, $30, and $20 respectively. The definitions, in order to be eligible, must be submitted after midnight of Sunday, December 10, and before midnight of Friday, December 15. All manuscrips entered in the contest should be addressed to "The Americanization Editor, Oakland TRIBUNE."

A committee of judges to select the three winning definitions will be announced later.

Boys or girls entering the contest may discuss the subject with their parents, and obtain their help in preparing definitions, without violating the contest rules.

Hungarian Count To Study Movies

(By International News Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—Czecho-Slovakia vs. Hollywood—in many million reels.

Such a vision is seen by Prince Sascha, a Czech nobleman, who is coming to Hollywood to learn the "movie" business from "hokum" to art; from bathing bueaties to glcerine tears.

The prince will then go back to his native land and promote another "Hollywood."

Japan Villages Are Destroyed by Quake; Many Die

TOKYO, Dec. 8 (By International News Service).—Portions of Japan were shaken by a violent earthquate today.

Nagasaki reports eighteen dead as a result of the tremors in nearby villages where the ground sank three feet in places.

The violence of the quake is reported to have been centered in central and western Kyushu.

This province reports four dead and twenty seriously injured in an initial check, and four villages destroyed.

Want Queenstown Port of Call Again

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—An effort is being made by the Free State Government to get the great shipping lines to call again at Queenstown. Since 1915 the great cross Atlantic liners have abandoned Queenstown as a port of call, and Irish-Americans have to go to Cherbourg and then back to Southampton, and from there back to Dublin. This, it is pointed out, entails more than 48 hours extra travel upon all visiting Ireland.

Kiss by Chicago Society Girl Is Bribe for Police

BARRINGTON, Ill., Dec. .—While Miss Barbara Kenyon was speeding to Chicago with a party of society friends to attend the theater she was halted by a motor policeman. He ordered her to drive to the nearest station, refusing all pleas for leniency. But Miss Kenyon is resourceful. Leaning out of the car she planted a dainty kiss square upon the "cop's" cheek. He flushed and looked angry—then the kiss won. "Go ahead and take it easy." Then he was off looking for other less daring speeders.

CONVICTED MAN'S LITTLE SISTER DENOUNCES JURY

(By International News Service.)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 8.—A jury sentenced Edwin Burkhart, 15, to five years in the State Training school in connection with the presumably accidental shooting of his chum, Troy Coker, while the two were hunting.

Burkhart's small sister didn't approve of the sentence. As the jurors started to leave the box she halted them, saying through her tears:

"Wait a minute. I hope each and every one of you who has a boy gets the same thing."

SAN JOSE REALTY MAN SLATED TO HEAD STATE BODY

Special to TRIBUNE.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 8.—Frazier O. Reed, of San Jose, is slated to be the next president of the California Real Estate Association. Reed is now first vice-president.

The newly elected directors of the association are in session today at the state convention here and will elect officers. Retiring President C. C. C. Tatum, of Los Angeles, was presented with a golfing outfit by the members of the Los Angeles board, at the "Home Town" talkfest in the Temple theater last night. The winner of the Fred E. Reed trophy for the best five-minute talk on "my Home Town," will be announced at the annual banquet tonight at the St. Anne Inn, convention headquarters. Sacramento, Fresno and Pasadena are after the 1922 convention. "Colonization" is the big problem before the convention. Four speakers touched upon this topic at the opening day for the convention. M. V. Hartranft, president of the California Home Extension Association was the first speaker.

VALUE TOLD.

Among many things Hartranft said:

"Colonization creates land values.

"Each adult citizen has a citizenship asset value of $1000 to $2000. With this usually intangible asset we have bought and paid for and delivered thousands of farm homes in California to happy settlers in many parts of the state.

"We have done this in the blundering prospecting way of a handmade organization without capital or aid, but with results which when studied can be adopted to solve every colonization problem in California when each adult citizen has a [illegible] prices of $2000 it is easy to calculate that a population club of 20,000 adults has a coinage value of forty million dollars in land prices upon which they settle.

"Every law of psychology, every law of society, every law of finance and economics is favorable multiplied in force under group action in colonization.

"Moses, William Penn and Brigham Young were realtors emeritus. They did not advertise real estate. They organized and delivered population clubs. While they lured their crowds with theological ideals, the lure of California sunshine is even stronger.

GROUP PLAN OUTLINED.

"By the creation of branch and cooperating groups or populations clubs formed throughout the nation it would require but a little coordination of the various interests in California to yet make mass attacks upon the wilderness spots that still remain in California. Group colonization means "make a survey of the lands available." Then organize the land owners. A community land pool should be organized at prices prevailing in the zero hour, so that the incomer can be [illegible] and given the advantages of the low prices. Owners who will not sell all of their holdings will often option half of them at low prevailing prices with the expectancy that the new population will result in the remaining half being worth more then the whole was worth at the inception of the campaign. Through group organization intelligently and definitely directed the town lot values created from hitherto unoccupied spots can make home securing very easy for a great multitude. Group [illegible] pioneer settlers and is the basis of the true science of home securing and land banking.

"The settlement of the lands through population clubs will create enhanced values and a trading center where the town lots will pay for the original costs of the farms."

Hartranft cited numerous colonization projects successfully founded upon this conception of land settlement. He insisted that the real estate dealer can create his own economic condition and need not fear a money depression, a war in Europe or other economic and financial disturbances.

R. E. Fisher, director of the California Development Association; Edwin T. Keiser, California state real estate commissioner and C. L. Seagraves, general colonization agent of the Santa Fe Railway, all made pleas for proper colonization methods in California.

HAWAIIAN KNIGHTS WILL ENTERTAIN ON RADIO WAVES

Return Concert to Be Given By Tribune in Response to Demand.

Because of the popular demand for a return concert from KLX, the Hawaiian Knights, a local trio of string instrumentalists, will entertain this evening from The TRIBUNE'S radio broadcasting station between 7 and 7:30 o'clock.

The Hawaiian Knights, composed of Philip Lemes, John Oliver and Louis Margie, entertained from KLX a number of weeks ago. There were so many telephone requests for special numbers and later for a return concert that they have been secured for this evening. Joseph Peacock, one of the trio at the last radio broadcast of the Hiwaiian Knights, has been replaced by Phillip Lemes, having been called away by an engagement elsewhere.

The trio is popular wherever it is heard, and is noted on the radio for its ability to pass from one number to another with no more delay than is required for the announcement. In the language of the radio listener-in the Knights are "right on the dot," doing away with the usual delay that occurs between numbers, and which is some times annoying to those listening in.

15 Billion Warriors

There are 15,000,000,000 white cells to the cubic inch of blood in the human system. The white cells build up the body and preserve it. They are the staunch, friendly little warriors that fight off the invading army of disease germs that menace the system from the cradle to the grave.

Olive Oil increases the number of white cells and thus helps build up the body and send the rich blood of perfect health coursing through the veins.

Taken internally, or as a massage, the human system absorbs the life-giving qualities of this perfect food and often brings to weak, run-down, nervous systems the exhilarating feeling that comes from physical strength and mental courage.

Use Sylmar Olive Oil for this treatment and watch the amazing results that often seem just like magic.

Bernstorff Desires Germany in League

By GUS M. OEHM,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN. (By mail to United Press.)—Count Johann von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, advocates the entrance of Germany into the League of Nations.

Writing in his magazine, "Democratic Germany," Bernstorff, who has been in Geneva during the last meeting of the league, says he sees no reason why Germany "should not accept the invitation of England to go to Geneva."

"Even if we admit," Bernstorff writes, "all the sins and shortcomings of the league, it must be borne in mind that we have to suffer just as much injustice from the other lovely institutions of the Entente, whether they are called supreme council, embassadors' conference of reparations committee. Yet we are obliged to deal and confer with them, because any other action would mean suicide. The fight for justice must be the watchword of German politics. After having accepted the invitation to Genoa, I do not see why we should not accept the invitation of England to go to Geneva.

"We would simply have to answer that we are willing to come if England sees to it that we can enter without our dignity being hurt," Bernstorff said.

The former ambassador is confident the reception of Germany would not meet with any serious opposition.

Notorious Russian Brigand in Prison

WARSAW, Dec. 8.—Makhno, a semi-brigand leader who once gave Russia great trouble, has been imprisoned on charges of aiding Bolshevist propagandists in Eastern Galicia.

Makhno's career is one that might do for a motion picture scenario. Originally an anarchist, he was for a time the trusted lieutenant of Grigorieff, formerly a Social Revolutionist and then a Green Army leader, who sometimes served and sometimes revolted against the Moscow government. Grigorieff is said to have had a weakness for murdering Jews, and his cruelties at Odessa are notorious; but he met death, it is stated, at the hands of Makhno.

Makhno's strength was in his peasant supporters. When they failed to follow him he fled to Poland for refuge.

Hammers Used to Destroy Evidence

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Dec. 8.—(United Press).—Hammers are needed as accessories by many motorists in Raleigh county, according to Captain Thomas C. Norton, of the West Virginia state police.

The tools are used when the autosits suddenly encounter members of the state police force. However, they are not used with murderous intent, the captain says, but merely to destroy evidence.

At the sight of a state trooper there is a clash between the tools and glass bottles and jars containing moonshine. The contents are splashed into the highway.

The Raleigh county detachment is making strenuous efforts to break up automobile drinking parties which according to Captain Norton are numerous in that section.

Filipinos Appeal Against Ku Klux

HONOLULU, Dec. 8.—Filipinos here are being terrorized by the "Filipino Ku Klux Klan," an organization which is reported to have been operating for the last two months.

The organization is reported to have in excess of 2000 members on the island of Oahu, according to Claus Roberts, deputy city and county attorney, who was appealed to by a Filipino plantation laborer, who claims to be a victim of the klan.

Roberts said that this was not the first time he had been appealed to, adding that several Filipino members of the society, desirous of quitting, had appealed for protection. The headquarters of the society, it is alleged, is at a small plantation camp, Watertown, about a quarter of a mile from the U. S. Naval Base at Pearl Harbor.

One Filipino, who has been missing from Watertown for two weeks, is said to have been a member of the society, and the information given Roberts is that this man was buried alive for violating rules. Reports from other places on this island are that members of the society have been tied to the stake and whipped, that others have been held in confinement and other forms of punishment inflicted on persons blacklisted by the society.

Cincinnati Now Has Orchestra of Co-Eds

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 9.—The University of Cincinnati now boasts an orchestra composed entirely of co-eds. The organization is one of the results of the "hobby" tried out at the university. Class schedules are so arranged that every student has one hour a day which must be devotel to some "hobby," preferably not in the same line of work followed in the regular classes and exercises.

'LAUGHING HORSE' IS CONDEMNED BY STUDENTS AT U. C.

Committee Hears Editor and Declares Magazine "Cheap and Obscene."

BERKELEY, Dec. 8.—"Laughing Horse," magazine of satire, edited by Roy Chanslor, whose arrest followed the present month's issue of the publication, has been officially condemned as "cheap and obscene" by the student affairs committee of the University of California.

The committee's statement follows a "trial" held Wednesday evening, when Chanslor was summoned before the student leaders to explain certain portions of the magazine. The student editor declared that his publication was in no way officially connected with the university, and that he could not see anything of an objectionable nature between its covers.

VIEW OF STUDENTS.

As its verdict in the case the student affairs committee issued the following statement today:

"The Undergraduate Student Affairs committee unanimously deprecates, as being cheap and obscene, certain articles appearing in the recent issue of the 'Laughing Horse.' The 'Laughing Horse,' though technically not a student body publication, is published by a senior student with the admitted intention of selling it to students of the university.

"We feel that the 'Laughing Horse' has its place as being representative of a certain type of student thought, but when this publication, or any other publication of students, so flagrantly and offensively violates that simple and fundamental code of morals which every decent human being cherishes, then it is time to express contempt for and disgust with those responsible for the violation.

"We feel that we are expressing the righteous indignation of all those students who cling to the lofty ideals of manhood and womanhood which are instilled into them here at the university when we proclaim that those articles in the 'Laughing Horse' in no measure represent the trend of student thought.

NO PLACE AT U. C.

"Yet the 'Laughing Horse' is circulated so as to carry the impression broadcast that this sort of thing is countenanced by university students, that this sort of thing is the product of a modern university education. We maintain that it is not. Obscenity has no place at a great university, and when it finds expression in a publication over which the students have no control, yet which is circulated so as to carry the impression that it is a student body publication, we condemn it on the grounds that were it under student jurisdiction, and were it to continue in the tone of the articles appearing in the recent issue, it would be suppressed by the students as unworthy of the great university which they have learned to love."

The statement is signed by the following members of the student affairs committee: Earl G. Steel, president; B. P. McAllister, secretary; H. W. Kennedy, C. C. Mathews, L. J. O'Brien and I. C. Hilgers.

Business Men and Teachers to Confer

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 8—(United Press.)—A two-day conference of high school teachers of business subjects will open here the night of Friday, Dec. 8, under the direction of the United States Bureau of Education. Business men will confer with the educators.

The purpose of the conference is to correlate standardized business experience with the teaching of high school business subjects, a purpose unique in the history of education in the United States, the bureau declares.

The conference is one of a series of regional conferences of teachers of business subjects and business men which the Bureau of Education has scheduled for various parts of the country. The first of the conferences took place in Philadelphia, Pa., on November 3—4. Arrangements for similar conferences in other cities are now being made by the bereau, its representative announces.

ADULT EDUCATION HELD INSURANCE FOR COMMUINTY

Lewis B. Avery Tells Rotary Club of Instruction of Grown-ups.

Education has much to do with the happiness, contentment and safety of a community, in the opinion of Lewis B. Avery, assistant superintendent of Oakland schools, who spoke yesterday before the Rotary Club at the Hotel Oakland. His subject was "Education for Grownups," and the subject matter was discussed in connection with the observance of Education Week.

He said: "We are preparing our young people today to be citizens of a new world. The great business blocks are emblematical of the growth of modern civilization. Business structures now are distributed vertically while the homes are distributed horizontally. We must fit our children to meet the changed conditions that will confront them when they get out of the schools.

"The education of a foreign adult costs $220. I believe the education of the foreign adult into a man who will be a leader in his group is the best insurance you can get. No other country has a foreign problem such as we have. It is for this reason you are taxed for the education of foreigners. Adult education is, I believe, about the best insurance against social disorder."

CALIFORNIA AND STANFORD ANNOUNCE HOOP SCHEDULES

FOURTEEN GAMES ON CALIFORNIA BASKET SCHEDULE FOR YEAR

New Arrangement Coming Into Force Reduces Number of Contests; Northern and Southern Winners Will Meet.

By DOUG MONTELL.

Teams of the colleges of the Pacific Coast Conference will enter the basketball season facing a new arrangement in so far as the actual schedule itself goes. For the past several years it has been the custom for two northern teams, one from Oregon and one from Washington, to make the trip here to play both Stanford and California while both the Cards and Bruins took a swing around the northern circuit, usually in mid-season. With the advent of U. S. C. and Idaho into the Conference last year it was found that it would be impractical to attempt to continue this arrangement, for no northern team could hope to come here for two game series with Stanford. California and U. S. C. any more than a California, U. S. C or Stanford team could play six games on a northwest tour to include Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

Accordingly the new system was devised, whereby the northern colleges will play a larger number of games in the Conference than will the southern members, but also whereby the respective outstanding teams of both sections will have definite assurances of being able to meet to fight it out for the championship.

California Has Easier Schedule.

California, in meeting Stanford and U. S. C., in four games each, plays but eight Conference games. The Cards meet the Trojans in a four-game series, making it easy to determine the winner of the southern half of the Conference on a percentage basis. There will be no more of the best two out of three arrangement with Stanford and California.

Instead the Bears are to play two games at Stanford, one February 17 and the other February 23. The Cards will invade the Berkeley campus to open the series on February 14 and again on February 21.

The northern colleges will proceed according to their usual custom, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, O. A. C. and W. S. C. battling it out to a verdict.

This year, as the result of losing the flip of a coin, the southern winner must go north to play the northern champion in a three-game series which will definitely provide a Conference champion, based upon the fairest arrangement possible.

Bruins to Invade South in January.

The California schedule calls for a two-game series against U. S. C. at Los Angeles on January 26 and 27 while the Trojans are to return the compliment on February 5 and 6 at Berkeley.

The present schedule calls for but six games outside of Conference circles, by far the easiest schedule the Golden Bears have tackled in basketball for the past several years. Opening with Nevada on January 15 and 16 and following with Santa Clara at Berkeley January 20 and St. Ignatius at Berkeley January 2 the Bears get off to a running start.

St. Mary's will be the first game after the return from the southern trip on February 2 while the Olympic Club fits in on February 8, in between the second series with U. S. C. and the opening of the Stanford series.

Coach Wight announced yesterday that twenty men, four for each position, would return January 3 and would start strict training.

Jan. 15-16—Nevada at Berkeley.

Jan. 20—Santa Clara at Berkeley.

Jan. 22—St. Ignatius at Berkeley.

Jan. 26-27—U. S. C. at Los Angeles.

Feb. 2—St. Mary's at Berkeley.

Feb. 5-6—U. S. C. at Berkeley.

Feb. 8—Olympic Club at Berkeley.

Feb. 14—Stanford at Berkeley.

Feb. 17—Stanford at Stanford.

Feb. 21—Stanford at Berkeley.

Feb. 23—Stanford at Stanford.

Schlaifer Guilty Of Frameup, Charge

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 8.—Morrie Schlaifer of Omaha was disqualified and action on Frankie Murphy of Denver was taken under consideration by the local boxing commission tonight after Referee Flynn had declared a bout between Murphy and Schlaifger a frame-up and no contest.

The referee's action was taken in the fifth round of what was scheduled as a twelve-round contest. In the fifth, Murphy went to the floor, claiming that Schlaifer had fouled him. Decision in Murphy's case was postponed by the commission until after physicians examine him tomorrow. Schlaifer weighed 148 and Murphy 145 pounds.

Herb Baldwin of Omaha won from Kid Josephs of Butte by a knockout in the third round of a preliminary match.

Miske-Gibbons Bout May Go to Decision

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 8.—The scheduled ten-round no-decision bout between Billy Miske and Tommy Gibbons, heavyweights, here on December 15, may be the first legalized decision bout in Minnesota, it was indicated today.

The State Boxing Commission has the power to allow decision bouts, but heretofore no official verdicts have been rendered.

Brentwood "Hawks" To Play Pittsburg

BRENTWOOD, Dec. 8.—With four straight games to their credit the Night Hawks basketball quintet is closing the first half of the league, having no more to play.

Tomorrow night the "Hawks" regulars and second team and the Pittsburg regulars and second team will reel off two games at the Knightsen club house. The Pittsburg regulars are a difficult aggregation and given an even break in the early part of the fracas will make the "Hawks" step along fast.

Ted Krache Given Decision in Sixth

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 8.—Ted Krache, Hoquiam lightweight, was awarded a decision over Morgan Jones of Tacoma in a six-round boxing match here last night. The decision divided the house. For the first three rounds, Jones outboxed Krache, but in the final rounds Krache by his aggressiveness evened the count and won the favor of the referee.

At the annual meeting of the Northern California basketball officials' association last night at A. G. A discussion of the new rules was conducted by President Newsom in which all officials engaged.

The next meeting of the officials' body will be held the first week of January.

BASKETBALL

Basketball fans will be confronted with several changes in the playing rules with the opening of the indoor athletic season which, unless clearly understood, will be the cause of considerable criticism of officials by those witnessing the games. The new code of playing rules for the 1922-23 season, recently announced by William H. Ball, chairman of the national rules committee, contains a few alterations of importance, which, in the opinion of some officials, may tend to slow up the game to a certain extent.

The greatest change was the elimination of four former technical fouls which permitted free throws for the basket by the team offended. Double dribbles, always a matter of considerable discussion, have ceased to be regarded as a technical foul, merely being regarded as a violation in the new rules and as such no free throw is allowed.

Running with the ball is classified the same as is the double dribble. In both cases the offending team is deprived of the ball, the same passing to the opposing team at the nearest spot out of bounds on the side line. This will eliminate a team, lacking in some of the ability at dribbling and passing, being penalized to such an extent as to permit a team to win on technical fouls alone, as was the case last year.

The playing field this year has been altered, a goal zone having been provided to include the area seventeen feet from the end of the playing field. Personal fouls committed in this area will cost the offending team two free throws whereas the same foul, committed outside the goal zone, will continue to cause a penalty of but one free throw.

This change will require that officials take particular care in following the ball closely as there will be many situations arising when the foul will be committed on the line or while play is passing over the line so that it will be a question of just where the foul was committed.

The elimination of fouls for technical violations, replacing the free throw in those cases with awarding the ball to the other side out of bounds will tend to speed up, rather than slow up, the game, the throwing of free throws doing more to slow up play than anything else in the game.

DEMPSEY WILLING TO MEET STRANGLER LEWIS IN RING

JOE KIRKWOOD AND WALTER HAGAN WILL PLAY EXHIBITION AT CLAREMONT TOMORROW

KEARNS LOOKS UPON JESS WILLARD AS A SET-UP FOR DEMPSEY

By BOB SHAND

Said Kearns on his arrival at the Sixteenth street depot yesterday:

"I tried hard to plug this match and get it over but there doesn't seem to be a chance. Rickard offered Willard $65,000 to box the champion last summer but Jess run out. Now if he wants the match he will have to dig up a promoter and I cannot think of anybody willing to make such a match worth while for Dempsey. You know the arrangement at Toledo was for Dempsey to get $27,000, which was about training expenses, while Willard drew down four times that sum. The shoe is on the other foot now. From what I have heard of Willard's training he is through and overweight. He should take on some second raters before challenging the champion. It wouldn't be fair to let Dempsey sock him on the chin."

In the meantime Archer and Doyle are waiting for Kearns to reach Los Angeles where they propose to slip him a line of chatter. Kearns is ready to listen to them and then laugh. In his stage work across the bay Willard tripped over his own feet and appeared helpless. He has acquired the fat that comes with age and which cannot be removed by training and it is the general belief that Jess is well over the forty-year mark.

Kearns thinks that Dempsey and Strangler Lewis will meet in a "mixed match," and is more than willing to pit his champion against the wrestling king. Jack thinks Dempsey would hang a right-hander on Lewis' chin before the wrestler could get in close enough to grab a hold. An Oklahoma promoter has offered terms for such a match and the affair may be arranged any time after the first of the year.

Harry Wills will be soft picking for the champion, says Kearns. "I saw him box Clem Johnson and he was not one-fourth as good as when he was boxing on the Coast. Dempsey will goal him in jig time but as there is a public demand for the match Dempsey is willing to meet the colored chap. The match may be a Fourth of July affair in New York.

"So this is Harry Wills, the Lion" said Johnson through his golden smile "Mah goodness he's the tamest lion Ah evah saw. Ah only wish he would box old Jack Johnson."

And Kearns declares Johnson can lick most of the present day heavyweights, old as he is. Johnson is still getting the money and has theatrical engagements booked months ahead.

Dempsey is in shape to box on short notice, says his boss. He has been boxing steadily and while in Kansas City recently he took on from ten to fifteen fighters of all sizes every day. He weighs around 190 and is hard as nails. Incidentally Dempsey is not engaged to Doris Deane or any other girl, according to his manager.

Despite the split-up the pair had Kearns still believes time Jimmy Duffy is quite a fighter and he is sorry Jimmy hastened home from the east. Kearns denies he ever took any of Jimmy's money and he further states that Lew Tendler did not foul the local boy.

"Tendler ripped a right hand into the pit of Duffy's stomach" says Kearns and Dan McKettrick, who was in Jimmy's corner tried to claim a foul. He told Duffy to remain on the floor but Jimmy arose and started slugging which was the best evidence that had not been hit low. Then Tendler ripped another to the stomach as the gong sounded and McKettrick claimed a foul in the corner between rounds. The referee would not stand for it however and Tendler got the decision. However Duffy is a mighty good boxer. It was a lucky punch that Bobby Barrett smacked him with when he knocked him out.

"Senator" Billy Lyons, the quiet young salesman who pals with Kearns and who came in on the train with the party thinks he knowns a score of welters in New York who can lick Duffy but Kearns thinks differently.

Kearns leaves for Los Angeles Sunday to play two weeks in vaudeville with the champion. The pair will come north to spend a week here and wil then proceed east. It will be either show work on Broadway or a trip to Europe the first of the new year. Dempsey has been offered theatrical work in Britain but has no idea of boxing on the other side.

Joe Kirkwood, the Australian golfer who teams up with Walter Hagan against John Black and Jack Neville at the Claremont club tomorrow is the greatest trick shot expert in the game.

And that isn't all. Kirkwood plays as fine a game of all-round golf as any pro in the country. His swing is flatter than a door mat but he hits a low trajectory ball and at placing drives he has no rival.

Kirkwood stands about six feet and weighs around 170 pounds. His thick crop of curly black hair makes him look younger than 26. Modest and unassuming, he makes friends easily. Joe began playing golf at 11 and before he was old enough to vote was by far the best player in Australia.

His trick shots came to him gradually. He worked hard a long time to master them. He can entertain a gallery for an hour and a half without repeating the same stunt. He calls each shot and generally makes good on every occasion.

He will, for instance, tee a ball on a watch and drive it without injuring the timepiece. He also drives a ball off the toe of a man's foot or from under it. William Tell has nothing on Joe. Instead of shooting an apple off a man's head with an arrow, Kirkwood swipes the pill from the top of a person's skull without denting the dome!

Still another shot this phenom performs is to drive ball from the tee while looking backward over the right shoulder. Then he can tee four balls one on top of each other, using a little sand between them, and drive each ball from the top down without disturbing any of the others. Teeing the balls side by side, he will drive the second or the third leaving the others in the same spot on the tee.

Lining five balls in a row, without lifting his head, he proceeds to play one after the other in rapid succession, driving the balls at various elevations from grass skimmers to sky scrapers, each shot assuming a slighter ascent than the last.

Taking a right handed club with the blade upside down, Joe makes a left handed drive. Some trick, and it's no dub shot either.

Kirkwood is a fine putter. Fact is, his whole game is sound. His pitching from the rough is uncanny. With the mashie he's a wonder—can do most anything with it. An elbow hole is made by a well executed slice or hook. His second shots are aces, for his control and judge of distance usually put him on the green.

ANDY KERR'S TEAM RESUMES PRACTICE; STARS STILL OUT

By TOM IRWIN.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 8.—Andy Kerr and Tiny Thornhill today called the Stanford varsity together on the practice field for the third time since the Big Game and put them through two hours of top-season work as the finishing touch of the week's practice program. Both Stanford mentors know what their men have in store for them in the shape of competition with the Pitt Panthers on December 30, for they know the Pitt players and plays, and the Pitt coach and coaching.

Reports coming from western writers visiting in the East to the effect that Pitt is probably one touchdown stronger than Stanford at present are not regarded by either Kerr or Thornhill as authoritative. As Thornhill put it, "Pitt is probably two to four touchdowns stronger than Stanford right now, but we shall gradually improve while they are marking time. Whether or not Stanford will be able to take the Panthers into camp is not for us to say, but if we get good breaks in practice weather, Stanford will show up far better than most people will regard possible."

Kerr has little to say, but he knows that his reputation as a coach of western athletes depends somewhat upon the showing he is able to make against his one time instructor and now so-called adviser. If Kerr could win from Pitt no other athletic achievement could [illegible] cap. It would be his making as a teacher of the American game. And yet he has nothing to lose, or comparatively nothing. It would be too much to expect to ask him to produce a team in his first year that can out of hand defeat the best the East has to offer. Even a close score would make the Card mentor look pretty good to a lot of college athletic authorities.

As to condition, all but two men of Kerr's first squad are in first-class shape. Captain DeGroot is still favoring the bad knee which sent him out of the Washington game and caused him no end of trouble in the Big Game. He has not been out for practice since, and probably will not show up next week until at least Wednesday. Norman Cleveland, with a small ruptured blood vessel above the knee, is also on the injured list. He may be out until regular intensive practice starts on December 22, the day after final examinations on the Farm.

The Pittsburgh party is expected to arrive on the coast from three to five days before the day of the East-West battle. According to present plans, the eastern team will work out in San Francisco [illegible] game, when they will come out to Palo Alto to try out the Stadium turf. Among those whom Warner expects to bring west with him are:

Sauer, Williams and Jordan, ends; Gourley, Fredette and Sompson, tackles; Seidelsohn, Sack and Clark, guards; Bowser, center, Halleran, Schuler and Winterburn, quarters; Flanagan, Anderson, halfbacks, and Hewitt, fullback.

Bowser, Holleran, Hewitt, Sauer and Williams are pointed out by Thornhill as outstanding stars in the Pitt line-up.

Livermore High Meets Tracy Five

LIVERMORE, Dec. 8.—The Livermore High School basketball five will help dedicate the Tracy High's new $40,000 gymnasium tonight, when it plays the Tracy quintet in the opening game of the season. The local boys will make the trip in automobiles and a big crowd of fans will accompany them.

The Livermore quintet is coming along rapidly and bids fair to be one of the best in the state. The team will probably line up as follows: McFlushey and Semone, forwards; Bonette, center, and A. Henry and R. Henry, guards.

The local High school will meet Fremont High and the Stanford freshmen some time in January.

Seniors and Sophs Win In Inter-Class

Famous Fights Of Long Ago

Dec. 8, 1892—Joe Goddard KO'd Peter Maher, 3 rounds, Coney Island.

Dec. 8, 1892—George Dawson KO'd Doc O'Connell, 20 rounds, San Francisco.

Dec. 8, 1902—Abe Attell defeated Buddy Ryan, 6 rounds, Chicago.

Dec. 8, 1903—Sam Langford defeated Joe Gans, 15 rounds, Boston.

Dec. 8, 1905—Stanley Ketchell KO'd Kid Herrick, Butte, Mont., 7 rounds.

Dec. 8, 1908—Jem Driscoll (Eng.) KO'd Charlie Griffin, 11 rounds, Philadelphia.

Dec. 8, 1913—George Carpentier KO'd Bombardier Wells, 1 round, London.

Dec. 8, 1913—Jack Britton, no decision, Packy McFarland, 10 rounds, Milwaukee.

Neville and Black to Meet Golf Champs

Hagan and Kirkwood to Show Skill With Sticks At Claremont Club.

The Claremont course will be in excellent condition for the exhibition match tomorrow, in which Walter Hagen, British open champion, and Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick shot wizard, who are on an extensive tour of the country, will be pitted against John Black and John Neville. Rain during the early part of the week threatened to interfere with the match tomorrow, but in the opinion of expert golfers who have been over the course within the past 24 hours the fairways have assimilated all surplus moisture and with clear weather today should be in perfect shape for one of the best matches of the year.

A large gallery is expected to follow the foursome over the Claremont links, for which a small charge will be levied, according to the committee of arrangements.

The visiting golfers, Hagen and Kirkwood, will be the guests of the Claremont Club tomorrow upon their arrival and an extensive entertainment for the visiting stars has been mapped out.

It is expected that the new first hole on the Claremont course will prove a severe test for the champions.

The new green on the fifth hole, although not yet in perfect condition for putting, is reported to be in fair shape and will improve playing conditions over the course greatly.

The seventh hole has been slightly changed, crossing the road with sandtraps in place of the old fence and the rough.

The ninth hole has a new green, which has not yet had time to set properly, but which will, in the near future, be in shape for a long, high approach which will hold the green.

New greens have been put in on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth holes and will require an exhibition of skill on the part of the visiting champions.

BOXING CHATTER

Jimmy Dundee and Bud Ridley were matched today to box the main event at the Auditorium next Wednesday evening. Jimmy Mendo and Tod Morgan, who boxed a draw last week, have been rematched. But Logan, welterweight, who has been cleaning up in Los Angeles, has been offered a bout with Chick Roach.

Ray Long, who has been knocking 'em over in the south, wants to come here and box. His father, who acts as manager, wrote yesterday that Ray was willing to tackle Jimmy Duffy, or he would box some lesser light in order to give the fans a line on him. He recently gave Jimmy Sacco and Teddy O'Hara a few pointers in the gentle art of socking.

Joe Simonich, the northern welter, will be here the first of the year for a match with Duffy. He defeated Dave Shade and has been winning regularly in the northwest.

E. L. Jewett announces the following card under the auspices of the American Legion to be held at Fresno the night of December 12: In the main event Sal Carlo, the San Francisco 148-pounder, will try conclusions with "Tiger" Johnny Cline, who recently held Jimmy Duffy to a draw.

"Not Dodging Any Fighter," Says Dempsey

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8. — Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, arrived home yesterday and declared he was "dodging nobody's challenge."

"I am ready to meet anyone in the world right now or any time suitable if the right kind of a promoter will offer a good inducement," Dempsey was quoted. "As for Jess Willard, I would like nothing better than to take him on, but where is the promoter who would stage it? To my way of thinking, Willard would be the easiest of the bunch, but I am ready for them all. It's only a question of the right promoter and the right offer."

OAKLAND BALL CLUB GETS BIGGEST SHAKEUP IN YEARS

WALTER MAILS MAY HAVE BEEN TURNED OVER TO OAKS IN DEAL FOR KREMER OR ARLETT

INFIELDER SMITH IS HIGH-CLASS PLAYER, ACCORDING TO REPORTS

Local Club Owners Are Doing Best to Live Up to Promise of Having Winning Team in the Field for Next Season.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

When it was learned that Manager Ivan Howard did not go to the meeting at Louisville, Kentucky, but that Secretary Herbert McFarlin had gone along with J. Cal Ewing and Del Howard, it was believed that there was some truth to the story that the Oakland Baseball Association would sell out to somebody at the meeting. Why the manager of the ball club was not taken to the meeting to have his say in the buying and releasing of players, nobody knows except the men who are running the affairs of the Oakland club, but we do know that Manager Ivan Howard can always use his staying at home from the meeting, as an alibi should his club fail to be up in the race. He can say that he had nothing to do with the picking of the club. But such an alibi may not be necessary, as the owners of the local club are living up to their promise of cleaning house and having an almost brand new ball club to show the fans.

It has been several winters and summers since the Oakland owners turned out so much news in twelve hours as they did yesterday from Louisville. They fired four of last season's players and hired three new ones, among the new ones being Pitcher Walter (Lefty) Mails. Del Howard and Cal Ewing promised early last October that they would make a strong bid for Mails and they acted on the advice of the southpaw pitcher, who said he would like to pitch for the Oakland club. Obtaining Mails alone is a big move toward building up a winning club for next season, as Mails figures to be one of the best southpaw pitchers in the minor leagues. Nothing is wrong with his pitching are as far as Louie Guisto knows. The big fellow could not get going right.

How Did Oaks Manage To Land Pitcher Mails?

Just what kind of a proposition the Oakland owners had to make to land Walter Mails has not been made known. In all probability they had to give the Cleveland club an option on the club or maybe Ray Kremer or "Buz" Arlett are involved in the deal. Almost every club owner in the Coast League went to Louisville with the intention of bidding hammer and tongs for Mails. Lou Moreing was the most surprised man in Sacramento yesterday when he learned that the Oaks got Mails. Mails was wanted at Sacramento again, and instructions were to get him at almost any cost. Moreing thinks that the Oaks had to give the Cleveland owners an option on the club or that Mails may have been turned over as part payment for Arlett or Kremer.

The Oaks are not finished looking up new ballplayers, according to a wire received from Secretary McFarlin. A deal for a new outfielder is expected to be closed today.

Oaks Got Good Infielder In Trade For Don Brown.

The releasing of Don Brown, Lynn Brenton and Deacon Jones came as no surprise yesterday, as Howard and Ewing stated some time ago that they would get rid of those three. Brown is a fine ballplayer when he wants to be, but he is too happy-go-lucky for his own good. Brown's style of playing often times made it look like he was loafing on the job. Brown was willing to forfeit a few weeks' salary toward the end of the season if the local management would let him return home. Brown goes to Galveston in a trade for Infielder Merwin Smith, a fellow about 24 years of age. Joe Devine says that Smith is the same lad who played for the Regina club in the old Western Canadian League in 1920. At that time he was a fine infielder, with a dandy throwing arm and was fast on his feet. He was very weak at hitting, but Joe says he may have overcome that in the last two years. He played under Bill Speas at Regina and was sold to the Dallas club in the Texas League. From Dallas he went to Atlanta and was then bought by Galveston. He bats left handed and throws right handed. He is the hustling type of player, like "Seacap" Christensen.

Brenton Was Mystery Man of Coast League.

Lynn Brenton's sale to Mobile did not surprise the fans. Brenton was given [illegible] to make good with the Oaks. In fact, Manager Ivan Howard was unjustly put on the grease by fans for starting him too often. Brenton was the mystery man of the league last season. Players of every club tried to figure him out. He had all the stuff to make a winning pitcher in a Class A A League, but he just could not win. When a fellow cannot win, it is best to cast sympathy to the winds and get somebody who can, so that is why Brenton will enjoy a change of scenery next season.

Gordon (Deacon) Jones pitched good and bad baseball for the Oaks. He was not a dependable pitcher. At times he looked like a Class A A chucker and other times he would look like he was working in company far too fast for him. However, Jones is a good, smart chucker and should get by nicely at Mobile.

The trading of Catcher Art Koehler for Marty McGaffigan was the big surprise to the fans. Koehler did not have a very good season as a hitter, but maybe his work would have looked better and been appreciated more had he not had such a big season in 1921. Howard is not taking any change of Koehler not being right next year again, so he put the trade through for McGaffigan while he had the chance. There is not a harder nor more willing working catcher in the league than Koehler.

Honus Mitze was told to make a deal for himself, and it was understood that Catcher Pete Read would be farmed out for a season to some Class A club. However, Read may now be retained and permitted to work oftener next season. The Oaks also have the veterans, Chet Thomas and Del Baker.

Portland Club Sells 'Kenny' To Columbus

Next Meeting of Minors May Be Held At Chicago; Outlaws Stay Out.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 8.—Organized baseball is not fattening a calf for its sons who became prodigals via the contract violation route, was the opinion today of observers who followed the meeting here of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

This conclusion was reached after the association's board of arbitration and Commissioner Landis yesterday withheld leniency from players who had served three years of their automatic five-year suspension for violation of contracts.

Ollie O'Mara, infielder, who turned his back on the Indianapolis club of the American Association in 1919, appeared in person to enter his plea for reinstatement. He played outlaw baseball in Wisconsin last year. His appeal was denied.

Pitchers Steele and Crum, who quit Indianapolis in company with O'Mara, also were up for reinstatement. Steele was placed in the same class with O'Mara. Crum was reinstated as he did not play with ineligibles last year, as had O'Mara.

CHICAGO AFTER MEETING.

A decision to hold their 1923 convention in Chicago, provided a joint meeting of the major leagues is called for that place at the same date by Commissioner Landis, was reached by the minor leagues at the close of their annual meeting here last night, as the result of a suggestion by Commissioner Landis.

In case a joint session is not held by the major leagues, the minors will meet in Nashville, Tenn.

A proposal of the majors to increase the player limit from forty to fifty was condemned in resolutions adopted by the association. Under the proposed fifty-player limit it would be possible for each big league club to have at least twenty-five men in the minor leagues under option. Such an arrangement, the minor leaguers contend, practically would give control of the player market to the majors.

Sales at record-breaking prices and rumors of such transactions ended yesterday with the departure of the major leaguers. Notable among the deals of the day, however, was the sale by the Cleveland Americans of Pitcher Walter Mails to the Oakland, Cal., club of the Pacific Coast League, and the purchase by the Columbus American Association club of William Kenworthy, second baseman, from the Portland, Ore., club.

KENWORTHY IS SOLD.

Kenworthy was suspended from [illegible] in the Pacific Coast league until 1924 by Commissioner Landis last spring. This action was taken by the commissioner when he discovered that President Klepper of the Portland club had sought to sign Kenworthy as manager of the Portland club two days after he had presented a claim for his release from the management of the Seattle club, ownership of which had just been released by Klepper.

Disposition of the Sioux City, Ia., franchise, which will be removed, and the sale of the Denver franchise to experienced baseball men, was given to committees for consideration. These questions are to be settled at the schedule meeting of the Western League next month.

REDMEN VS. RICHMOND.

CALEJO, Dec. 8.—The Redman will meet the Richmond basketball five here on December 20, and on December 29 the Benecia quintet is to come here for a game with the local Ridskins.

Weissmuller Puts in Busy Night in Tank

CHICAGO, Dec. 8. — Seven world's swimming records were broken here last night in a swimming meet held here under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic Club. Most of the new records shaved only fractions of seconds from the old marks.

Johnny Weissmuller, wearing the colors of the I. A. C., was the individual star, breaking two world's records and swimming with the relay team that broke the record for the 160-yard distance, open style. In the 100-yard free for all dash, open style, Weissmuller shaved one-fifth second from the former record of 52 2-5; in the men's 100-yard dash, back stroke, he lowered the record by one second, setting a new mark of 1:05 2-5.

Miss Sybil Bauer, I. A. C., won the women's 50-yard flash, back stroke, by establishing the new world's record of 34 4-5 seconds.

The Hyde Park high school of Chicago relay team, in medley race, set the new world record of 2:14 4-5, one and one-fifth seconds below the orld record.

Howell, of the Hyde Park team, set a new record for the interscholastic 100-yard free style dash, clipping off the distance in 55 4-5 seconds, one-fifth second under the former world's record.

Miss Bauer won the women's open 220-yard back stroke race, by breaking a world's record for the second time in the evening. Her time was 3:06 4-5, one second under the previous record.

Battery C Quintet To Meet Local Y.M.I.

LIVERMORE, Dec. 8.—The Battery C basketball team of Livermore meets the Oakland Y. M. I. tomorrow night at the Livermore Armory in the second game of the year. The Battery boys defeated the Del Monte fi veof San Francisco 57 to 15 in their first game, and are looking forward to a big year. Games have been scheduled with the Columbia Park boys, the Oakland Y. M. C. A. and the Oregon Aggies.

No Changes In Position Of Bike Teams

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—At the ninety-ninth hour Goullet-Belloni and Brocco-Coburn still were leading having done 1770 miles and six laps. There was no change in the position of the riders. The record for the hour is 1965 miles, made by Cameron and Kaiser in 1914.

At 1 a. m. when the race became 97 hours old, Goullet-Belloni and Brocco-Coburn had done 1732 miles and 9 laps each, with Goullet still in the lead.

Egg-Eaton were in their 1732nd mile and eighth lap, while a lap to the rear pedalled Grenda-McNamara, Madden-Kaiser, Horan-Fitzsimmons and Grimm-Gastman. In the sixth lap of the mile were McBeath-Rutt, Taylor-Lands, Kopsky-Azzini, Speissens-Eyckman, Hill-Verraes and Bello-Gaffney. Gremo-Gay trailed three laps in the rear.

The record for the hour is 1924 miles 4 laps, made by Goullet-Grenda in 1914.

One of these tail end teams, Speissens and Eyckman, led a successful sprint last night in which they gained a lap, but they were so far in the ruck that their coup did not affect the leaders.

Salt Lake Bees Sell Lynn to Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 8.—The Memphis Southern Association club has purchased Catcher Byrd Lynn from Salt Lake City and Pitcher Joe Dailey from Seattle, and First Baseman Beck from Witchita Falls, it was announced today.

Giant Outfielder Also Good at Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 7.—Ross Young, New York Giant outfielder, was eliminated, one up, in 21 holes, in a semi-final match for the golf championship of the new Alama County Club.

Changes Made In Circuit Of Western

By HENRY FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 8.—The moguls of the majors have left Louisville, but have taken everything else in the line of real baseball class that the minor league owners had to offer at their annual auction.

This year's session of the National Association convention was uneventful, with the exception of buying the best players the minors had to offer, the Louisville meeting was mostly conversation with little action.

Al Tearney, president of the Western League, was signed for five years after his objections to a clause in a contract previously offered him had been met. Tearney didn't want matters left so that a majority of club owners could remove him whenever they wished.

As for Judge Landis' demand that the "pool" evil in baseball be removed, there was no action taken.

William Klepper, barred as president of the Portland club, was to have his case decided at the meeting just adjourned, but nothing was done. Klepper threatened legal reprisals.

A change was made in the Western League circuit, Muskogee replacing Sioux City.

Carl East, leading hitter of the Western League last season, was bought from the Wichita club by Minneapolis of the American Association. The price was $9000.

The 1923 meeting of the minors will be held in Chicago.

S. P. ORDERED TO CUT RATES TO SOUTH. OREGON

Portland Gains From New Schedule, While Bay Region Loses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Railroad rates on classified freight moving from Portland, Medford, Klamath Falls and other jobbing centers in Oregon to consuming territory in southern Oregon, and northern California, were held today by the interstate commerce commission to be unreasonably high and to constitute a discrimination against the Oregon cities and in favor of San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton and Marysville, California.

The commission ordered a general reorganization of the rates applying to the traffic on the general principle of reducing slightly the charges on classified freight moving from the northern points and increasing slightly the rates to the same destinations on similar freight moving from the California cities.

Traffic association and shippers from all the cities named participated in the controversy submitted to the commission and the public service commission of Oregon supported the demand for the alteration granted today, while the railroad commission of California opposed it.

The commission's decision said that though the consuming territory lying along the Oregon-California border was approximately equal in distance from the California and Oregon centers, under the rate schedules Oregon shippers had been able to furnish less than 17 per cent of the total freight shipped into this territory.

Railroads concerned defended the higher rates from the north on the ground that grades were steeper and operating expenses greater than on the lines from the south.

The entire rate structure to points in California north of Red Bluff to the Oregon state line was ordered modified. The Oregon points to which the rates are to be altered are located in the Klamath Falls branch of the Southern Pacific.

Railway Orders For Equipment Show Big Jump

Total to Date Almost Double Las tYear; All Sorts of Cars Are Included.

The railroads of the country have installed or had on order during the first ten months of this year a total of 117,228 freight cars of various kinds. During the year 1921 a total of 69,436 was ordered or installed in service.

Of the total number installed or on order 50,196 were box cars of various designs, of which up to November 1 of this year 19,352 had actually been installed since January 1 last, while orders existed for 30,844 additional. During the entire year of 1921, 21,543 box cars were ordered and actually installed.

Reports also showed that the various railroad companies had ordered or have already installed 49,383 coal cars. During the first ten months of this year 26,812 had actually been installed in service, while 22,571 additional were under orders. Reports showed that 30,098 new coal cars were either placed in service or ordered during 1921.

There was also 16,730 new railroad owned refrigerator cars that had been installed or ordered from January 1 to November 1 this year, compared with 5555 during the same period last year.

Reports also showed an increase of 716 in the number of locomotives installed or on order during the past ten months this year, compared with the entire period of 1921. Locomotives installed up to November 1 totaled 866, while orders have been placed by the railroads of the country for 1922, making a total of locomotives installed or on order of 2558. BUSINESS & FINANCE

By H. S. SCOTT

Overnight news had little bearing on security values, so the New York market devoted most of its attention at the opening today to its own internal position, which gave evidence of having been impaired by sharp rebound against short interests earlier in the week.

National Lead was pushed up 2¾ to a new high record for the year, preferred advancing 2, and Piggly Wiggly established a new peak price. U. S. Alcohol and Allied Chemical were strong. The list turned heavy soon after the opening in response to a heavy offering of the rail shares and some of the speculative favorites, notably Studebaker, Baldwin, Corn Products and Continental Can, all of which receded large fractions to 1½ points. Material recessions also took place in St. Paul common and preferred, Union Pacific and Great Northern preferred. Crucible, International Harvester and Utah Copper were also reactionary.

Foreign exchange opened firm.

Special activity in Moon Motors, which gained fractionally to 17½, was based on the expectation of a more liberal dividend policy.

Sinclair failed to participate with any enthusiasm in the strength of the oils, because of the belief that 47,000 shares preferred offered by a syndicate for subscription was additional capitalization. There has been no change in Sinclair's capital structure. Stock offered is the balance of the $20,000,000 issue, and is to convert the 5-year 7¼% bonds.

Shares of the independent steel companies are suffering from neglect. They are not far from low levels of the year.

Reynolds Tobacco, selling without the 33⅓% due bill for the first time, vindicated the indications of recent buying of high calibre by running up to 49, equivalent to an advance of 3 points from where the old stock sold last week. In Consolidated Gas, International Paper, Corn Products, Cerro de Pasco and New York Central the tendency of recent buyers seems to be to hold on rather than to take quick profits.

Western Union's strength and activity is reported in some quarters to be due to expectation of an extra or enlarged dividend at the meeting of the directors, due this month. Attention is called to the large earnings and less surplus which was estimated at over $18,000,000 at the beginning of the present year.

Canadian Pacific is reported to have been rising on account of expansion in net earnings, which show a substantial gain in October over September and also as compared with October last year. Short covering is understood to be taking place for accounts which sold on the earnings slump early in 1922. The dividend is regarded as safe. No further action in this connection is due until February.

Prairie Oil and Gas moved up 5 points in the early trading on the curb to 640, and a gain of over 1 point was made in Prairie Pipe line. Standard Oil of Kentucky declined 2½ points to 135½. Indiana sold off, yielding over 1 point, but this loss was more than recovered before noon. The $25 par value stocks were steady.

New England Fuel declined to 56. Mammoth Oil advanced from 41¾ to above 43. Cities Service yielded to 193 during the forenoon, and then rallied over 2 points.

STANDARD OIL FILES INCREASE IN CAPITAL.

The Standard Oil Company of California today filed papers at the office of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan announcing an increase in their capital stock from $115,000,000 to $250,000,000.

Growth of the organization in recent years and discovery of valuable fields of oil has made assets of the organization far in excess of the authorized capital, according to President K. R. Kingsbury, and increase in capital stock was considered advisable.

BERKELEY BUSINESS GETS UP TO HIGH LEVELS.

Berkeley bank clearing for the week ending Thursday were $4,311,610, an increase of $1,018,072 over the previous week and against $4,279,540 for the same week a year ago, according to the weekly business summary of the Mercantile Trust Company. Other features reported by the bank include:

The shoe dealers are cashing in on the increased business as a result of the rainy weather.

The shipment of Christmas boxes has begun, and the grocers are being kept busy.

Slight falling off with the real estate companies, although they are unusually busy for this season of the year.

Price of leather is firm.

Lumbermen have observed a slight decrease for the week, but are congratulating themselves on the fact that business is considerably better than for the same period of 1921. They are exceedingly optimistic for the future.

Collections are exceptionally good.

WESTERN PACIFIC WOULD BUY REFRIGERATOR LINE.

[illegible] pany has asked the Railroad Commission for authority to purchase $99,500 of stock of the Western Refrigerator Line, a corporation recently formed to engage in the business of a refrigerator car line for the transportation of perishable and other commodities. Joined with the application of the Western Pacific is an application by the refrigerator line for authority to issue the stock. The total stock issue proposed is $100,000, of which $500 has been taken by proposed directors.

CAR LOADINGS BREAK ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

Railroad car loadings in the United States broke all previous records in September, October and November, with a total of 12,464,133 cars. A. B. Johnson of Philadelphia, president of the Railway Business Association, disclosed today. The highest previous total was registered for the same three months of 1921, when 12,392,861 cars were loaded.

Despite efforts of the railroads to create a surplus of rolling stock, a shortage has overtaken the country, said Mr. Johnson. Even members of the Railway Business Association, who make goods for consumption by the railroads, have had difficulty in getting cars, he declared.

Mr. Johnson stated that his organization had communicated to congress a request for laws limiting immigration "by quality instead of by number." This would help not only the railroads, but farmers and manufacturers, he asserted.

More than a million acres of California and Nevada desert land will be converted into highly productive farming areas if the plans announced by the Nevada-California Electric Corporation through Blyth, Witter & Co., its agents, are carried out.

The corporation proposes to expend upwards of $8,000,000 on construction work and betterments to existing plants within the next three years.

Included in the plan are seven hydro-electric plants which will add 46,500 horsepower to the company's production, and which will bring up the total output to 180,500 horsepower.

RAILWAY EARNINGS FOR OCTOBER DECREASE.

Earnings of class one railroads during October, according to Interstate Commerce Commission reports, compiled for the Association of Railway Executives, amounted to $85,234,000.

In October, 1921, railroads of that class, which operate nearly all the rail mileage in the country, earned $105,425,000.

The association calculated that the earnings this year represented an annual return of 4.05 per cent on the value of property used in railroad service, as this value has been tentatively fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Revenues from railroad operations during October this year were slightly above those for the same period a year ago, but the failure to show increased earnings was held to be due to expenditures, on maintenance of equipment.

During last October railroads reported having spent $130,212,600 on repairs to locomotives and cars, which was 16.2 per cent more than the amount spent one year ago for the same purpose.

The actual quantity of trac carried during October was 7½ per cent greater than the year before, but owing to rate reductions made during the year, revenues were but 2½ per cent greater.

BOND SALES POSTPONED FOR BETTER MARKET.

Because of present ratehr inactive demand the sale of a block of $5,000,000 California 4½ per cent highway bonds, scheduled for yesterday afternoon at Sacramento, was postponed until January 18, this being the second postponement. Similarly in Los Angeles a scheduled sale of two school bond issues bearing a 4½ per cent interest rate, went over to January 8.

State of California highway 4½ per cent bonds, due 1930-53 inclusive, are retailing here on a 4.25 per cent basis. State of California 5s also are obtainable on a 4.25 basis, and the 5¼s on about 4.35 basis.

NEW RULES TO GOVERN JUGO-SLAVIA EXCHANGE

Beginning January 1 banks in Jugo-Slavia will be obliged to keep all their accounts in dinars only, according to information received by Assistant Cashier B. R. Breese of the Central National bank. Beginning with that date all assets and liabilities shown on the books of the Jugo-Slavian banks in Jugo kronen wil be changed into dinars at the rate of four kronen for one dinar. All savings accounts in kronen will automatically be converted into dinars.

Under a new ruling of the Jugo-Slavian government banks in the kingdom of the Serbs, Crotians and Slavonians are henceforth forbidden in order to curb speculation in Jugo-Slavian exchange, to make offers to banks and bankers in foreign countries of Jugo-Slavian exchange against other currencies. This regulation forbids the banks from paying any other currency than the legal tender of that country. The only exception is in case the recipient can show to the banks a passport for emigration to this country with a visium of an American consul. In such cases the banks are permitted to pay to these persons an amount not exceeding the equivalent of French francs 3000 in American money, after the passports, with the proper visium, have been submitted to them.

Under the circumstances no drafts payable in actual U. S. currency should be issued on banks in Jugo-Slavia, but in case the payees intend to leave for this country, a money order, not exceeding $225, payable in U. S. currency, may be issued, and such order will be executed after the respective payees have complied with the regulations.

Seattle Shoppers Get an Early Start

SEATTLE, Dec. 8.—The late fall and warm early December has helped most merchandise lines except shoes. The rush of holiday buying was on before the merchants were fully ready for it. Checks on department store business made today indicate the gross turnover this year during the holiday season will be the largest Seattle has had since 1919.

BUSINESS WORLD HEARTENED BY MELLON REPORT

Treasury Secretary's Epitome Of Things Regarded As Financial Tonic.

By J. C. ROYLE.

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS.
SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—A feeling of greater confidence in the present situation and in the future, has spread through business circles in this country as a result of the report of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Business men in various sections and in many different lines voiced this opinion today, making it clear their attitude was based solely on the business significance of the report and not on any possible political aspect.

Financiers and business executives indicated that Secretary Mellon's report was effective as a business stimulant not because of any extreme optimism, but because while encouraging factors were fully enumerated, difficulties in the way of business also were fully recognized. This recognition by a spokesman of the administration was taken in some quarters as forecasting measures for removal of those difficulties.

BUSINESS PORTRAYED.

Secretary Mellon's report portrayed conditions identical with those, the details of which have been set forth in columns in this report for the last three months. His report said that prices of commodities had risen in that inventories were low were regarded by business today as continued activity for the six months.

Also he said farm products were selling too low at the farm and too high at distributing centers, he tempered this by declaring that crops were bountiful and that the severe depression in agriculture had been relieved. He laid strong emphasis on the fact that railroads were suffering from under-maintenance and inadequate equipment but stressed fully as strongly the heavy purchases of cars and locomotives.

Large employers took the secretary's comments on the shortage of labor, which he said was due to business expansion and restriction of immigration, to forecast an attitude on the part of the administration favorable to the letting down of immigration bars to some extent.

TAX REVISION.

The fact that no general revision of the revenue laws was suggested or additional taxes recommended, while at the same time a cut in the surtaxes was advocated, proved grateful news to many business men. The secretary's report, however, probably will not serve to check the tendency of corporations to increase capitalization and declare stock djvidends.

His comments on necessity for closing all existing avenues of escape from federal taxation were regarded as significant.

The attitude of many of the corporations which have declared stock dividends was clearly outlined by A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil of New Jersey.

"There is at the moment," said Bedford in part, "a proposal for government intervention in a certain phase of industry. It is based upon the allegation that earnings over dividends of a number of corporations of varied character have been sequestered for a number of years for the sole purpose of evading the super-income taxes of the shareholders of these corporations.

NOT IN FLUID FORM.

"As the merest novice in business will understand, the earnings over dividends of these corporations could not remain in fluid form but, as created, the growth of the enterprise requires that they be translated into tangible property representing plant, equipment and business facilities of these corporations. In the process, they were taxed as earnings and the remainder, thus invested in tangible property, becomes a fertile field of taxation by the state. These assets, which thus come into existence with an earning power distinct from the earnings of original capital investment, are the properties of the shareholders of any company."

MORRIS HINTS AT PACKER WAR IN ARMOUR MERGER

Statement Is Given Out That Proposed Combination Talk Is Hot Air.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—An unexpected turn in the discussed merger of the two large packing firms, Morris & Co. and Armour & Co., became known today when a signed statement was over the signatures of Nelson Morris, chairman of the board of directors, and Edward Morris, president, was made public.

The statement indicated that J. Ogden Armour, of Armour & Co., in visits to Washington and conferences with officials of the government on the proposed merger has not taken officials of Morris & Co. into his confidence. At least part of Morris & Co. officials' knowledge of his actions, as indicated by the statement, was obtained from newspaper reports.

The Morris & Co. statement read:

"We note by Thursday's morning papers that Mr. Armour has advised President Harding that we are anxious to be out of the packing business.

"This is news to us.

"While we realize that Mr. Armour is very anxious to acquire our business and our organization, up to the present time we have not put any price on same, and he has not made us an offer.

"Even if Mr. Armour should purchase our business it would not mean that we would remain long out of the packing business."

While no definite information has become available on Armour's argument to secure consent of the government to the merger, it has been rumored that he asserted overhead charges would be reduced, resulting in a saving to the public.

On this argument, the statement issued by Morris & Co., observers said, has a direct bearing as they declared they saw in its lines an intention of the two Morris brothers to re-enter the packing business in event their holdings were sold.

Cleveland Payrolls Growing Rapidly

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—Employment in the larger industrial plants in Cleveland has risen steadily since July. November figures made public today show that 86,834 worked in the 100 plants normally employing 5000 or more men. This compares with 61,423 in June. The increases last month mostly were in steel and fabricating plants and those making food products.

The decline in the price of pig iron has caused some of the makers of pig iron in the Mahoning Valley to slacken production but otherwise the situation is unchanged.

Atlanta Building Over 30 Million

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—Building expenditures in Atlanta during November exceeded $2,000,000, bringing the total for the year to date slightly over $20,000,000. Holiday traffic has over-taxed the railroads and shipments of building materials are falling still further behind. Shortage of labor in the building is being more pronounced.

Petroleum Chiefs Are All Re-elected

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8.—All officers of the American Petroleum Institute were re-elected. They are: Thomas A. O'Donnell, Los Angeles, president; R. D. Benson and H. L. Doherty, New York, and J. W. Vandyke, Philadelphia, vice-presidents; E. F. Sinclair, New York, treasurer, and R. L. Welch, New York, secretary.

42 CENT TURKEY RETAIL PLANNED BY CHAIN STORE

Large Quantities of Birds in Storage Expected to Keep Prices Down.

One of the largest chain store systems in the bay region has purchased over 25,000 pounds of turkeys for the Christmas market at between 25 and 37 cents a pound laid down here. These birds are expected to be offered in Oakland and Berkeley stores of the company at from 40 to 42 cents retail with the possibility of a cent or two advance on this for the very best of the lot. In the San Francisco storage house today there were reported over 200,000 pounds of holdover birds from Thanksgiving, which the owners will be more than pleased if they can let go of at 35 cents within the next three weeks. These storage birds are not plump enough to go into permanent holdover stuff for hotels and restaurants later in the season and must be cleaned up. These and other factors in the holiday prospects for turkey and poultry generally forecast a market not any higher than Thanksgiving and possibly a little below.

Garden truck from the south continues to arrive in large quantities. Bell peppers, lettuce, peas, beans and egg plant all from south of the Techachapi and principally from the Imperial valley are in good demand. On the other hand, the market is overloaded with such staples as apples, potatoes and sweet potatoes. Oranges, too, are only commanding a medium prime, notwithstanding the near approach of Christmas.

Shipments of principal fruits and vegetables decreased 4000 cars for the week ending Saturday, December 2, compared with the previous week, without any alarming advance in prices, according to the Weekly Fruit and Vegetable Review, issued by the United States bureau of markets. The heaviest decreases, the report stated, occurred in shipments of apples, celery, grapes, sweet and white potatoes. Onions continued to advance, although the storage for future shipment at present amounts to 2000 cars more than on hand at this time last year. Apple shipments decreased 1300 cars under last week, but the market remained about the same.

The potato market declined, despite the fact that shipments were less this week, northern round whites falling 10 cents per hundred pounds at shipping points and 15 cents in the local carlot market.

Other markets were fairly steady. Sweet potatoes were irregular.

Rice growers of Yolo county just barely escaped the storm of Wednesday, when a half an inch of rain fell, increasing the total precipitation for the season to 5.59 inches in that section. As it now stands, not a sack of rice will be lost, whereas, last season half of the crop was lost as a result of early rains. The weather this year has been ideal and the total crop has been harvested and placed in warehouses. There were some 20,000 acres in rice in Yolo county, running on an average of 35 sacks to the acre, meaning a total of 700,000 sacks, approximately, valued at $2,100,000, figuring rice at $3 per 100.

'Baiting Suckers' By Swindling Brokers Related

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The "boiler room" as a place where "suckers are hooked" by a certain type of stock brokerage house was described by Charles W. Minton, head of a brokers' investigation bureau, in testifying at the bankruptcy hearing of Dillon & Company, who failed in 1921.

"There are now operating in New York city a dozen crooked brokerage houses and more are being started every day," Minton declared. He then told the court how they operated. The "boiler room," he explained, is the telephone booth where salesmen call up persons named on their "sucker list" and try to sell stock by wire.

The first step after a crooked firm is organized, Minton said, is to buy a sucker list, such lists of as many as 100,000 names being easily obtainable.

"Then," he said, "the brokers go to work in the boiler room with a bottle of whisky and a supply of cigarettes in front of them so there is no chance of their weakening. A fair worker hooks an average of one sucker out of every five called up."

Asked where his bureau obtained information Minton said clerks discharged from financial houses supplied much of it.

EASTERN MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Although unexpected declines in Liverpool quotations led to a downturn here in the wheat market today at the outset, a rally soon took place. Failure of Argentine prices as well as those at Liverpool to respond to yesterday's reports of harvest delay and crop damage in Argentina was more than traders here were prepared for.

Gossip, however, that the President would address Congress today and might urge farm relief legislation helped to renew bullish sentiment. The opening, which ranged from ⅛c to ⅝c lower, with May $1.16⅛ to $1.16½ and July $1.07¾ to $1.07⅞, was followed by an interval of hesitancy and then by gains all around.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. After opening ⅛c to ⅝c lower, May 69⅝c to 69⅞c, the corn market scored slight gains.

Oats started a shade to ⅛c off, May 43c, sagged a little more, then began to climb.

Spreckels' Opponents Appeal to Stockholders to Delay Action For Time.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—It looks as if the fight for the control of the First National Bank of San Francisco and its affiliated First Federal Trust Company will develop into a free-for-all rough and tumble affair before December 20, the day for which the meeting of the stockholders has been called to vote on the controversy.

As the line-up at present stands, Spreckels has with him the interests controlled by former United States Senator James D. Phelan and Rolla V. Watt as well as the following of the vice president of the bank, John F. Brooke. The leaders of the opposition comprise Walter S. Martin, son of Mrs. Eleanor Martin, and representing the wealthy Martin estate interests; Clinton E. Worden, James K. Moffitt, W. T. Smith and Clifton H. Kroll.

Spreckels as president of the two banks is seeking the necessary votes to merge them with the Merchants' National Bank of San Francisco, headed by W. T. Summers, and the Sacramento-San Joaquin string of banks in the interior with headquarters in Sacramento, and controlled by James Henderson. This pooling of Spreckels, if carried out, would give a combination with resources of about $90,000,000. The opponents of the plan, who are desirous of joining the First National with the Crocker National, say that their project would give a combination with about $72,000,000 in resources. The success of the Crocker merger plans means the elimination of Spreckels from the control, and this is where the nub of the whole fight rests.

Following the appeal of Spreckels yesterday for support of the proposal to unite with Henderson and Summers, the so-called Crocker Bank contingent on the First National directorate today gave a statement for the benefit of the stockholders.

First National stockholders are asked in this statement, signed by five of the fourteen directors, not to vote hastily "on this eleventh-hour proposal advanced in indefinite terms on the eve of a change in the personnel of the board," and to withhold their decision until the election of a new board.

The statement is signed by Clifton H. Kroll, Walter S. Martin, James K. Moffitt, W. T. Smith and Clinton E. Worden.

Triple Lodge Mine Again in Rich Ore

ANGLES CAMP, Dec. 8.—Announcement is made by the company's officials that the Triple Lodge quartz mine, near here, is again in high grade. The strike has been made in a drift on the 500 level, catching the downward pitch of the rich ore body encountered on the 200 level. When that ore body was encountered the management decided to sink to the 500 and seek for it there. Accordingly the three-compartment shaft has been driven to that depth and the rich quartz is opening up most satisfactorily.

The company has recently acquired the El Dorado property adjoining its first holdings and has run a crosscut 500 feet into the El Dorado ground, encountering a ledge which returns assays values up to $16 a ton, states the management.

The company has a 20-stamp mill on the property which will be erected at once, as a big ore reserve has been blocked out.

TORPEDO BOAT HAS STRENUOUS TIME IN MAKING PORT

Fear Also Felt For Number of Fishermen Off Northern Coast.

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 17.—Storm beaten and unable to enter any of the ports south of here the United States navy destroyer No. 314, which left here Saturday returned here today to await calmer weather. The vessel, which is engaged in calibrating the radio compass at stations along the coast, after finishing the work here last week, at Fort Stevens and Kilpsan Beach, started south to call at ports between here and San Diego, Cal., but the sea was so rough off Coos Bay and other points that no entry could be made.

Several fishing boats operating off the Oregon and Washington coast have not been heard from and fear is felt for their safety. It may be that they are running before the storm or have put in at some of the isolated ports.

Unusually Large Meteor Reported

Captain John Schofield reported he was on the bridge at 7 p. m. chatting to his chief officer, when his attention was attracted by an unusual glow in the sky. This appeared to be a huge ball of fire falling in the direction of the ship, and, anxious that his passengers should also witness the extraordinary sight, he sent word to the dining saloons, and in a few seconds the passengers had hurried on deck. The luminous ball was still falling when the passengers came up, and then rapidly disappeared from view below the horizon. Then followed a brilliant flash, which illuminated the ocean for miles around. So powerful was the light sent out that a newspaper could be read on deck. This meteor, or comet, or ball of fire presentetd the appearance of a nebulous mass about the size of a full moon as it passed over the horizon.

In discussing the phenomenon, Captain Schofield said it caled to mind St. Elmo's fire, which was rarely seen by passengers or even by sailors. The visitation of St. Elmo's fire aboard a ship is considered by seamen a good omen.

GIANT CUNARDER ENTERS GATE ON WORLD TRIP

Steamship Laconia, With 500 Passengers On Board, Greeted By Tugs.

Greeted by a small fleet of tug boats and the tooting of welcoming whistles, the big trans-Atlantic liner Laconia of the Cunard line, entered the Golden Gate late this afternoon on her first around-the-world cruise. As the big steamer came into port her 500 passengers lined the rails and cheered back and 500 cameras took impressions of the scene from the steamer's rail.

According to Captain Brown, skipper of the Laconia, a wonderful trip has been experienced ever since leaving New York. A minimum of rough weather was encountered and all of the passengers are in the best of health and enjoying the trip thoroughly. During every day and evening at sea the passengers were kept amused by games and various forms of recreation and entertainment, while the days in port were spent ashore sighseeing.

The Laconia will be two days in this port and then will proceed to Honolulu. She will be joined here by Miss M. B. Cassidy and Mrs. Julia Fassett of Oakland.

The Laconia is the first of the Big Four around-the-world tourist ships which are coming from the Atlantic within the next two months. The next vessel to arrive will be the Resolute and she will be followed closely by the Empress of France. Later the Samaria, coming from the opposite direction, will put in through the Golden Gate. This is the greatest number of big globe-circling vessels that has ever put out in one season and all four will rank as the largest passenger ships to make San Francisco bay a port of call.

The Dog Watch

By FRANK CLIFF.

Ship tonnage is a confusing term to the average landsman. The difference between deadweight tonnage, gross and net tonnage, and displacement completely bewilders him. It is all very simple, however. There are five classes of tonnage which are rated as deadweight, cargo, gross, net and displacement tonnages. Deadweight expresses the number of tons that a vessel can transport of cargo, stores and bunkers. It is the difference between the number of tons of water a vessel displaces "light" and the number of tons it displaces when submerged to the Plimsol mark or load line. The term is also used interchangeably with deadweight carrying capacity.

Cargo tonnage is either weight or measurement. In England and the United States the weight tonnage is taken at 2240 pounds to the ton. In France the metric system is used. A measured ton is usually forty cubic feet to the ton.

Gross tonnage applies to vessels and not to the cargo. It is determined by dividing by 100 the contents in cubic feet of the vessel's closed-in spaces. A vessel ton is 100 cubic feet.

Net tonnage is the vessel's gross tonnage minus deductions of space occupied by accommodations for crew and machinery. The net tonnages expresses the space available for the stowage of cargo and accommodation of passengers.

Displacement is the tonnage weight of a vessel and its contents. This may be light or loaded displacement.

WILLIE HIGGINS DAMAGE EXTENSIVE.

The damage to the steamer Willie A. Higgins, which caught fire at the dock at Blaine, Wash., is reported to be quite extensive. Second Officer John Walborg was slightly burned while fighting the blaze.

The fire started when an ammonia tank exploded. Later this was followed by the explosion of two oil tanks in the engine room. The upper works of the vessel are reported to be burned away. Fire boats from Seattle responded to the alarm when it was found that the [illegible] successfully cope with the flames.

AMERICAN-HAWAIIAN INCREASES FLEET.

The 14,500-ton freighter Monticello has been added to the intercoastal fleet of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, according to announcement made yesterday by Fred A. Hooper, general freighter. She will leave Baltimore & Co. local agents for the American-Hawaiian fleet. The addition of the Monticello will give the American-Hawaiian company a fleet of thirty-two ships operating between the Pacific Coast and Atlantic ports. This is the largest privately owned fleet ever operated in intercoastal trade. The Monticello was formerly the J. H. D. Ahlers, a German freighter. bSe will leave Baltimore for San Francisco December 14.

PAUL FAULKNER RESIGNS.

Paul Faulkner, who has been publicity director of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for several years, has resigned to become assistant editor of the Pacific Marine Review. The change of position will take place Monday. Faulkner has been with the Pacific Mail company ever since its control was secured by the W. R. Grace company several years back. At that time he was with the former concern. He was transferred to the Pacific Mail service and has been holding the position ever since. His successor has not yet been named.

UNION OIL BUYS TWO SHIPS.

The Union Oil Company of California yesterday closed the deal for the purchase of two tankers from the United States Shipping Board. The vessels to be added to the Union fleet are the Uticarbon and Cathwood. Both ships are now at Mobile, but will be brought around to the coast within a short time. Both are of 10,000 register, and have carrying capacities of 75,000 barrels.

Loss of the Lyman J. Stewart and the increase in the oil-carrying business has made the purchase of the new boats necessary, according to the oil company officials.

APPLE CARRYING FLEET OF COAST IS AUGMENTED

Blue Star Line Puts On Refrigerator Ship to Help in Handling Trade.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 7.—Addition of the Royal Star, a new refrigerator steamship, to the apple carrying fleet from this port by the Blue Star Line, was announced today in advices to the Pacific Steamship Company, coast agents. The Royal Star is of 12,000 tons and rated at 14 knots an hour. She is due here January 11, when it is hoped to have 150,000 boxes of apples ready besides bookings in British Columbia.

The steamship Cordova, which returned here today after discharging ore at Tacoma, was taken off the Alaska run for the winter. Several more vessels in that traffic are expected to be laid by soon on account of the seasonal slackness.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I take this method of expressing my sentiments of appreciation to Dr. Wong Him for the wonderful cures he has effected in cases where several members of my family, including myself, were afflicted with serious maladys.
I also desire to be the means of guiding any one who is in need of medical advice, as he will find Dr. Wong Him to be a thoroughly reliable herb specialist and absolutely conscientious. Through an occurrence experienced by a member of my family, I can, with the greatest regard for sincerity, state that after a consultation unless Dr. Wong Him is convinced that his herbs will effect a complete cure he will under no circumstances accept the case.

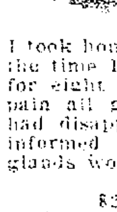
Cancer Avoided



Oakland, Oct. 2, 1922
I suffered with several lumps under my arms and the glands in my breast and arms pained so that I could not sleep at night. Moreover, I could scarcely raise my arm for pain. Failing to obtain relief elsewhere, I tried the FONG WAN HERBS, which I took home and cooked myself. By the time I had taken the Herb Tea for eight weeks, not only was my pain all gone, but the lumps also had disappeared. The doctors had informed me that those enlarged glands would form a breast cancer.

Orchard Home

I have just completed a beautiful 5-room art bungalow at Hayward, near Cherryland, on a magnificent orchard lot of full grown apricots. The house is complete in every detail. Hardwood floors, the finest plumbing and best materials throughout. I built it by day labor for a home and personally passed on every stick of timber and every detail. I find now that I must sell it and offer it for $500 down and the rest like rent. If you want a brand new suburban home in a high class subdivision where you can raise chickens, vegetables, squabs, flowers, berries, you'll like my place. My wife planned the house and it's a beauty. Deal direct. See JOHN A. DONEY, Sunset Boulevard and Castro sts. Hayward. Phone Hayward 709.

AUTO HITS MAN; DRIVER ESCAPES

BERKELEY, Dec. 8.—Search is being made today for the driver of an automobile truck who early this morning ran down and injured E. W. Rivers, 54 years old, an employee of a Berkeley factory, residing at 1905 Berkeley way, at University and San Pablo avenues.

Rivers was struck as he alighted from a northbound San Pablo avenue car, as he was returning to his home from work on a night shift. According to witnesses the truck driver was traveling at a fast rate of speed and went fifty feet before bringing his machine to a stop. The driver assisted in placing the injured man in a passing automobile and then disappeared.

Rivers was not seriously hurt. At Temple hospital he was treated for cuts and abrasions.

Lovett Makes Plea for End of Railroad Merger

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (By the Associated Press).—Financial aspects of the proposed separation of the Southern Pacific Railroad from the Central Pacific were put before the Interstate Commerce Commission today by Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the U. P.

"The Union Pacific is willing to buy the Central Pacific at a fair price from the Southern Pacific," Judge Lovett said in response to questions by Fred H. Wood, counsel for the Southern Pacic.

"That is the Union Pacific is willing to make the purchase provided that the Central Pacific can be separated from the Southern Pacific under conditions that will let it live. But we are not trying to buy the Central Pacific though we are willing to do so. All we ask here is that the two lines be separated so that competition may be maintained and not limited in transcontinental railroad operation."

PUBLICITY EXPENDITURES.

H. A. Scandrett, counsel for the Union Pacific, asked Judge Lovett to meet the criticism of its position and its publicity expenditures which Southern Pacific representatives had voiced before the commission.

"We found a movement on the Pacific coast favoring retention of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific," Judge Lovett said, "and we found that the Southern Pacific people, with their usual ability, were doing everything they could to get public backing on the Pacific coast with that object in view. Then the interstate commerce commission's tentative plan for consolidation of railroads proposed the maintenance of the association of the Central and Southern Pacific.

"We agreed that it was necessary for the Union Pacific to let the Pacific coast people know what we conceived to be our rights and to explain the course we intended to pursue. We agreed that, further, we ought to take steps to meet this coast campaign and so the fight got started.

CAMPAIGN ENDORSED.

"I never kept in touch with the details though I knew that many agencies were employed for the purpose of influencing communities and organizations and I fully endorsed and approved the purpose of the campaign. Of course, we were engaging in politics, and in a certain sense in war and many things were done because of that feeling."

"You know that the commission has a responsibility for the economic operation of railroads," Commissioner Meyer suggested. "Did you consider that expenditures of this sort were properly chargeable against the railroad's operation?"

"We considered that," Judge Lovett responded. "It was decided not to charge these to the operating expenses of the Union Pacific system. Expenses of this sort are perfectly legitimate, however, and must be made in protecting the interests of the company and I wouldn't feel that I was carrying out my duty to the stockholders unless I authorized them."

WHERE MONEY CAME FROM.

"But you feel that such expenditures are properly chargeable to the stockholders themselves," Commissioner Meyer proceeded, "rather a charge against those who use railroads, and did not include them as operating expenses?"

"We never had any other thought than that," Judge Lovett assured him, "and the expenditures in this matter were finally paid out of the profit and loss account of the Union Pacific company."

Continuing his direct testimony, Judge Lovett declared that the Central Pacific company, if separated from the Southern system would be financially sound. Since 1912, he estimated, as a corporation, the Central Pacific has met all fixed charges, paid dividends and accumulated a surplus of $18,000,000.

Lovett declared the Union Pacific could never be satisfied with a Central Pacific system dominated by the Southern Pacific. Only "some sort of a recall of the decisions of the Supreme Court," he said, would allow the Interstate Commerce Commission to consider the Southern Pacific's application.

It was the inevitable tendency of the unified railroad organizations of the Central and Southern Pacific to throw business southward to the Sunset line and away from the Central Pacific, Judge Lovett asserted.

Commission to Study Rail Consolidations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on proposals to consolidate railroads in the west will be resumed in Washington on January 17.

After completing the evidence in the northwest territory, the commission will consider arguments on its tentative proposal to join the U. P. and the Chicago and Northwestern; the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, Colorado Southern, Denver and Rio Grande and others and the Southern Pacific, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis and others.

Hearings also will be held in Western states some time after January. It was announced.

$661,628 WEEK'S BULIDING RECORD

A summary of applications for building permits for the week ending December 6 shows a total of 174 permits, involving $661,628. These include 84 permits for one-story dwellings, amounting to $238,311, two apartments totaling $49,000 and a two-story apartment and store to be constructed at a cost of $11,000.

A steel frame office, stores and garage will be built by an electric code company on West Harrison street, between Eighth and Ninth, at a cost of $30,000.

Sixteen permits were requested for additions, involving an outlay of $11,515, and 17 were asked for alterations and repairs involving the sum of $6305.

CITY BANDSTAND TO BE FINISHED

To finish the municipal bandstand before spring, the city council this morning ordered the transfer of $10,000 from the general fund into the park department.

The soft-drink license of Steve Robinson, 8302 East Fourteenth street, was revoked. The sum of $20 was appropriated for the expenses of James T. Drew, chief of police at the Peace Officers' Association convention at Fresno, December 6. The improvement of Valley street was ordered planned, from Twenty-first to Twenty-fourth.

MAN IMITATES REAL HANGMAN IN KILLING SELF

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—Imitating the method of the professional executioner in preparing for an official killing, Orpheum Fardin, 39 years old, hanged himself in his hotel at 214 Jackson street today. Fardin had threatened suicide and had been confined in an institution for a week as the result of a nervous breakdown.

Today, after awakening a man who wanted to be called at 7 a. m., he went into a storeroom, carefully adjusted a sheet about his head, placed a noose over a bar and jumped off from a ledge on the side of the wall. He was dead when his body was cut down two hours later. A widow and two children survive him.

RIPARIAN RIGHT CASE IN COURT

The riparian water rights of all Northern California came up in Superior court today as two motions in the Antioch water suit were argued before Judge A. F. St. Sure.

On of the motions being heard is to allow 100 new interveners in the original suit, and the other petition is to allow the original plaintiffs and interveners to increase the number of defendants to 6328.

Thirty attorneys, including some of the most prominent and able lawyers in the state, are taking part in the suit and are presenting their arguments to the court.
